MILLIONS IN GIFTS TO COLLEGE FUNDS

Pratt Family Adds $1,750,000 Endowment to Institute Founded by Father.

$450,000 GIVEN TO YALE

W. D. and H. T. Sloane Give $425,000 for Laboratory and A. G. Vanderbilt Contributes $25,000—Other Gifts.

Charles M. Pratt, son of the founder of Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, and now its President as well as the General Secretary of the Standard Oil Company, selected the occasion of the Founder's Day exercises of the institute, held yesterday in the Emmanuel Baptist Church, St. James Place and Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, to make known the endowment to the institute by himself, his five brothers, and his sister, Mrs. E. B. Dane, of $1,750,000. The sum is the largest single gift which has been made to the institution since Charles Pratt, the founder, donated $2,000,000, twenty-two years ago, to found the institute.

Mr. Pratt announced also yesterday that the Trustees of the institute had determined to endow a Pratt foundation to pension the teachers. The plan by which this will be done has not been developed fully as yet, and consequently, Mr. Pratt said, he could not give details of it. It will be put in operation shortly, however.

"We hold the institute as a permanent responsibility," said Mr. Pratt, in mentioning the endowment, "and we are determined to do our duty by it. The institute must abide and outlive us. I trust that those who follow us will further the plans now proposed as we have furthered those proposed by Charles Pratt, my father."

Since the foundation of the institute there have been several gifts made to it by Mrs. Charles Pratt, wife of the founder and mother of its President, one gift alone amounting to $700,000. The institute has required only a small fee in return for the educational advantages and opportunities it offers, however, and in consequence, it is said, its books have shown a deficit for several years past. It has been said also that this deficit reached truly alarming proportions this year.

Frederick B. Pratt, a brother of Charles M. Pratt, who is Secretary of the Board of Trustees, composed entirely of sons of Charles Pratt, the founder, six in number, admitted last night that yearly for some time past, the institute had cost more to maintain than resulted from its earnings or from the income of its various endowments, and this deficit had been paid yearly by the estate of the late Charles Pratt.

The fund endowed yesterday, said Mr. Pratt, has been accumulating for five years, and was actually brought to the point where the Trustees felt that the income from it would hereafter meet all expenses, in last July. It was determined, however, to reserve the announcement for Founder's Day, when other endowments have been announced, he said.

The institute, in its twenty-two-year-old existence has grown, practically from a trade school to almost a college. Charles Pratt endowed it for "the promotion of industrial education and practical work," and the first department to be opened to the public was the drawing department. The mechanical and art departments followed quickly and at present the institute offers a regulation high school course, courses in fine arts, domestic arts, domestic science, science and technology, and maintains a kindergarten, library, and gymnasium. There are 3,800 pupils in attendance on its various courses.

The library contains nearly 80,000 volumes, and practically was the first public library in Brooklyn. It is of the library that the Pratt brothers are especially proud, for the method of conducting a public circulating library originated there has been adopted in the public libraries of Brooklyn. The plan of placing books on shelves where they might be examined by borrowers before a selection is made was first put in effect in the institute.

One of the most novel features of the institute and one which the members of the Pratt family feel has accomplished the most good, perhaps, is The Thrift. This is a practical banking house, maintained for the savings and investments of students. In its origin it was intended primarily to lend out money on bond and mortgages which might be repaid in monthly installments. Two years ago, however, it was incorporated under the laws of the State, and is now a regular banking institution.

The officers of the institute now are Charles M. Pratt, President; Frederick B. Pratt, Secretary; George D. Pratt, Treasurer, and Herbert L., John T., and Harold I. Pratt, members with their brothers of the Board of Trustees.

SLOANES GIVE YALE $425,000.

William D. and Henry T. Sloane Provide Funds for a Laboratory.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4.—William D. Sloane and Henry T. Sloane of New York have given $425,000 jointly to Yale University to build, equip, and endow a laboratory for the study of physics. The bequest was announced to-day at the Fall meeting of the university corporation. It was accepted with appreciation not only of the value of the gift but of the effort made by the donors to stimulate the university spirit at Yale.

It is stipulated that the laboratory shall be used by the academic, the scientific, and the graduate departments. It will be the only laboratory of its kind at Yale to be thrown open for general university use.

Less than a year ago members of the family of the late John Sloane of New York gave $100,000 to Yale, and to-day's gift brings up the total of benefactions of the family to approximately $750,000. The site for the new laboratory has not been selected.

The gift of $25,000 from Alfred G. Vanderbilt for general endowment purposes was announced. This is the second gift of $25,000 from Mr. Vanderbilt.

To the endowment of the Yale School of Forestry $15,000 was added by George Hewitt Meyers, an alumnus. This subscription will enable the university to fulfill its conditions with the general education board, from which the university is receiving assistance.

Among other gifts which the university has received is a fund left by the late Charles H. Farnam of New Haven, the income of which, amounting to $4,000 a year, is to be devoted to the department of history.

The election of Prof. William Reynolds Vance to the Chair of Testamentary Law and Insurance in the Yale Law School was announced. Prof. Vance is dean of the law department of George Washington University in Washington, and was formerly dean of the law department of Washington and Lee University. He will assume his duties at Yale next year.

Dr. Albert Siebert has been appointed by the Prussian Government exchange instructor in German at Yale for this year.

Trustees Announce Several Large Benefactions for the Year.

At their opening meeting of the year yesterday the Trustees of Columbia University announced the receipt of gifts to the amount of $230,962. The greatest individual donation was the $112,500 given by H. W. Carpentier, '48, which is to be added to the James S. Carpentier fund, and second to this comes an anonymous gift of $100,000 toward the cost of Kent Hall.

The class of '84, science, has given $5,000 for the improvement of South Field, and Mrs. Charles C. Auchincloss has added to the equipment at the Medical School by a gift of $3,000. Other donors increase the endowment by over $2,000.

It was also announced at the same meeting that the present total registration is the greatest in the history of the university.

President Kilgo Praises Rich Men of Wall Street for Benefactions.

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 4.—"Wall Street," said President Kilgo of Trinity College to-night in a "benefactors' day" address, "is a place of great traffic and strife, but its gifts of $60,000,000 to schools and libraries show that more of the money comes from rich men than any other source."

Donations of $84,000 to Trinity were announced. President Kilgo, in referring to the gift of $50,000 by B. N. Duke for the erection of buildings, declared Mr. Duke was the type of man who gives the country no concern as to what to do with its millionaires.

$25,000 Gift to New York University.

The Rev. Henry M. MacCracken, as Chancellor of New York University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College, officially welcomed the college's entering class in the Carnegie Laboratory yesterday afternoon. The freshman class this year promises to be somewhat larger than that of last year, which contained 154 students. Contracts for extending Carnegie Laboratory amount this year to $100,000. A bequest of $25,000 to the college was also announced.

EDMOND KELLY IS DEAD.

Counsel for Anna Gould in de Castellane Suit—Author and Socialist.

Ill for many months, Edmond Kelly, prominent as a lawyer, author, and lecturer both in New York and in Europe, died at his home on North Mountain, Nyack, yesterday morning. Mr. Kelly was 58 years old and is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. Frank Wylie of Oxford, England.; Shaun Kelly, a law student in New York, and a young son, Edmond Kelly, Jr.

Born in 1851 Mr. Kelly received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Columbia University in 1870. He attained the degree of Master of Arts and Doctor of Laws in 1875 from Columbia, and in 1881 was made Master of Arts by Cambridge University.

Before removing to England to enter Cambridge Mr. Kelly practiced law in New York City for two years, 1877-1879. He then made his home abroad for thirty years. During his residence in Paris Mr. Kelly was made Master of Law at the French bar and later became counsellor for the United States Embassy at Paris. He was also made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor just before coming back to the United States in 1907.

While engaged in the practice of law in Paris Mr. Kelly undertook the cause of Anna Gould, the Princess de Sagan, in the winning of a divorce from Count Boni de Castellane. Prominent Americans abroad sought his counsel and advice.

During the thirty years spent in Paris Mr. Kelly entered the literary field, being the author of several law treatises, among which are "Evolution and Government" and "The French Law of Marriage." He also interested himself in the study of Socialism and returned to America two years ago to devote himself to further investigation.

Mr. Kelly was a member of the Century Club of New York City and was the founder of the City Club. He was also a member of several London and Paris Clubs.

Mr. Kelly was married twice, his first wife being Miss Bastow, who died many years ago. By his first wife he had two children, Mrs. Frank Wylie of Oxford, England, and Shaun Kelly of New York City. His second wife, who survives him, was Miss Thuresson of Canada. By his second wife he had one child, Edmond Kelly, Jr., who also survives him.

The funeral will be held from his North Mountain residence, Nyack, Wednesday, and will be private.

TOWN TOO BUSY FOR SUICIDE.

Last Week's Death Rate, 13.62, One of the Lowest on Record.

Health Commissioner Darlington said yesterday that the death rate of New York last week was one of the lowest on record, it being 13.62, as against last year's rate of 14.15. Deaths from violence, which include all casualties and suicides, totaled 68, whereas 83 deaths under this head were recorded for the corresponding period last year. The Commissioner said that it seemed as though persons were so occupied with the Hudson-Fulton Celebration that they had no time to think of suicide.

The comparative figures, as shown on the department's mortality return for last week and the corresponding week in 1908, are:

| Total deaths | 1,193 | 1,200 |
| Death rate | 13.62 | 14.15 |
| Diphtheria and croup | 13 | 21 |
| Typhoid fever | 25 | 19 |
| Diarrheal diseases | 164 | 184 |
| Pulmonary tuberculosis | 118 | 153 |

E. P. Wilbur Seriously Ill.

EASTON, Penn., Oct. 4.—A message was received to-day from the Thousand Islands telling of the serious illness at his Summer home there of E. P. Wilbur, former President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company.

REGISTRATION FALLS BELOW OTHER YEARS

BANNARD LOOKS FOR FRAUD

Sends Out an Appeal in Which He Urges Honest Voters to be on the Lookout.

Complete returns from all the boroughs of the registration figures for the first day show that despite unusual efforts had been made, especially by the Republican leaders, to bring out a large registration on the first day, there has been an alarming falling off, not alone when the comparison is made by the registration figures of last year, but when the figures are compared with those of the first day's registration in 1905, when the last municipal election took place.

The heaviest falling off is in the Republican districts. The districts below Fourteenth Street on the lower east side which are generally conceded as Sullivan territory have done better than any other part of the city.

Returns from the whole city show that 37,540 more voters registered on the first day last year. Last year, of course, there was a Presidential election, which always brings out a bigger registration. But yesterday's figures were more than 13,000 below the registration on the first day of the last Mayoralty campaign. This was four years ago, and there has been a considerable increase in the voting population since.

Although extraordinary efforts had been made by the leaders of both parties, but more especially by the Republican leaders, to get out a big registration on the first day, the response was disappointing.

The tardiness with which the voters responded to the repeated pleas on the part of the leaders that they register early prompted Otto T. Bannard, the fusion nominee for Mayor, to add a plea of his own. He sent out the following statement:

> In my speech of acceptance, I said: "A free and fair ballot is our fundamental right, and a ballot thief is no better than a burglar or a murderer."
>
> Evidence multiplies that Tammany is preparing extensive frauds. This is indicated by what has already taken place at the recent primary, when violations of the law by Tammany in New York County were so palpable that the Attorney General, acting on matters referred by Gov. Hughes, felt called upon to appoint as special prosecutors R. P. Bell and Benjamin Reass, the latter a member of the Independence League and successful in similar prosecutions in 1907. Also, a Supreme Court Judge has enjoined the meeting of a convention in Queens County on account of alleged fraudulent acts of Tammany allies there.
>
> Representative Herbert Parsons has made grave charges, alleging that at the instance of Tammany additional safeguards to prevent illegal voting were defeated at Albany last Winter.
>
> I owe it to the many thousands of my fellow-citizens, who will vote for me to prevent, if possible, the offsetting of a single honest vote by a dishonest vote. To do this, I call upon all good citizens to watch the registration lists in their own localities, and to report at these headquarters irregularities where found. Such reports will be immediately investigated and action taken.

The returns by Assembly districts, compared with last year's registration and by boroughs with the registration figures during the first day of 1905, the last municipal election, are presented in these tables:

Arthur Luddington, a Columbia law student, was one of the first to get into the clutches of the police. The complainant against him was Joseph J. Madden of 66 East Broadway, a clerk for Max S. Levine, a Tammany Alderman and an inspector of the Registry Board at 11 Market Street. Luddington, it appeared in court, had attempted to copy the registry records on a set of printed blanks he had in his possession and declined to desist when ordered by the Chairman of the board to do so. Magistrate Barlow discharged him.

When Lawrence Driggs, a Deputy Attorney General, applied to Magistrate Finn in the Jefferson Market Court for some blank subpoenas which he wanted the Magistrate to sign, and then he (Driggs) would fill them in as occasion required, the Magistrate replied:

"I'll do nothing of the kind. The idea! You bring your evidence and I will issue warrants, as many as you need, but I'll not stand for any harassing of voters. What do you think this court is for—to issue bait for people to go off on fishing expeditions? I guess not. I don't care what they do in other courts. I'm willing to help you and every one at all times, but not for fishing expeditions."

In order not to miss the many notable features in next Sunday's Times it is important to place orders with news dealers to-day.

TOO LATE FOR FULTON SHOW

So Now It May Remain a Fixture at Least for Several Months—Built by a Society by the City's Permission.

For the last ten days thousands of persons traveling up and down Times Square have been wondering what might be the meaning of the strange high scaffolding at the upper end of the square between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Streets, and the heroic-sized, snow-white figure growing up within it. Two days ago the figure began to put on the face of a woman, whereupon the interest of Broadway concerning it grew more intense than ever.

Shopkeepers on both sides of the square, restauranters and hotel men, theatrical man and box office and ticket sellers questioned each other and every one they met, but no one knew just why or what the strange figure was to represent. Cigar stores and barrooms did a thriving business by merely introducing discussions of it.

The wideawake traffic policeman at that post tried his "sleuthiest" to unravel the mystery. Some of the storekeepers had said the figure was to be a Hudson or a Fulton. But the celebration passed, and the figure put on a woman's face. Others said it was to be a great white symbol of Purity to shine a moral upon the Great White Way. A newsboy assured the traffic man that it was to be another Statue of Liberty.

The traffic policeman and some few thousand other people inquired of the two laborers at work upon the huge plaster cast. One shook his head sadly; the other, a small Japanese, smiled like a Bret Harte Chinaman and declared:

"I don't know nothing. Find out. Good-bye."

Then he skipped into the scaffolding.

The Japanese workman would not tell who was honorable boss or honorable sculptor nor even hint of who might be the honorable figure. The policeman learned that a permit to erect a temporary statue had been granted and suspected that it might be for political or election purposes of the powers above him, and did not inquire further.

A search yesterday, however, disclosed the identity and purpose of the great white lady in the scaffold, and to-night, when the lights begin to flicker on Broadway there will shine out in the heart of the city's twenty-four-hour centre a snow-white lady of some fifty feet and eighty tons—plaster, it is true, but full of moral and meaning—to stand as the emblem of the city's purity and beauty, defending herself against the mud-throwers and slanderers that so often assail her.

The great white statue, which is to be called either "The Defence of New York" or "The Defeat of Slander," is being erected under a permit from the Bureau of Incumbrances, in accordance with a resolution passed by the Board of Aldermen on Sept. 14 and approved by the Mayor on Sept. 24, granting to the "Association for New York" of 111 Broadway permission to build and maintain such a statue at its own expense until Dec. 1, 1909.

At the office of the association, whose President is William Harmon Black, former Commissioner of Accounts, it was said yesterday that the original intention had been to unveil the huge emblem of civic pride and confidence in the city's integrity, in time for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, so that others might see us as we sought to see ourselves; but that the Mayor's approval had come too late for that. The purpose of the association, it was said, is "to challenge indiscriminate abuse and criticism of New York City, to set forth her advantages as a place of residence for the citizen, as a point of production and distribution for the manufacturer, and as a mart for the merchant." The association, which was organized last Spring, has among its members S. P. McConnell, ex-President of the George A. Fuller Company; H. H. Raymond of the Clyde Steamship Line, Thomas J. McGuire, Joseph F. Simmons, Chester A. Alexander, Floyd Charles Furlow, William H. Black, and Thomas W. Hotchkiss. Among the slanders and unjust criticism which it aims to put down, according to Mr. Black, are the frequent assertions that the city has reached its debt limit and has poor credit, and the aspersions constantly cast upon the integrity and honesty of the municipal authorities. This purpose, it is believed, can be served as well now as during the Hudson-Fulton Celebration; and the statue will therefore survive the occasion that gave rise to it.

"The figure will be fifty feet high, built of fifty barrels, or eight tons of plaster, at a cost of several thousand dollars," said Mr. Black yesterday. "It is the work of Leo Lentelli, a young Italian sculptor of this city, and will represent a tall and snow-white woman of majestic figure and mien, somewhat angry and even disgusted at the slander and unjust fault-finding she has been subject to.

"On her left arm she will bear a great white shield, on which is inscribed 'Our City,' and whereon, too, will be visible great dark blotches and spots to typify the mudslinging she has warded off. The statue will be cast into bold relief by strong searchlights cast upon it from the near-by Acme Building; and above her forehead will be a classic fillet, rimmed with soft blue electric lights."

Mr. Black said that there was no political motive behind the erection of the statue, and that it would not be used as a centre for political gatherings or speeches. It would simply, he said, stand as an artistic, silent exhortation to civic pride and confidence.

ADMIRAL SEYMOUR GUEST OF PILGRIMS

Noted Men of Many Nations Greet King Edward's Envoy at Waldorf Dinner.

WORLD'S AMITY THE THEME

"Hands Across the Sea" Emblazoned on the Walls—Sir Edward Responds to Cordial Speeches.

Many men of National prominence in politics, business, and the law, as well as those who have guarded the Nation's flag afloat in peace and war, gathered last night in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria to do honor to Sir Edward Hobart Seymour, the official representative of King Edward at the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, and to Rear Admiral Frederick Tower Hamilton, who commands Great Britain's fifth cruiser squadron, now lying at anchor in the Hudson.

They were Pilgrims—these men who dined the British Admirals—members of the Society of Pilgrims of the United States, an organization one of whose functions is to entertain noted foreigners visiting here and to promote international good feeling at all times. They did all they could last night at the love feast to further the spirit of friendship between England's fighting sons and the people of this Nation.

Peace and good fellowship were the keynote of the speechmaking which followed the dinner, and these sentiments were observed even in the decorations of the room, for across the wall, high in the rear of the guests' table, were two clasped hands outlined in electric lights, and over them an arrangement of electric bulbs spelled "Hands Across the Sea." At the sides, draping from the ceiling to the floor, were the British and American flags intertwined.

Many officers from the fighting ships of other foreign nations now at anchor in the Hudson were among the guests, and gold epaulets and gold lace glittered in the glare of lights at almost all of the fifty tables. Five hundred of the Pilgrims were there. More would have come had the space allowed.

J. P. Morgan was one of them. He sat on the right hand of Admiral Seymour and chatted with him throughout the dinner. Attorney General Wickersham was there also, and spoke. So was Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright of the battleship Georgia, who welcomed the visiting Admirals and told them how glad the officers of our navy were to reciprocate in a measure the warm welcome accorded to our ships by England and her provinces during the voyage around the world. Job Hedges also spoke, as did Melville Stone and C. F. Moberly Bell, manager of The London Times.

The galleries overlooking the tables in the ballroom were filled with the wives, daughters, and friends of the diners. It was a brilliant scene. Now and then a group of kilted Scotch bagpipers marched through the room, playing "The Campbells Are Coming" and other Scotch airs familiar to the ears of the British visitors. Once, toward the end, a fife and drum corps of the Seventy-first Regiment marched along the edge of the tables, and the diners cheered them heartily.

There were cheers for the President of the United States and for King Edward, and the guests of the evening—three cheers and sometimes a tiger. W. Butler Duncan, President of the Pilgrims, was toastmaster. He had arranged the seats at the guests' table so that Attorney General Wickersham should sit on one side of Admiral Seymour and himself on the other. But in some way Mr. Wickersham was shunted to a seat six chairs away, and Mr. Morgan occupied the seat which had been intended for the Attorney General.

In his address of welcome Mr. Duncan said that the best guarantee for peace is to be prepared for war; that this sentiment was one of the principles of the Pilgrims, and that it was emphasized by the fact that Field Marshal Earl Roberts was President of the Pilgrims' Society of Great Britain.

Admiral Seymour, in response, said that he had been deeply moved by the reception given to him and his fellow officers in New York, and that none of them would ever forget it. He said he might claim to be a Pilgrim himself, as he had been making pilgrimages around the world ever since he could remember. He said that Pilgrims in their wanderings should carry the efforts for peace between nations throughout the world.

"The American Nation is independent—the most thoroughly independent in the world," he said. "Why? Because they are self-contained. A great responsibility rests upon the United States, because it can be a tremendous power in keeping the peace of the world.

"When I came into this harbor I thought it was to be a celebration by New York, but if this has been a New York celebration, I wonder what an American celebration would be like. This evening will remain stamped in our minds. We will go back full of the reception we have had and will certainly do all we can to continue the friendly relations that exist between our own and this Nation."

Attorney General Wickersham said that his idea of a Pilgrim had been that of a melancholy person, but that in looking over the room he could not find one such.

> Saxons, Normans, Danes are we,
> But Saxons all in our welcome to thee—

said Mr. Wickersham, turning to Sir Edward as he began his speech. He said it was appropriate to the occasion that tribute should be paid to the debt we owe foreign nations; that to our English ancestors we owe a certain stubbornness and tenacity of purpose that had contributed much to our National greatness. He added that we owe much also to Holland, Italy, and Germany.

"This, Sir Edward, is your festival," he said. "You came to celebrate the exploits of your great men which are ours."

Rear Admiral Wainwright, following Sir Edward Seymour, said:

Melville E. Stone, General Manager of the Associated Press, said that the mission of a newspaper was to put the navy out of business, to prevent war and bring nations closer together. He said for that reason he, as head of the Associated Press, felt out of place in such a warlike company. He said The London Times had done more than any other one publication in the world toward establishing friendly feelings between the nations. He referred to the European war talk by saying:

"The red line on the horizon of Europe is, we hope, the red line of the warm blood of friendship.

"The ability of Englishmen to defend the English home survives to-day just as it existed years ago," he said. "There are just as many Nelsons and Lawrences and Wheelers as there ever were. No one should misconstrue the building of so many Dreadnaughts as a lack of courage."

CALL BACK MINISTER CRANE.

New Envoy to China Summoned to Washington on Eve of Sailing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 4.—Charles R. Crane, newly appointed Minister from the United States to China, was recalled to Washington to-night by a telegram from Secretary Knox.

Mr. and Mrs. Crane were to have sailed on the transport Thomas to-morrow for the Orient.

Mr. Crane stated to-night that the telegram merely requested his return to the capital, as there were certain phases of the Eastern situation with which the Secretary of State did not think he was fully acquainted.

"I will return to Washington day after to-morrow," said Mr. Crane when he was asked as to the recall while seated at a banquet given in his honor by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce. "I am waiting over one day in order to attend the banquet, at which President Taft will be present. I expect to leave for the Orient on the steamer Korea, which sails Oct. 20."

Mr. Crane declared he did not know what matters Secretary Knox desired to discuss with him.

"I did not see Mr. Knox before I left Washington," he said. "He was not in the city. I suppose something has arisen or been called to his attention which he thinks I should know before I go to my post. I do not know what it may be."

TURBINE DEVICE DISCUSSED.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—When seen to-day in regard to the new turbine device developed by Messrs. Melville, Westinghouse and Macalpine, members of the Parsons firm, the head of which first adapted the turbine engine to purposes of navigation, said that from the meagre details at hand they were disinclined to attach much importance to the idea, which they consider an old one.

"Theoretically, the new invention is all right, but I doubt its practicability," said a prominent member of the firm. "It is not by any means new except in one or two points of detail," regarding which they expressed no opinion.

Replying to a question as to the effect of the American invention in increasing the speed of vessels, lessening the weight of the engines, and revolutionizing the world's navies, they said the claim was not well founded.

STRIKE IN A SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Pastor's Class of Young Women Rebels and Leaves the Building.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—A class in the Sunday school of the Mary S. Brown Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church is on strike.

The Rev. C. V. Wilson's class, composed of twenty-one young women, rebelled against the pastor yesterday and walked out of the building. The young women went to the home of F. W. Bonar, their former teacher, and prevailed upon Mr. Bonar to teach the class there.

ZITTEL'S AUTO KILLS A BOY.

Real Estate Man's Chauffeur Races with Dying Lad to Hospital.

The automobile of Frederick Zittel, a real estate operator, whose office is at Seventy-ninth Street and Broadway and who lives at 312 West End Avenue, struck down and killed 14-year-old Joseph Cotter, a butcher's errand boy, living at 271 West 146th Street, in Eighth Avenue, at 146th Street yesterday.

In the car were Miss Lina Colley of 214 West 148th Street, Arthur Greenbaum of 544 West 106th Street, and Mineford Bishop of 66 St. Nicholas Avenue, friends of Mrs. Zittel. The chauffeur, Otto Nedell of 109 Tenth Avenue, Brooklyn, was arrested, but he compelled the policeman to get into the car while he rushed the boy to the Harlem Hospital in the hope that he might be saved. He died, however, soon after reaching there. His skull had been fractured.

According to Nedell and the others in the car the boy was walking across the street as the car approached. He apparently did not hear the warning toot of the horn. Nedell says that, although he was not going very fast, he could not stop in time to prevent striking the boy.

In the Harlem Court Magistrate Cornell sent Nedell to the Coroner.

DEFIES COURT IN BANK CASE.

Oklahoma Commissioner, Backed by Governor, Continues to Pay Depositors.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 4.—Notwithstanding the restraining order issued by the Federal court at Guthrie, State Bank Commissioner Young, under direction of Gov. C. N. Haskell, continued payments to the depositors of the failed Columbia Bank throughout the day. Judge Cotterall will come to Oklahoma City to-morrow and hold court to ascertain if the Bank Commissioner is in contempt.

President Norton of the bank and his associates have offered $800,000 to the State Banking Board for a return of the bank to their hands, and the Banking Board members said to-night that the blank probably would be transferred to its original officers to-morrow.

Attorneys for the State to-day offered Judge Cotterall certified checks for the amounts claimed by the petitioners for a receiver, but asked that the checks remain with the court until it can be shown that the bank has offsets against these deposits.

Commissioner Young and the other members of the State Banking Board declared to-night that the restraining order does not apply to them because, they assert, it enjoins them from preferring one creditor above another, which they deny doing or having done in the past.

Atlantic City's $375,000 Land Deal.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 4.—George F. Conklin, who formerly conducted a five and ten cent store in Atlantic City, purchased from Moore Brothers to-day the hundred feet of beach front property in Atlantic City on which is built the Hotel Dunlop, the Savoy Theatre, and a large store. The consideration was $375,000. The hotel is leased by Robert E. Delaney.

New York witnessed yesterday one of the greatest aerial flights, both in spectacular interest and personal daring, that has ever been accomplished in the history of aviation.

Wilbur Wright, to whom the title King of the Air has frequently been applied, but never with more justice than yesterday, fulfilled the expectations that have been hovering about him for more than a week by sailing with the grace of a sea-gull and strength of an eagle up the Hudson River from Governors Island to Grant's Tomb and back.

He was in the air 33 minutes and 33 seconds and traveled twenty miles, attaining a maximum altitude of 250 feet. On both his upward and return trips he was over the water. He sailed a hundred feet and more over the smokestacks of scores of tugs, whizzed over ferryboats with the speed of a railroad flier, and clearly felt the hot upward currents of air ascending from the huge funnels of the warships moored in the river.

He went so near some of the tall fighting masts of the British warships that had the noise of his motor been less and the din of screeching whistles silenced he could plainly have heard the welcoming shouts from the jackies hanging to the yardarms and swinging their caps from their lofty perches in the rigging.

Twenty miles under conditions and over obstacles such as no aviator in the history of the world has ever attempted before! Little wonder that the small group of watchers on the sands of Governors Island, impatient for his return and agitated between hope and fear of his success, stood for a moment in breathless silence as the whirring noise of the beautiful, silvery bird appeared in the murky atmosphere above the Battery, sweeping low over the water and headed straight as an arrow for the spot he had left half an hour before.

Like a Monster Bird.

Like a great bird, Wright came sailing home. Barely fifty feet over the water he was when the white outlines of his machine were detected just below the tops of the pier heads on the Jersey shore line. Still dipping foot by foot, but rushing through the air at breakneck speed, the airship reached the sea wall when, swinging around in a perfect curve barely ten feet over the land, Wright brought his machine to the ground with his face pointed toward the Statue of Liberty and within fifty feet of the place from which he had started.

For a brief moment, perhaps only a few seconds, the throng of 300 to 400 watchers stood dazed at the marvel of which they had witnessed only the beginning and ending. Wright had said he could do it. He had done it. The ease with which it had been accomplished and the nonchalant manner in which the aviator climbed from his little seat, glancing curiously at the crowd, silenced the gathering for a brief space of time.

Then, with the passing of the first sensation of wonder came the inevitable cheer. The officers and soldiers massed on top of Castle Williams waved their caps time and time again. Gen. Leonard Wood and James M. Beck, Chairman of the Aeronautics Committee of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, were the first to reach the aviator and congratulate him on his marvelous achievement.

Through it all Wright stood, the least concerned and the most unexcited man of all. Not a tremor in his voice, not a twitching of the face betrayed the nervous strain under which he had been, or the delight at having accomplished a momentous flight.

Accident at a Crucial Moment.

But the triumph of the morning did not portend a success in the afternoon. Mr. Wright modestly said that up the river was simply a preliminary flight. His afternoon trip was to be his official one, and a greater one. His intention, as he told the members of the committee, was to fly up the East River, going under or over some of the bridges, then come back to the bay in front of the Battery sea wall, fly over the Jersey shore toward Newark, and return to Governors Island over the water north of Staten Island.

The confidence inspired by accomplishing what he says he can do drew a crowd of more than 2,000 to the island. At 3:30 o'clock the aviator appeared at his shed. Fifteen minutes later his machine was on its starting rail, surrounded by a dozen sentries.

The signals indicating an official flight were flying from all the officially designated towers in the city. Mr. Wright himself superintended every detail.

Just before 4 o'clock, with his mechanician, Charles F. Taylor, he began to turn the two big propellers to start the engine. Two small silk flags flew from either side of the planes and a life-belt lay the frame in front of the little seat. Within five minutes, apparently, the white-winged bird would be gliding over the rail for its official flight.

Suddenly, there was a peculiar muffled sound. The newspaper men and officers grouped about the machine saw a dark piece of metal shoot upward for twenty feet, tearing a big gash nearly two feet wide in the canvas covering of the upper plane exactly over the aviator's seat. In trying for a spark the ignition had not worked properly, and the top of the first cylinder head of the four-cylinder motor was blown off.

Metal Fell Near Wright.

The top of the cylinder, a solid piece of steel about six inches in diameter, fell within a few feet of Wright, who was standing near one of the propellers. It required but a glance at the rent cloth and the ruined cylinder to realize that all hope of making a still greater flight than that of the morning must be abandoned.

The scene after the accident was a dramatic one. Wright glanced at the ruin, extended his arms at half length, and swung his hands downward. That gesture was a speech in itself. It spoke volumes to those who stood silently expectant of what was coming.

"It's all over," said Wright a minute afterward.

"This means that my flights here are over," he added. "I can't repair the motor in time to do anything more."

"Could the accident have happened while you were in the air?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes, it is possible," was the cool reply.

He was asked if such an accident had ever happened to him before.

"No, not exactly," he said, "but it will never happen again. A little heavier casting will make the motor stronger. This was an old motor, the same that I used two years ago in my trial flights at Kitty Hawk. The motor I shall use in Washington is stronger, as all of my new motors will be, but I did not have one that I could use here."

"Well, you made history to-day and covered yourself with enough glory if you do nothing more," exclaimed a comforting friend as the party moved slowly back toward the shed, leaving Taylor and the soldiers to wheel the crippled machine back to its headquarters.

Wright will have his machine packed for shipment to Dayton, Ohio, and will leave to-day for Washington, where he is to teach the Signal Corps officers how to operate the Wright Government aeroplane on the new aviation grounds at College Park, a few miles outside of Washington.

Only one successful flight in the history of aviation can properly be compared to that made yesterday by Wright. That was the one in which Blériot in his small monoplane crossed the English Channel on July 25, covering the strait separating France and England in twenty-three minutes, his exact distance from point to point being estimated at twenty-one miles.

But there was this difference: Blériot had a wide stretch of smooth water comparatively free from obstructions beneath him, while Wright passed over the scores of water craft with which the North River is always crowded, and in addition sailed over the tops of the representative naval fleets of four nations—Italy, France, Germany, and Great Britain.

The Weather conditions for the great flight were pronounced ideal when Wright arrived at Governors Island at 8 A. M. At 9:53 the aluminium-colored flier rose gracefully in the air, skimming over the sands at a height of fifteen feet, and gradually rising to fifty feet as it passed beyond the sea wall over the water.

Soon the airship seemed to run directly into the smoke of a harbor boat, and for a time it was totally obscured. When the aviator reappeared he was making a long, sweeping turn, heading straight up the North River at a height of about seventy-five feet.

By this time the whistles of the passing tugs and ferryboats were tooting a mighty chorus, and the Battery sea wall was black with people. The news was flashed over the city, and from the windows of the towering buildings thousands forgot all else and watched the huge artificial bird sailing up the river. So fast did he go that comparatively few persons saw his flight up the river, but thousands hurried to the roofs of the buildings and occupied every other available vantage spot to catch a glimpse of the flier as it returned.

When about opposite the Singer tower Wright rose to a height of 200 feet. He passed Fulton Street about 10 o'clock, and then turned over toward the Jersey shore. A mile above he made a quick drop from a height of 100 feet, coming down within thirty feet of the water, but soon rising to his original position.

"The seagulls were more surprised than anything else," said a man who was a passenger on a ferryboat which left its Twenty-third Street slip just as Wright passed. "A flock of them followed him for a mile up the river, but he outflew them all."

As Wright reached Seventy-second Street the sightseers on Riverside Drive made a mad rush for the embankment. The sailors on the warsips came tumbling up on the deck quicker than any officers' call could bring them. Every water craft that had a whistle contributed to the din.

Lieut. Riley E. Scott, a retired army officer, was stationed at Grant's Tomb with a stop watch. He sighted the machine at 10:10:30 far down the river flying steadily and smoothly.

Wright was then within 200 feet of the New York shore. He began making his curve over the river at 10:13:30, rising slightly and turning about 1,000 feet north of Grant's Tomb. He passed nearly over the British warship Drake, taking about forty-five seconds in turning, and as he straightened out for the homeward run along the Jersey shore he was 150 feet in the air.

His trip up the river took 20 minutes and 30 seconds, going against the wind. Coming down he had the wind in his favor, and it took only 13 minutes and 3 seconds, his elapsed time being 33 minutes and 33 seconds, an average speed of 42.55 miles an hour.

FINE SIGHT FROM WARSHIPS.

Foreign Officers Enthusiastic Over the Flight—Their Opinions.

The officers and crews of the Italian, French, and German squadrons and the armored cruiser Argyll of the British squadron had a close view of Wilbur Wright in his flight as his aeroplane sailed over the ships. The American ships saw little of the airship, only two of them, the battleships Minnesota and Louisiana, the southernmost vessels in the American column, being in a position to see anything of the flight, and they only indistinctly, as Mr. Wright's turning point was nearly a mile and a half south of the anchorage of the Minnesota.

On the Italian cruisers Etna and Etruria, the first of the big warships reached by Mr. Wright, the officers said the sight was one of the most impressive they had ever witnessed. The flight occasioned less talk aboard the French battleships than on any of the other vessels, as most of the French officers had seen such flights before, many of them having seen Wilbur Wright fly in France. They nevertheless declared the flight a wonderful one and said that Mr. Wright was the greatest man in the world for aerial navigation.

On the Kaiser's quartet of cruisers the officers and men went into ecstasies as the machine passed over them. Many of them had seen Zeppelin's great dirigible, which is many times bigger than Wright's graceful aeroplane, but they all admitted that Wright's flight was the most wonderful exhibition they had ever seen. Several of the officers said that the flight over the warships was another indication of the important part aeroplanes may play in the next big war.

As the airship neared Grant's Tomb, just north of which the British ships are at anchor, the officers of the British vessels, who through their glasses were watching every movement of the machine, saw that Mr. Wright was manoeuvring for a turn and that his flight north would end off the anchorage of the Argyll. The Britishers cheered and waved their handkerchiefs, but Mr. Wright made no sign that he saw them, being too busy with his machine.

The British officers spoke enthusiastically of the performance. Many of them expressed the hope that in the near future the Wrights would visit Great Britain and let Englishmen see them in flight. One of the officers, referring to Blériot's crossing the English Channel, said he felt certain that Wright could make that trip just as easily as the Frenchman had.

On the Minnesota Commander William S. Sims, who is the most distinguished target practice officer in the United States service, having the credit of having doubled the navy's efficiency in marksmanship while he was Inspector of Target Practice, was asked yesterday after the flight what would happen in time of war should an aeroplane fly like Wright's over a squadron of warships. He replied that at the height Mr. Wright was flying the ships would probably be able to get the range and destroy the aeroplane. At a greater altitude and going at the speed Wright flew, he added, the aviator's chance of dropping anything on a battleship would be small. The Commander said Wright's flight had been a wonderful sight from the deck of the Minnesota.

On the flagship Connecticut the officers saw little of the flight, and that dimly. The battleship Mississippi was outward bound when the Wright aeroplane passed over it, and the officers and men cheered it heartily. It was said yesterday that the Mississippi was the only moving battleship over which an aeroplane had yet passed.

Two Flights in Curtiss Machine.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 4.—Using Glenn H. Curtiss's aeroplane, Foster Willard made two brief but successful flights at the State Fair grounds here this afternoon. Willard climbed to the seat of his machine at 5:15 o'clock and rose gracefully to a height of 25 feet, sailing to the western end of the field, and passing over many tents. At the western end of the field he made a landing and after a few minutes rose again, returning to his starting point without mishap. Each flight occupied thirty seconds.

MURPHY CHANGES THE TAMMANY SLATE

Elkus, Philbin, or McIntyre Now Likely to be Named to Succeed Jerome.

PENDLETON FOR BENCH

Cloughen Still Favorite for Borough Presidency—Murphy Wanted Garvin for District Attorney.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, put in a trying day at the helm of the organization yesterday. He was at the wigwam nearly all day trying to pick the strongest men to place in nomination for the various county and borough offices and at the same time placate the different elements in the organization. It was a difficult proposition, and Mr. Murphy was not sure at the end that he had completed the job. As far as could be learned last night the slates stood thus:

For District Attorney—ABRAM I. ELKUS, EUGENE PHILBIN, or JOHN F. McINTYRE.

For Sheriff—P. J. CONWAY or EUGENE J. McGUIRE.

For County Clerk—PETER J. DOOLING, to be renominated.

For Judge of the City Court—LEWIS J. CONLAN, a renomination, or THOMAS E. RUSH.

For Borough President—JOHN CLOUGHEN.

The County and Borough Conventions will be held to-night at Tammany Hall, but it is possible that changes will be made to-day in this slate. Mr. Murphy will be at the hall all day to-day again, and it is likely that representations may be made to him which will cause some changes in the ticket.

Never before in the recent history of Tammany Hall have there been so many claimants for the different county and borough offices as this year, and never before have so many of the applicants for good berths been so strenuous and open in their demands.

There has been an almost unprecedented scramble for the county offices. Two well-known district leaders are pretty certain to get on the ticket—Eugene J. McGuire of the Bronx and Peter J. Dooling, the present County Clerk, who is to be renominated.

Fire Commissioner Hayes and Sheriff Foley, who were at one time regarded as likely candidates for the Borough Presidency, have withdrawn, it being understood that Borough President Ahearn made the nomination of Public Works Commissioner Cloughen, a condition of his quiet retirement. Ahearn's position in the organization is such that his demands had to be listened to. Thomas E. Rush, who has a good chance of getting the City Court Judgeship nomination, is one of the most powerful leaders in the Hall.

The mention of Abram I. Elkus and John F. McIntyre for the District Attorneyship came seriously yesterday for the first time. The former is a well-known lawyer and strong in the organization. Mr. McIntyre has been working hard for the nomination for some time. William McAdoo, Police Commissioner during Mayor McClellan's first administration, was also mentioned.

It was understood about the Hall that Mr. Murphy had offered the nomination to Francis P. Garvan, one of Mr. Jerome's chief assistants, but that he declined to run on the ground that he wished to return to the practice of law. There is some chance, however, that Mr. Garvan may yet reconsider his decision. George Gordon Battle and Bartow S. Weeks, who have been prominently mentioned, were eliminated yesterday.

William Sohmer, who will undoubtedly be nominated for Register, is Treasurer of the Tammany Society.

Justice Truax will be renominated. Of the many claimants for the other two vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of Justices Patterson and MacLean, Corporation Counsel Pendleton, Judge Joseph of the Municipal Court, and Mr. Delany seem to be in the lead.

Judges Hoffman and Roesch of the Municipal Court and Judge Delehanty of the City Court are also candidates. The name of N. Taylor Phillips, at present Deputy Controller, was also mentioned about the Hall yesterday.

Mr. Murphy said yesterday that as yet he had not consulted with Justice Gaynor about the conduct of the campaign and that the date for the formal notification of the candidate has not yet been set.

Judson G. Wall and Charles M. Higgins of Brooklyn, members of both the Committe of Nine, which first urged Justice Gaynor to run for Mayor, and the Committee of One Hundred, created some stir in the latter organization yesterday by sending circulars to each of its members asking for an expression of their views on Mr. Gaynor's candidacy.

Mr. Bannard was directly criticised in the document. A list of thirty-two public service corporations in which he is a Director was given, twelve of them gas light companies.

The Hundred meet to-night, and the circular would seem to indicate that some attempt will be made by the friends of Justice Gaynor in the organization to bring the consideration of his name before it.

COLLAPSE COMES TO ITALIAN OPERA

No Performance of "Aida" Last Night, as $4,700 Is Due Principals and Chorus.

NO SALARY IN NINE DAYS

Trouble from Start in Directorship, and Mrs. Appleton Fails to Get Money—Benefits for Stranded.

The end of the Italian Grand Opera Company, which has struggled through a four weeks' existence at the Academy of Music in spite of the constant bickerings of its Directors, came last night. A good-sized audience was assembling to hear the announced performance of "Aida," but a man stationed at the door said that the house would be closed. This decision was reached at about 7 o'clock.

The singers who were to appear in "Aida"—Mmes. Adaberto and Fox and Messrs. Battaini, Segura-Tallien, Wulman, Sampieri, and Montenari, and the conductor, Jacchia, together with the chorus and orchestra, were assembled on the stage at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Appleton had not made good her promise to raise money. Nine days' salary was due to the principals, chorus, and ballet, and three days to the orchestra.

To the artists $2,700 was due, to the ballet $400, to the chorus $900, and to the orchestra $700. The singers had only agreed to appear on Saturday, because they were promised that they would be paid yesterday.

At the eleventh hour Louis Cucco, a lawyer, who said that he was the new director of the company, appeared upon the stage. The singers were not surprised to see a new director. One has appeared in this company on an average of twice a week.

Mr. Cucco's proposition was to the effect that the performance should be given last night as scheduled, and that in the morning a new American millionaire would appear on the scene and all salaires should be paid. The principals in "Aida" voted a secret ballot on this proposition. There was one "yes" voted; all the rest were "no," and there was no performance last night.

The sixty-three members of the Italian chorus, many of the twenty-three principals, and twenty in the ballet, all find themselves stranded in New York. Signor Jacchia, the chef d'orchestre, said last night that the principals in the company would give one or two benefits the latter part of this week to send these people back to Italy. Signor Jacchia is said to be engaged for the Manhattan Opera House.

The Directors of the company had put up a bond of $10,000 to the Academy of Music, and by not giving a performance last night they have forfeited that bond.

Since the start there has been trouble in the Directorship of the company. At one of the early meetings Mr. Ferrara, the manager, and Mr. Pinsuti, the artistic director, quarreled. Subsequently Mr. Ferrara's stock was bought by Mrs. A. Stewart Appleton, who gave her note for it. She became manager pro tem. In a week she was put out, and then the company floundered about without a manager for a week. Mrs. Appleton's restoration occurred last Saturday.

The company made money the first week. In spite of the constant bickering between the managers and the early loss of the tenor, Zerola, the performances have continued. Each week new operas were added to the répertoire.

Gas Money Returned to Consumers.

United States Commissioner Shields, as custodian of the gas fund, reports that during the thirty-one weeks of the distribution of gas overcharge money in all $10,204,949 has been returned to consumers on 1,281,018 vouchers. He further reports that last week $60,491 was returned to gas consumers on 23,060 vouchers.

BINGHAM COMPARES JUDGES AND TIN GODS

GAYNOR FOR TAMMANY USE

Since Tammany Nominated Him, Bingham Says—"You Give Your Howl and See the Bunch Skip," He Adds.

"Great goodness, you decent people outnumber the scoundrels!" exclaimed Theodore A. Bingham last night in the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, at Seventh Avenue and 129th Street, where before the Men's Club of that church, which filled the auditorium, he fired the opening gun in his campaign against Tammany and Justice Gaynor. This gun was the first he has exploded in his fight for Otto T. Bannard for Mayor.

"Whether Bannard is elected Mayor or not," he said in the course of his speech, "I will not get anything out of it. I have nothing at stake. But if he is not elected all this work that I am doing will have been wasted."

Gen. Bingham was among friends. The Rev. C. L. Goodell, the pastor of the church, in a speech after the General's, said that he loved a man who hated a coward, and laid his hand on the former Police Commissioner's shoulder. The Rev. Mr. Goodell, using baseball language, said that somebody had deprived the former Police Commissioner of a put-out, and that the public was about to do something to show their feeling in the matter.

Sidney E. Millington, the Chairman of the Men's Club, who introduced the speaker, also paid him high compliment. And when, later in the evening, the audience of fully 1,000 men, most of them young men, were told to ask Gen. Bingham what questions they liked, they formed their interrogations to his benefit, like a lawyer questioning his client.

Civic righteousness, said Gen. Bingham, beginning his speech, was the phrase that sounded the keynote of his speech, only it had been used so much that he wanted to amplify it so that it would not fall unheeded upon the ears of his listeners.

"It's no use praying for results unless you work for them," he said. "All right to pray, but keep your powder dry. God helps those who help themselves.

"It's all very fine and dandy to walk in the parade, where your sweetheart looks on you and is proud of your martial tread," went on Gen. Bingham. "It's nice to stand on the sidewalk and wave handkerchiefs. Patriotism is sacrifice—giving up something—giving up your time, your money, your blood, your life if need be. That is patriotism; the other thing is flapdoodle."

The trouble with the great body of voters, the speaker thought, was that on the approach of the election many of them were apathetic.

"It wouldn't make so much difference if everybody was apathetic," he said. "It's the decent, law-abiding people who are most apathetic. Tammany is on duty all the year around, Sundays and holidays included. It's a superb organization, that Tammany. It works; it produces results.

"But the decent people can rule this city. Wake up. Get together. Great goodness, you outnumber the scoundrels!"

He wanted to show the members of the Men's Club of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church how the City Government was closely related with the religious atmosphere of the city.

"Let me give you an example," went on Gen. Bingham. "You know, and I know, that many of the plays in New York are very poor imitations of nasty French plays. They tell us, 'Oh, this is a cosmopolitan city; we can't be particular, like little villages.' Now, that sounds plausible, but it isn't so. You know that. There are sweet, clean plays here. Why can't we sit down on these dirty plays?"

His answer to his own question was that the people of New York for so long had been under a lax and weak city government, which was also corrupt, that they had grown callous to a good deal, and even what he called the "decent people" had simply grown somewhat used to letting things drift.

"The police can't stop these plays now," he said. "They could get them before a Judge. He does not feel public opinion behind him, and the prosecution goes for nothing. Let the people rise up and howl once, and all these public servants that have to do with such things will, all together, run and do the things that the people demand.

"So, you see, after all it is up to the voters. You are responsible for the condition this city is in. You give your howl and see the bunch skip. I know the whole bunch, and, I mean nothing personal, they are all weak. They won't resist the public. Judges, for instance, are not made tin gods because they are elected once.

"This is not a voting organization, I know, but I should like to know how many men here have registered. Hold up your hands, all who have registered."

"Very good," said Gen. Bingham, "very good indeed."

"The issues of this campaign are well known. No use arguing about them. They are more important than they were four years ago. They will be so important four years from now that many of you will have suffered if you do not attend to them now. Your city government is wasteful; it is full of graft. Graft is a threadbare subject; I won't talk to you about it. I know of hundreds of cases; you know of cases yourself. That doesn't need arguing.

Gen. Bingham said that he had been told that a small coterie of men, including Daniel F. Cohalan, in the latter part of May, in a village of Long Island, decided that Gaynor was to be the Tammany nominee, and at the same time decided that he was "to be fired to get ready for the election."

"If Tammany nominated Gaynor for Mayor," declared the speaker, "Tammany wanted him for Tammany's use. Is that for your use?

"Mind you, I am not speaking of a Supreme Court Justice, but when a man assumes two characters I have a right to tear one of them to shreds. If a man is two-faced I have a right to take one of those faces and attend to it."

"'Well,' you ask me, 'what's to be done about it?' Elect Otto T. Bannard for Mayor."

Gen. Bingham then went on to praise the Fusion candidate, who was his classmate at Yale in '76 he said.

REYNOLDS TO RETIRE NOV. 1.

Will Leave Treasury Department for Work of Tariff Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The resignation of James B. Reynolds as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury will take effect on Nov. 1, according to his announcement to-day on his return from a conference with Secretary MacVeagh. Mr. Reynolds will then take up his duties as one of the three Tariff Commissioners appointed by the President. Even before that time Mr. Reynolds expects to devote a part of his energies to arranging for the collection of the desired data.

STILL DIG FOR COFFEN.

Man at Well's Bottom Thought Dead—Work of Days to Reach Him.

SAYVILLE, L. I., Oct. 4.—All night long relays of men were engaged in the work of sinking a new shaft beside the well at the bottom of which lies John Coffen, the young farmer who was buried by a cave-in while he was deepening the well on his father's farm, two miles north of Central Islip, yesterday.

Although there is a possibility that the crossbeams at the bottom of the well may have formed an air chamber in which Coffen might live for a short time, there is not believed to be more than one change in a thousand that he could keep alive until the men now at work can reach him. He is sixty feet from the surface, and there is thirty feet of sand and clay on top.

It was necessary to send to Smithtown for lumber to form the curbing of the new shaft that had to be sunk, and it did not arrive at the Coffen farm until last night.

Constable Schwartz, who has charge of the men at work, said to-day that it might be three or four days before Coffen could be reached and that in his opinion there was not the slightest chance of finding him alive.

TEN BALLOONS SAIL FOR LONG FLIGHTS

Expected to Remain Aloft 18 to 40 Hours After Departure from St. Louis.

INJURED PILOT IN THE RACE

Resting in a Hammock, Guides His Damaged Craft Despite Warnings—300 Mayors at the Centennial.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—With atmospheric conditions ideal, ten balloons sailed from St. Louis late this afternoon toward the southeast. The passage above the city from the grounds of the Aero Club was made at a height of 500 feet. Sixty thousand persons were on the Aero Club grounds.

Two of the balloons, the Peoria and Missouri, had gasbags of 40,000 cubic feet and were in a special race. The others had bags of 78,000 cubic feet, and raced for medals and prizes. The smaller gas bags are expected to remain in the air eighteen hours, and the larger ones forty hours. By morning they should be over Kentucky or Tennessee, unless the wind changes.

The Cleveland was the first to get away in the race of the big balloons. It was followed by St. Louis III., Centennial, Pommery, New York, University City, Indiana, and Hoosier.

Because H. M. McGill, pilot of the Indiana, had not received his license, his entry was filed under protest and his eligibility will be settled later. The Hoosier was disqualified, as Dr. P. M. Crume is not a licensed pilot. However, he sailed away for the sport.

All balloons carried as much ballast as possible, and their pilots expected to make long flights. Under the conditions in which they sailed they will not have to let out gas until late to-morrow. The Lahm Cup, now held by Capt. F. Deforest Chandler, is one of the prizes sought by the aeronauts. A flight of more than 475 miles will get it.

The Indiana basket carried a hammock, in which McGill rested. He was injured on the grounds and sailed against the advice of his physician. It is thought the Indiana's rip and valve cords are tangled. If this proves so, McGill will have a rough landing, as he cannot control his craft in the usual way.

At the time the ten balloons sailed away M. A. Heimann of the South St. Louis Aero Club, whose entry was refused by the Aero Club of St. Louis, sailed from the gas works four miles from the aero club grounds.

Outside of the balloon races, to-day's centennial programme centred about the 300 Mayors of American cities who had accepted invitations to be guests of the municipality during the week. They were welcomed by Gov. Hadley and Mayor Frederick Kreisman at the City Hall, and then marched in a body through the centennial court of honor to the Hotel Jefferson, where luncheon was served.

Following the luncheon the city executives exchanged ideas and experiences at a conference on the commission plan of government.

The Mayors were then taken to the Aero Club grounds to watch the balloon ascensions. A mass meeting in honor of the Mayors was held this evening.

SIX BALLOONS STILL UP.

American Contestant Among Those Remaining in International Race.

ZURICH, Oct. 4.—Six of the balloons which started yesterday from this place in the international race for the Gordon Bennett Cup have not yet reported. As Edgar W. Mix, the only American entrant, is included among these, the chances of an American victory, which has always been thought possible, are greatly enhanced. The balloons which landed to-day reported heavy rain and fog throughout the flight.

The following message from Mix, which was dropped from the balloon America Monday afternoon while passing over Bohemia, has been received here. "Raining continually for two hours; we are voyaging northeast; have used sixteen bags of ballast."

England, Austria, and Italy have been eliminated from the contest, but America, Belgium, France, and Germany are still in the race, one balloon representing each o fthese countries being unreported, as well as Switzerland, which is still represented by two balloons.

Eleven of the seventeen balloons which started have come to earth in various places.

Emile Dubonnet, one of the French pilots, made a landing at 3:30 this afternoon between Neudorf and Reichenbach, Silesia. Leon De Brockere, a Belgian representative, descended safely at the foot of the Carpathian Mountains at 11:30 in the morning.

Frank McLean, representing England, landed in Bohemia at 10:27 A. M.; Col. Schaeck of Switzerland near Neustrelitz at 12:45 P. M., Dr. Anton Schlein, Austria-Hungary, at Landshut, Lower Bavaria, at 8:25 A. M.; Maurice Bienaimé, France, at Neustadt, Silesia, time not given; Capt. Von Abercron, Germany, about 18 miles from Reichenbach, Silesia, at 2:25 P. M., and Guido Piacenza at Biela, Bohemia, at midday.

The Spanish balloon, which it was announced was making the flight under the Belgian flag, was piloted by M. Vleminex instead of Alberto Oettli. It landed at 7 o'clock in the morning in Upper Austria. Capt. Frassinetti descended at Nemojan, District of Wichau, at 6 o'clock in the evening, and Dr. Brockelmann, Germany, at Nesselsdorf, Moravia, at 2:45 P. H.

WHEELING & LAKE ERIE SUIT.

Bondholders' Committee Will Try to Recover $200,000 from the Company.

E. E. Carpenter, Chairman of the Pittsburg, Wheeling & Lake Erie Coal Company Bonholders' Committee, announced yesterday that his committee had entered suit against the Wheeling & Lake Erie for $200,000, the amount of prior lien obligations which the railway guaranteed in the reorganization of the coal company in 1901. Other suits, he said, will probably be entered with a view to collecting arrearages.

The Mercantile Trust Company, trustee of the coal company's bonds, was requested by the committee to bring the suits, but refused to do so, Mr. Carpenter said, on the ground that the suits were not of the kind which it, as trustee, might be called upon by the bondholders to bring.

Mr. Carpenter said that the fact that Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Blair & Co., and others had provided large sums of money for the Wheeling & Lake Erie led the bondholders whom he represents to feel that they will have no difficulty in collecting any judgment which the committee may obtain against the Wheeling & Lake Erie. Permission was granted by the courts to the Bondholders' Committee to bring the suits upon the refusal of the trustee of the bonds to bring them in its name.

Batonyi Case in Newport Court.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 4.—The damage suit brought by Aurel Batonyi against Mrs. Frances Batonyi, her father, Frank Work, and Frank K. Sturgis for $150,000 damages, asserting that certain property had been withheld from him, came up before the Superior Court here to-day on a motion of the defendants for surety for costs, and also for a bill of particulars. Both were granted, and the surety must be filed with the court before next Thursday.

$3,000,000 INCREASE IN BUTTERICK STOCK

Stock Exchange Notified of Publishing Co.'s Plan to Make Its Capital $15,000,000.

MAY HELP MORSE'S ASSETS

Banker Once Owned One-sixth of the Shares—Trying to Get Them Back.

Through the notifications sent to the Stock Exchange yesterday of a proposed capital increase of $3,000,000 in the stock of the Butterick Company, publishers of The Delineator, The Designer, and The New Idea Woman's Magazine, it became known in Wall Street that the stockholders have been called to a special meeting on Oct. 19 to vote on the question of raising the capital from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000.

President Wilder refused yesterday to discuss the purposes of the increase in capitalization or to say whether the stock was to be sold or distributed as a stock dividend. The shares are extremely inactive on the Stock Exchange, and the chief interest of the financial district in the matter was speculation as to how much a distribution of a stock dividend or of rights to subscribe would help C. W. Morse's climbing back to solvency.

Mr. Morse at one time held about $2,000,000 of the company's total capitalization of $12,000,000, and before the panic, when he was straining every resource to get cash, these shares were put up as collateral. It was learned yesterday that the Morse Securities Company, the $10,000,000 Maine corporation which he organized as a means of recovering the scattered fragments of his former fortune, has succeeded in recovering only a small part of the Butterick stock he once possessed.

For this reason the increase of stock in the company, if it should carry with it valuable rights to stockholders, will not be of direct benefit to the Morse Securities Company, though, as was explained by one of Mr. Morse's close associates yesterday, anything that will increase the value of collateral behind the old Morse loans will, of course, help to reduce the gap between his assets and liabilities.

Butterick Company stock, which passed two dividends after the panic and has been paying only 2 per cent. annually from June 1, 1908, up to the present, has moved very little in the stock market this year, although its present price of 31 is nearly nineteen points above the low level at which it sold last year.

The Morse Securities Company, whose charter permits it to "acquire or hold as investments any shares of capital stock, bonds, securities, or other evidence of indebtedness created by any other corporations" is still taking over, it was learned yesterday, old Morse collateral as occasion offers.

It has been the cash put into this concern by Morse's friends, as well as the acceptance of its stock by creditors in exchange for their claims, which has enabled him to get back into control of the Hudson Navigation Company and the Metropolitan Steamship Company.

Although C. W. Morse once held a one-sixth interest in the Butterick Company, its President, after the panic, announced that he was no longer connected with the company.

DIRECTORS MET A POLICEMAN.

He Was There to Arrest the President of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Co.

While the Directors of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company were having a meeting at 11 Broadway yesterday a policeman from the Tombs Court entered the rooms and arrested Noah E. Barnes of 1,050 Amsterdam Avenue, President of the concern. He arraigned him before Magistrate Steinert in the Tombs Court. He was charged by Robert Kuehnert of 440 West Twenty-second Street, Secretary of the company, with having misapplied $17,000 of the institution's money in 1908.

The court was informed that on July 29 Barnes was indicted on a charge of similar nature, and was out on $5,000 bail. Counsel for Barnes objected to his arraignment, saying that the matter had been considered by the District Attorney's office when the July indictment was found. Argument brought out the fact, however, that the alleged crimes were of separate years, and Magistrate Steinert paroled Barnes for hearing again to-morrow.

SHIP'S HOLD A MENAGERIE.

Wild Animals Part of the Volturne's Cargo—Bear Tries to Escape.

The hold of the steamship Volturne, which arrived yesterday, was a floating menagerie. In queerly assorted cages between decks are two polar bears, three leopards, a family of three brown bears from Asia, two cassowaries, and six deer. They are said to be consigned to a zoo at Yardley, Penn.

The weather was rough during the voyage, and the beasts kept things lively. One morning the large polar bear was found forcing his way through an aperture he had made by scratching away the edge of a board in his cage. It took four men to put him back.

HAFFEN TO RUN AGAIN.

Deposed Bronx Borough President Seeks a Vindication from the Voters.

Louis F. Haffen, who was removed by Gov. Hughes from the office of President of the Borough of the Bronx on charges of extravagance and incompetency in his administration, announced himself yesterday as an independent candidate for re-election.

William F. A. Kurz and Thomas F. Uren, friends of Mr. Haffen, opened headquarters at 3,025 Third Avenue and started obtaining signatures to a petition for Mr. Haffen's renomination. They declared that they will receive signatures every day between 9 A. M. and 6 P. M. until the necessary 2,000 are obtained. The election law allows the filing of nominating petitions until Oct. 13.

Mr. Haffen's move came as a surprise to Tammany, and although none of the big Manhattan leaders of the organization would admit it publicly, they clearly showed signs of uneasiness. It has been evident for some time that Mr. Haffen would not receive the Tammany nomination again this year. He has been President of the borough ever since consolidation, and for many years before 1898 was in control of the borough through the office of Commissioner of Street Openings and Improvements. For twenty years he has been the practical czar of the Bronx and has been known as such throughout the organization.

PARSONS THREATENS A STATE-WIDE FIGHT

Declares He'll Make War on Raines and Others Who Killed His Election Reforms.

ANSWER TO CANNON LATER

Vows the Battle Will Be Carried Into the Gubernatorial Convention Next Year.

Behind the Parsons-Cannon-Raines controversy there now looms large the possibility of a State-wide fight within the Republican organization. President Herbert Parsons of the Republican County Committee reiterated the charge yesterday that his proposed election reforms had been defeated at the last session of the Legislature as a result of a deal between Tammany Hall and some powerful up-State leaders.

Mr. Parsons declared that he would fight for those reforms to a finish, and that he was quite willing to take his fight into the Republican State Convention next Fall unless by that time he had obtained satisfaction.

"I stand by my original statement, that there was a deal on between Tammany Hall and some up-State Republicans to get Democratic aid for Speaker Cannon and his rules," said Mr. Parsons. "It's absolutely true. I am not a bit surprised that some people object to me telling about it."

"Did you realize that you would provoke a storm when you made this charge?" Mr. Parsons was asked.

"I did," he replied. "But I have spent ten years trying to stop fraudulent voting in this city, and I am going to spend the rest of my life at it if necessary. I believe that a man with my power, if he is earnest about it and energetic, can put an end to fraudulent voting. I am going to do it, not this year or next, maybe, but I am going to do it.

"And let me say further that if any up-State Republicans combine to defeat legislation which has that purpose in view, I am going to fight them, and fight them in the open. We'll have a State Convention next year. We will fight it out there if necessary. I'm younger than Senator Raines, as he says, and I'll be doing business longer. I shall keep up this fight on fraudulent voting here until it is absolutely eliminated."

Rap at Raines's Son.

"Did you read the denial by Senator Raines of the bi-partisan deal, and did you notice his assertion that it was ridiculous to suppose that the up-State Republicans would combine with Tammany Hall for any purpose?" Mr. Parsons was asked.

"I read it," said Mr. Parsons. "When Senator Raines sees to it that the name of his son, Charles T. Raines, is taken off the Tammany payroll, then the Senator in a measure will have shown his sincerity with reference to having honest elections in this city."

The Senator's son got a $3,000 job under Controller Metz in April, 1908, or about the time the appointment of a legislative commission to investigate New York City finances was first being discussed at Albany. Charlets T. Raines is an auditor of accounts. Another auditor was appointed, too, at the request of Senator Raines.

When the attention of Mr. Parsons was called to the statement of Congressman Malby, in which the latter said it was bad policy on the part of Mr. Parsons to make this attack, as it was likely to injure the party, the County Chairman replied:

"That answer to my charge that there was a deal is as old as the hills. It is an answer that doesn't answer. What I have said won't hurt us down here."

Mr. Parsons was asked if he had any statement to make with reference to the attack made on him by Speaker Cannon in an interview printed in THE TIMES yesterday morning.

"I have nothing to say about that now," he replied. All the emphasis was on the "now."

Mr. Parsons said he felt sure he had the sympathy of many upright Republican leaders up State in the stand he had taken in the matter of the defeated election reforms. It was learned yesterday that he has been receiving messages from prominent Republicans in various parts of the State, and even from beyond its borders, for his courage.

Will Not Give Names Now.

"Will you make public the names of the men who were in the deal?" Mr. Parsons was asked.

"I have no further statement to make now," was his reply.

Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff was asked last night what he knew about the deal.

"I really know nothing," said Mr. Woodruff. "All I can say is that I took Assemblyman Ward at his own request in to see Senator Raines and pleaded with him about these bills. We spent two hours with the Senator in Clerk Gleason's room.

"I remember that Raines looked through two of the bills and said there seemed to be nothing objectionable about them. A third bill, he said, was too radical and too voluminous to be considered at that late stage of the session. When I left Raines Ward remained with him. The next I knew the bills had gone by the board."

Senator George B. Agnew had charge of the bills in the upper house. He said yesterday:

"I conferred with Raines several times and made some changes in the bills to meet his suggestions. All that took time. Raines promised that they would be passed as party measures. They came out of the Judiciary Committee and got on the calendar.

"On the last day of the session, after it had become apparent that the leaders intended to let the bills die, I called them up on the calendar out of their order. They were snowed under. Raines was in the chair at the time. Grady was floor leader for both sides of the Senate."

"Parsons has unmasked Raines at last, and Raines is getting hot," added Mr. Agnew. "That's only natural. He says Parsons is an inexperienced politician. Well, Parsons has forced Raines and the State organization twice to nominate Gov. Hughes, who has given us the most statesmanlike administration we have ever had at Albany. Parsons has more sense and more honesty of purpose in his little finger than 'Uncle John' has in his whole big frame."

Some Political Light.

For some time it has been apparent that Mr. Parsons has been persona non grata with some of the up-State leaders. Time and time again it has been rumored that the "Federal" crowd was going back on the New York County leader. When President Taft appointed William Williams Immigration Commissioner without consulting Mr. Parsons, and virtually over his head—the organization had another candidate—many persons expressed wonder, and there was a deal of speculation whether there would be a "new deal" in Republican politics in this State and in the city and whether those who had had preference from President Roosevelt were to be crowded to the political background by his successor.

Mr. Parsons virtually owes his influence to Mr. Roosevelt, but it is generally acknowledged that through his own efforts and through the confidence he inspires in the organization he has made for himself the position of power he now holds in New York City politics.

Mr. Parsons's assertion that he would be prepared to take his fight into the State Convention opens an interesting prospect of complications. A Governor is to be elected next year. For that reason there will be a natural division of the party forces into groups supporting one Gubernatorial aspirant or another prior to the convention. Mr. Parsons is known to be friendly to Speaker Wadsworth, who is a candidate for Governor. If Mr. Parsons, as everything indicates, can go into the State Convention next year with an undivided delegation from New York County, he is likely to be in a position where his support will be eagerly sought. In the last two conventions, with the aid of Mr. Roosevelt, he has been able to dictate the nomination.

Incidentally, it is whispered that the followers of Mr. Parsons are looking for a big time when Mr. Roosevelt returns from his African hunting trip and begins to take interest anew in the politics of the State.

GALVIN UNPLEDGED, HE SAYS.

Tammany Candidate for President of the Aldermen Makes First Speech.

The Order of Acorns met last night to indorse the candidacy on the Democratic ticket of Justice Gaynor, Robert R. Moore, and John F. Galvin. Although over an hour late, Mr. Galvin, the guest and principal speaker, was warmly received. He was introduced by Chairman W. H. Black as "the man who keeps his factory in New York at the cost of paying New York rents in order to give work to 300 New York men."

In this, his first speech of the campaign, Mr. Galvin said:

"I regret the great cost to the City Government by the slanderous remarks made by the reformers. Flirting with the reform movement is apt to lead to such administrations as Low's, the rule of the doctrinaire instead of common sense. The budget has not been so badly administered, after all, and there is very little to kick about, when we consider that one-fourth goes to the Board of Education, which no one could have the hardihood to accuse of graft.

"Three weeks ago I had no idea of ever holding public office and I enter the lists unpledged. I bring only a business experience of twenty-six years, and a business training for the administration of a city that is henceforth to be run on a business basis. I consider that my most important function will be my place on the Board of Estimate."

At the close of his speech, a man in the audience leaped to his feet and notified Mr. Galvin that he had been elected President of the Carriage, Harness, and Accessories Association.

URGE HEARST TO RUN.

Plan for Mass Meeting to Sound Sentiment on Him as a Candidate.

Plans for launching an independent citizens' ticket this Fall by the leaders of the Independence League and other organizations went on apace yesterday. Polls were started in various parts of the city with the principal object of learning what the sentiment of the public is with reference to William Randolph Hearst again making a fight for the Mayoralty. Several delegations of Leaguers urged Mr. Hearst to accept the nomination, and Charles E. Gehring, Chairman of the County Committee of the League, was busy holding conferences with his leaders and representatives of other organizations.

The present plan is to sound public sentiment at a mass meeting at Cooper Union, probably to-morrow night. It is possible that the formal nominations may also be made at that time, although the gathering cannot be classed as a convention, it being necessary for whatever ticket is named to go on the ballot by petition.

The Tammany men who were talking about the new turn in the situation yesterday based their apprehension on the personal candidacy of Mr. Hearst at the head of the ticket.

Clarence J. Shearn, Mr. Hearst's personal counsel, will go on the Independent ticket as candidate for District Attorney.

There were rumors yesterday that the independents had offered Controller Metz the second place on their ticket. He admitted that some such proposition had been made to him, but did not seem to take it seriously.

ELECTIONS IN CONNECTICUT.

New Haven and Waterbury Go Republican—Prohibitionists Lose Ground.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4.—This city and Waterbury to-day elected Republican Mayors by majorities of only a few hundred votes. In New Haven Frank J. Rice defeated Mayor James B. Martin, who sought re-election, by 406 votes. In Waterbury C. H. Reeves won by about the same plurality. The new Mayors of both cities will replace Democrats.

Elections were held in three other cities—New London, Norwalk, and South Norwalk—the Democrats winning in each instance. In New London the administration was Republican last year. In the two Norwalks there was no change.

In 162 of the 168 towns of Connecticut the annual elections were held to-day. Republicans claim victory in between 100 and 120 towns.

One of the hardest fights ever waged by the Prohibitionists of the State was made in the hope of putting Connecticut almost entirely in the prohibition column. The effort was a failure, for although ninety-seven towns voted no license last year a dozen slid back into the license column to-day. The largest was Winchester, in which is the borough of Winsted.

In Greenwich the women headed by Mrs. Charles B. Reed of New York won a victory for consolidation of school districts.

POLITICAL MUSEUM OPENS.

10,000 See the "Chamber of Horrors" on the First Day.

The Committee of One Hundred's Citizens' Exhibit and "Chamber of Horrors," at 29 Union Square, attracted great crowds yesterday. Fully 10,000 visited the hall during the afternoon and evening. If it continues its success from now until election nearly every man, woman, and child in this city will have read and seen the things which the committee lays at Tammany's door.

The centre of interest was the "Chamber of Horrors," in which a band played dirges while the crowd surveyed the exhibits.

BOSTON BROKERS ARRESTED.

Larceny of $120,000 Is Charged to Members of Failed Firm.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The affairs of the failed Boston brokerage firm of Sederquist, Barry & Co. were transferred from the civil to the criminal courts to-day. Arthur B. Sederquist and John E. Barry, members of the firm, were arrested on a secret indictment charging them jointly with the larceny of $120,000.

The indictment contains 120 counts, charging the larceny of various sums totaling $120,000 from a number of different persons, including L. M. Binford and Alexandre Green, in connection with stock brokerage transactions.

BANNARD ON HUNT FOR CAMPAIGN SHOT

Inspects Hunt's Point Park, Which, Assessed at $4,300, Cost the City $252,000.

DENIES HE WANTS JEROME

Not True That He Has Asked Whitman to Step Aside—Holds First Public Reception.

Otto T. Bannard, the Fusion nominee for Mayor, spent a busy day yesterday receiving delegations and individuals who came to offer their support and make suggestions in reference to the campaign.

Mr. Bannard explained to the newspaper men that he had spent his Sunday going through three of the city's boroughs in an automobile with John Purroy Mitchel, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen. It was really a hunt for campaign material, and they found plenty. They visited, among other places, the Hunt's Point "Park" and "bathing beach," which figured so largely in the testimony at the Haffen hearings.

"The piece of land is about big enough to pasture a cow on," said Mr. Bannard in discussing his trip. "It is far away from any house, too. The city paid $252,000 for it. I find that it is assessed at only $4,300. Fine business."

Mr. Bannard also went through the Washington Heights section, and then he and Mr. Mitchel took a spin over to Brooklyn, along the route of the projected Lafayette Avenue loop and the Fourth Avenue Subway line. Mr. Bannard said he had not studied this project enough to pass judgment upon it.

There was a report yesterday that Mr. Bannard had sought to get Charles S. Whitman to withdraw from the Fusion ticket for the purpose of substituting Mr. Jerome as the Fusion candidate for District Attorney.

"That is not true," said Mr. Bannard. "I have resisted as much as I could any attempt of putting Mr. Jerome on our ticket, although many persons suggested to me that this should be done."

Mr. Whitman opened campaign headquarters in the Hotel Breslin yesterday. An aggressive campaign is planned on his behalf. His personal campaign manager will be Harry W. Mack, former leader of the Fifteenth Assembly District. A campaign committee is now being formed on which are John C. Clark and James B. Reynolds, ex-secretaries to ex-Mayor Low, and Capt. Arthur F. Crosby.

The fusion conferences will be resumed to-day. It was said last night that the matter of a non-partisan ticket would be settled by selecting Democrats for the nomination for Borough President in the Bronx and in Queens and a Republican in Brooklyn. The objections to naming an independet Democrat in that borough still is as strong as ever. Yesterday a delegation of nearly 100 members of the organization in Kings called on Mr. Woodruff at State headquarters to protest against any local fusion in Kings. They want a straight Republican ticket in county and borough.

Yesterday was Mr. Bannard's first day of "open house." For an hour yesterday afternoon at his headquarters, in the Fifth Avenue Building, he welcomed any one who wished to see him. In this way, he reasoned, it would be possible to obtain many suggestions regarding the conduct of his campaign which might otherwise go unnoticed.

While a great many district leaders dropped in during the day and William M. Ivins, Job Hedges, and George McAneny called, few outsiders did so. A middle-aged man who has been out of work and sick in a hospital for three months came to make a "touch," an enthusiastic young man named William I. Swoope, who advertised himself as "the Napoleon of Oratory," offered his stump-speaking services, and two youths crept in to say that they thought Mr. Bannard was about the best candidate ever.

Mr. Swoope, "the Napoleon of Oratory," is an earnest-looking young man with glasses, and his prospectus showed that he is some orator, as his list of subjects range from "The Right to Kick" or "The Freedom of the New Woman" to "Our First Democrat" and "The Glory of the Times." Just what this last meant was not stated, and neither was it explained who "The First Democrat" was.

"I will be here at my office between 5:15 and 6:15 o'clock every afternoon," said Mr. Bannard, "ready to receive advice from any one and anxious to meet any one who has an interest in the election of our ticket. While the first day's reception has not been a glaring success, there are plenty of other days yet before election and before long I expect to see a crowd here every afternoon."

As a protection from possible cranks, the Republican nominee had fortified himself with a tall, muscular young man named Cornelius Daly, a Yale graduate of '05, who was an oarsman of calibre at the college. He has the official title of Sergeant-at-Arms.

Mr. Bannard went down to the lower east side last night to get acquainted with the Republican leaders there. About a dozen of his east side friends gave him a dinner early in the evening at Shober's Grand Street restaurant. A large crowd, who heard of his coming, was present, but there were no speeches. Joseph Levenson, leader of the Second Assembly District, proposed a toast to the candidate, in which all the diners in the restaurant took part. There was much cheering as Mr. Bannard replied to the toast, thanking his friends for the interest they expressed in his candidacy.

Among those present were Congressman Bennet, Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, Judge Charles H. Murray, Jacob A. Newstead, leader of the Fourth Assembly District; Ferdinand Eidman, leader of the Tenth; Charles F. Adler, leader of the Eighth; Lewis J. Frank, Joseph S. Marcus, and Dr. Isadore Seinberg.

Following the dinner Mr. Bannard went over to the Jewish Farmers' Convention at the Educational Alliance in East Broadway in order, as he expressed it, to show his sympathy with the movement. From there he went to the James G. Blaine Republican Club of the Second Assembly District, at 236 East Broadway, and then to the Fourth Assembly District Republican Club, at Grand and Rich Streets. He made no speeches at any of the places visited.

PARKHURST FOR BANNARD.

The Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, announced last night that he would advocate from his pulpit the election of Otto H. Bannard to be Mayor of New York.

"That Tammany should have made the choice of such a man as Justice Gaynor," Dr. Parkhurst said, "is perhaps to be interpreted as a sly confession of anxiety, for if he is the man of that stamp of integrity with which he is more or less widely credited Tammany can have no natural use for him, and his nomination would in that case be understood as a confession that a man out of the ordinary had to be selected.

"The fact that Tammany elects him, if it does, will be almost certain to operate in the way of swerving him from the straight path of executive duty, and when a politician commences to swerve, as they are pretty apt to do, there is no knowing where they will turn up before they are through."

HORSE INSURANCE FAILS.

The New York Company to be Liquidated by Superintendent Hotchkiss.

Through an order of Justice Diederich of the Supreme Court the New York Horse Insurance Company of 2,973 Third Avenue is now in the hands of William H. Hotchkiss, State Superintendent of Insurance, for liquidation. The company, a co-operative one, has about 400 members, assets of $108, and liabilities of $5,107. When the order was applied for every one that had anything to do with it wanted to know what a horse insurance company was.

This particular one insures live stock against death. All the policy holders are members of it, on the basis of share and share alike, and so, are liable to unlimited assessment by the Deputy Insurance Superintendent, now undertaking to liquidate it. Its members are mainly truckmen, small livery stable men, and the like.

In this particular company one trouble was that the members would not pay many assessments. With Herbert Gray for President it started business in 1906. Its liabilities began at once to outgrow its assets.

When the Superintendent of Insurance found this out last month he took advantage of a new section of the insurance law giving him the power to act as a receiver on application to the Supreme Court in case of insurance companies with whom "further transaction of business is hazardous."

FATHER STOLE CRIPPLE'S TOY.

It Was a Phonograph His Mother Bought to Amuse Him Indoors.

There were tears in the eyes of Mrs. Mena Callahan of 35 Manhattan Street, yesterday, when she stood before Judge Malone in General Sessions and told how she had worked hard to buy a phonograph for her little son, who is a cripple, and accused her husband, who had deserted her two years before, of breaking into the house and stealing the phonograph, all the money she had, and the children's clothes.

Michael Callahan, the husband, denied the charge of grand larceny. Callahan was found guilty and will be sentenced on Thursday.

Mrs. Callahan said that after her husband deserted her she became a janitress at the house on Manhattan Street. She bought a phonograph to amuse little Michael, who, a cripple, could not play on the street. It was his most prized plaything.

Mrs. Callahan says that on the night of July 9 she and the children went out for a walk. She had collected $30 rent just before this and placed it in a bureau drawer. When she returned the money was gone, likewise the phonograph and the children's clothes. A neighbor had seen Callahan leave the house.

Newspaper Wagon Drivers Acquitted.

Two drivers, one employed by a news company and the other by a New York newspaper, were on trial yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions. They had been arrested Sept. 5 by a Berg Society officer on a charge of unjustifiable fast driving. The driver for the news company was acquitted on the ground that the carrying of newspapers to the Grand Central for further distribution throughout the country was a purpose which justified the rate of speed used. Following this ruling the complaint against the other driver was dismissed on motion.

From Omaha to Denver in 12½ Hours.

It was announced yesterday at the headquarters of the Union Pacific, 120 Broadway, that all records had been broken by the Union Pacific for a passenger train between Omaha and Denver. A special train of eleven Pullmans containing 143 delegates to the American Street and Interurban Railway Convention, Denver, Col., which left New York City at 4 P. M. Oct. 1, arrived in Denver at 12:37 P. M. Oct. 3, making the run of 570 miles between Omaha and Denver over the Union Pacific Railroad, in 12 hours and 30 minutes.

New York University Prize Fund.

The annual interest, $50, of the Sherborne Vernon Damerel prize fund of $1,000, to be given on this year's commencement day by vote of the joint Faculty of New York University, to a member of the senior class of the university, college, or School of Applied Science who has shown an earnest endeavor in his studies and the general welfare of his class and college, and who gives promise of a useful life. In the selection of the recipient emphasis is laid primarily upon qualities of manly character, and secondarily, upon marked ability. The fund was given by Mr. and Mrs. George Damerel in memory of their son, who died June 24, 1909, a member of the class of 1910.

PROHIBITION FOR WHITMAN.

Party Convention Indorses Him for District Attorney.

The Prohibition Party of New York held its convention last night in the Long Island Historical Hall, Brooklyn. The platform declares for the divorce of the police department and municipal courts from political influence; an economical administration; extension of traffic facilities; equal pay for the sexes, and protection from drink by prohibition.

The following nominations were made: For Mayor, Alfred L Manierre of Manhattan; for Controller, Harry W. Doremus of Richmond; for President of the Board of Aldermen, John Berry of Brooklyn. The convention indorsed Charles S. Whitman, Fusion candidate for District Attorney.

The Chairman of the convention was John McKee of Brooklyn. The meeting was addressed by O. W. Stewart of Chicago.

J. B. A. Mullally in Aldermanic Race.

Three of the adjourned Democratic Assembly and Aldermanic conventions were held last night. In the Fifteenth Assembly District John B. A. Mullally, former Assistant District Attorney under Eugene A. Philbin and later an Assistant Corporation Counsel, was nominated. Aldermen Hines and Hochdorffer were both renominated.

Evening Apparel for Men

Theoretically, dress garments for men change but little from season to season. But there are changes—and minute though they may be, their bearing upon the general effect is important.

Our designers—those who devote their undivided effort to the creation of dress garments—are past masters of the art of producing evening clothes which, though they adhere to conventionality such as good form dictates, are nevertheless absolutely distinctive.

There are subtle touches here and there, minor details which, collectively, make garments of our creating a revelation to those who appreciate beauty of modelling and perfection of finish.

ALBERT PULITZER A SUICIDE IN VIENNA

Founder of The New York Journal, Suffering from Incurable Neurasthenia, Shoots Himself.

HAD POISONS IN A CHEST

Long Estranged from His Brother, Joseph Pulitzer—Born in Hungary and Came Here as a Boy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Oct. 4.—Albert Pulitzer, formerly publisher of The New York Journal and a brother of Joseph Pulitzer, shot and killed himself here yesterday.

Although Mr. Pulitzer had been a sufferer for years from incurable neurasthenia, passing restless night which caused despondency, his deed was unexpected even to his private secretary, Count M'morski. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Pulitzer retired, locking his apartment door, and he was not again seen alive. His physician, Dr. Pollak, who called at 7 o'clock, ordered that the apartment be broken into, only to find him lying on the floor in his night clothes.

It has been established that Mr. Pulitzer shot himself in front of a mirror. Death was instantaneous. In a chest were discovered a large number of powders and poisons, indicating that suicide had been contemplated for a long time.

It is Dr. Pollak's opinion that Mr. Pulitzer became a victim of neurasthenia twenty years ago through overwork, causing an unbearable sensitiveness to the slightest changes in temperature and light. Lately his malady developed into persecution mania, a sudden attack of which may have prompted the suicide.

His will had been deposited with an attorney. A rumor that his fortune has been left to the Vienna Voluntary Aid Society is incredible, as, according to his secretary, Mr. Pulitzer's fortune consisted chiefly of a life annuity, which expired at his death.

The funeral is expected to take place in Vienna.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—Joseph Pulitzer, who is now in Berlin, has had no direct information regarding the suicide of his brother Albert in Vienna yesterday. He was first informed of the occurrence by a newspaper correspondent telephoning to one of his secretaries.

Joseph and Albert Pulitzer had been estranged for some years.

Albert Pulitzer, journalist and writer, chiefly notable as the founder of The Morning Journal, was born at Mako, Hungary, on July 10, 1851. Like his brother, Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of The New York World, he came to this country while still a boy. At that time he spoke no English, but knowing German well, he became an instructor in German, first in a school in Kansas City and later in St. Louis.

In 1870 he became a reporter for the Chicago Staats-Zeitung, and during the year that he worked there acted as musical and dramatic critic, as telegraph editor and as city editor. The next year, having learned English by that time, he came to this city and was employed on The Sun. For The Herald he worked for some time in Washington, and later he acted as correspondent in the Russo-Turkish War.

In 1882 he determined to put into effect certain ideas he had on journalism by which he hoped to catch the popular taste. He tried, but failed, to purchase Truth and The Star, and then on Nov. 16, 1882, he started The Morning Journal, a one-cent paper, as publisher of which he continued until 1895. In the intervening years he had traveled much and had established a German edition of the Journal, with a wide circulation. By 1895 he had made a considerable fortune, and he sold the property to John R. McLean of Cincinnati, who sold it later to William R. Hearst.

Since then Mr. Pulitzer had lived mainly in Europe. While here two years ago on a visit he announced a new newspaper scheme, but nothing came of it. Among his writings was "Le Roman de Prince Eugène."

He leaves a son, Walter Pulitzer, a writer, principally of poetry, who lives in New York.

DIES IN FALL FROM WINDOW.

Agent General of New Brunswick Suffered from Nervous Trouble.

MARGATE, England, Oct. 4.—Charles A. Duff Miller, Agent General of New Brunswick in London since 1896, jumped or fell from a window here yesterday and was killed.

He had been staying at a sanitarium because of a nervous trouble. An attendant was constantly in charge, but Mr. Miller succeeded in eluding him and making his way to the window.

He was born in Ontario in 1856.

SALVAGE PLACED ON LIFE.

New Rules Concerning Collisions at Sea Are Agreed On.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 4.—The International Congress of Maritime Laws adopted to-day with practical unanimity the provisions of the proposed international convention relating to collisions and salvage at sea.

One of the clauses provides for the recovery of salvage on human life as well as on cargo.

POPE RESUMES AUDIENCES.

Effort Aggravates Pain, but Physicians Look for Improvement.

ROME, Oct. 4.—The Pope had a good night and was much better this morning. He resumed his audiences to-day.

The effort aggravated the pain and swelling, but the attending physicians think further improvement will be shown by to-morrow in his condition.

This being the seventh centennial of the foundation of the Franciscan Order, the Pope addressed an apostolic letter to the Franciscans throughout the world. He recapitulated the great merits of the order, of which he was proud to be a member, and concluded by establishing new rules, especially with reference to privileges and indulgences.

NATIONALISTS FIGHT BUDGET.

Opposition to Increased Taxes Likely to Delay Vote.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Nationalists have come out strongly against the clauses in the budget imposing additional duties on beer, spirits, and tobacco. They have carried on a vigorous debate in the House of Commons, and although they have reduced the Government's majority to 35 on divisions, they have secured no concessions.

By agreement between the Government and the Unionists the committee stage of the bill is to be concluded by Oct. 7, but it is likely that the Nationalists will cause delay by protracted debates on the remaining clauses.

STRAUS RECEIVED BY SULTAN.

Says America Would Foster Present Friendship with Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 4.—Oscar Straus, the American Ambassador to Turkey, was officially received in audience by the Sultan to-day. He said in his address that it was the desire of the President of the United States to cultivate the existing ties of friendship between his country and Turkey.

Thanks Morgan for Books.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—J. Pierpont Morgan received a special vote of thanks to-day from the city corporation Library Committee for his gift of three books on he North American Indian, which he recently presented to the Guildhall Library.

NEW YORKER WEDS SECRETLY.

Charles W. Gregg's Marriage in San Francisco Last July Made Known.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—The secret marriage here on July 14 of Charles Wilson Gregg, a New York lawyer and oil man, to Miss Valerie Smith of San Francisco, was revealed yesterday when the couple started for an automobile honeymoon trip to Los Angeles. Besides his discovery of a natural gas field at Petaluma, Cal., Mr. Gregg has mining interests in Colorado, and is connected with various enterprises in the South. For the last two years he has made his home at a hotel here, where his attentions to Miss Smith, who is the daughter of a retired publisher, led to a report of their marriage in July soon after it took place. Mr. Gregg's denial, however, set the rumors at rest.

He explained that he had been married secretly to surprise his relatives, and that a death in the family had prevented the announcement.

DAY NURSERIES INCORPORATE.

Two Jewish Charities Show That They Are Self-Supporting.

The State Board of Charities listened to applications for incorporation at its meeting yesterday from the Hebrew Kindergarten and Day Nursery, at 29 Montgomery Street, and the Hebrew Day Nursery of New York, at 262 Henry Street. Both have upward of 100 children in daily attendance, for which no fee is charged, food and medical care as well as instruction being furnished. Both are self-supporting.

The Commissioners suggested that the nurseries charge a fee of 5 cents for one child and 10 cents for three children per day so that the parents might feel that they were not receiving charity.

A third application was from the International Sunshine Society for an extension of their certificate of incorporation so that they might legally conduct their hospital and sanitarium at Bensonhurst, Brooklyn. It was also asked that the scope of the society be extended. Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, founder of the society, made the request.

Commissioner Stewart objected to the articles of incorporation as being too general, and suggested that a hospital staff be organized and the petition amended, whereupon the hearing was adjourned.

A fourth application was that of the Union Rescue Mission of East 134th Street, a negro organization doing house-to-house rescue work.

ABANDONS DUCT SUIT.

Telephone Concern Withdraws Demand Upon Empire City Subway Company.

The Public Service Telephone Company sought leave yesterday to discontinue its suit of last July when it asked the Supreme Court for a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel the Empire City Subway Company to permit it to run its electrical conductors through the ducts constructed for telephone wires. Supreme Court Justice Bischoff heard the application and reserved decision.

SPANISH REPULSE ATTACK BY MOORS

WAR WITH MOROCCO FEARED

Spain's Plans for Conquest Blocked by Opposition in Council—Executions Begin Again in Barcelona.

MELILLA, Morocco, Oct. 4.—Fifteen hundred Moors appeared yesterday on the heights of Mount Minier-Lixa, but they were dispersed by the Spanish artillery. The Moors also made a feeble attack on the Spanish position at Nador, but were repulsed.

No further information has been received here of the outcome of the offensive movements undertaken Saturday by Gen. Marina, commander of the Spanish forces.

Natives coming into Melilla report that the capture by the Spaniards of Zeluan, the sacred city of the Riffs, has aroused the tribes in the Hinterland, who are flocking to join Harka, the Riff leader.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—The extension of the field operations in Africa to which the Government is now committed by the dispatch of reinforcements to Gen. Marina, the Spanish commander, is further complicated by the possibility of a regular declaration of war between Morocco and Spain.

Heretofore the Moorish Government has not been involved in the fighting between the Spanish and the semi-independent tribesmen about Melilla, but it has protested against the prospective extension of Spain's operations beyond that territory.

While the Cortes is closed it becomes the duty of the Council of State to authorize unforeseen expenditures, and rumors are afloat to-day of dissensions in the Council. It is understood that the military party, the influence of which is growing, now insists that the military efforts and sacrifices in Africa must be compensated by the permanent occupation of the Moroccan Coast between Cape Tres Forcas and Tetuan.

King Alfonso is disposed to sympathize with the aims of the militarists, but an unexpected obstacle has arisen in the Council, where the four Liberals who have been opposing the campaign in Morocco as a military adventure have been joined by another Liberal, creating a tie in the Council.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—A dispatch from Barcelona says trials and executions of revolutionaries have been resumed in that city. It is declared that Ramon Clementi was shot this morning against the wall of the Montjuich Fortress for "rebellion, profanation of the bodies of convent sisters, and setting fire to a factory, in which several persons were asphyxiated."

The Public Prosecutor has appeared before a military court-martial, demanding that several men accused of rebellion, incendiarism, and robbery be sentenced to death or to long terms of imprisonment.

JILTED, SAYS GIRL OF 17.

She Demands $5,000—Didn't Learn to Cook, Defendant Replies.

Miss Mamie Shea, through her mother as guardian, began suit yesterday in Justice Giegerich's part of the Supreme Court to recover $5,000 damages from Nicholas Pappas, a Grand Street confectioner, for alleged breach of promise of marriage. The plaintiff, who is only 17 years old, occupied the witness chair most of the day, and told how Pappas, after promising on Jan. 24, 1907, to marry her, gave her a diamond ring and other jewelry. He finally went back to his home in Greece, supposedly to get his mother's blessing on the marriage, but on his return brought a bride.

Pappas's story has not yet been heard in court, but in his answer to the complaint he admits there was an engagement. He contends, however, that it was a conditional one, providing that if either of them found out they were unsuited to each other, he or she could break the engagement.

He also put in the defense that it was understood before the marriage took place that Miss Shea was to "learn to keep a house and how to cook, and also such housewifely duties as would enable her to furnish the defendant with the ordinary comforts of a good and well-kept home, and further agreed to take such lessons and tuition from one Mrs. Minnie Grammas." This, he alleges, she failed to do.

VENICE, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, and Miss Carow left Venice this afternoon. They went direct to Padua, where they visited the university and cathedral.

MORE QUEENS BRIDGE CARS.

Carry First Passengers Over on Through Transfers to Manhattan.

The 5-cent fare from any part of Queens through to Manhattan, for which 3,000 members of the civic associations of Queens have been fighting ever since the completion of the new Queensboro Bridge, which was opened in April, was put into operation about 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a trolley car of the New York & Queens County electric railway with fourteen passengers crossed the bridge from Long Island City. Among the passengers were three who were traveling on the first transfers issued from the trolley lines in Queens for transportation across the new bridge on the one fare.

The service installed yesterday is to be operated until a permanent franchise is issued, when the Queens trolley roads will be connected with the bridge loop at the Long Island City plaza and passengers will be carried from Queens across the bridge into Manhattan without change of cars.

The municipal shuttle line established recently will operate its cars on the trolley tracks which run on either side of the driveway of the bridge, while the Queens trolley road will operate its cars on the outside tracks of the bridge.

FLOATS MISS PARADE IN POUGHKEEPSIE

Arrive Late — Local Committee Not Allowed to Unload Them from Scows.

THOUSANDS DISAPPOINTED

Gov. Hughes Addresses Crowd in Eastman Park and Later Speaks at Banquet and Dinner.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Oct. 4.—Fifty thousand visitors, with the population of Poughkeepsie, assembled to-day for Dutchess County Day in the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, were greatly disappointed by the failure of the New York commission to get the historical floats here in time to take part in the land parade, which was the principal feature of the day's plans.

The promise had been made that Poughkeepsie was to have half of the fifty floats used in New York last week, while the other half were sent to Yonkers. The floats, conveyed on scows, were due yesterday, but did not arrive until after the parade had started, at 2:30 this afternoon. The bargemen in charge said it was too late to unload the floats then, notwithstanding that the Poughkeepsie committee had horses, drivers, and people to impersonate characters in readiness on the wharf.

To show the public that the fault did not rest here, the local committee sent the horses and drivers over the line of march, while the floats remained on the scows, which will take them to Albany.

Barring the absence of the floats, the celebration was successful. The Clermont, Half Moon, and naval vessels, at anchor opposite the city, attracted much attention, and were inspected by several thousand people. The submarines gave an exhibition of diving under the Poughkeepsie Bridge.

Gov. Hughes and staff arrived at 4:45 P. M., after the parade. The Governor made a short address in Eastman Park, where 20,000 people were assembled. The school children of the city saluted Gov. Hughes, and the combined bands from the parade played patriotic airs.

The parade consisted of six divisions. The first parade was made up of bluejackets and marines from the scout cruisers Birmingham and Salem, and the torpedo boats which are acting as naval escort to the Half Moon and Clermont on their voyage up the Hudson; of National Guard companies, cadets, Junior Order of American Mechanics of Poughkeepsie and Newark, N. J.; local and visiting volunteer fire companies, fraternal organizations, and school children.

Gov. Hughes and the naval officers were guests of honor at a banquet at the Nelson House to-night. In addition to speaking at this banquet, Gov. Hughes also spoke at a dinner given by the Hudson-Fulton Commission through Mayor Sage and the Board of Aldermen of Poughkeepsie to the Presidents and Trustees of the incorporated villages of Dutchess County, at the Morgan House.

GOVERNOR GUEST OF YONKERS.

Sees Parade of 38 Floats—Mount Vernon and New Rochelle Represented.

Special to The New York Times.

YONKERS, Oct. 4.—Old Home Week opened at Yonkers to-day with a Hudson-Fulton parade in which 15,000 men took part. There were twenty-three of the historical floats seen in the New York parade, and fifteen floats contributed by Yonkers societies in line, and the paraders included military, civic, fraternal, and fire-fighting organizations of Yonkers, New Rochelle, and Mount Vernon. Col. John C. Schotts was Grand Marshal.

For this occasion Gov. Hughes and his staff were the guests of the city—the first time in a decade that Yonkers has entertained a Governor of the State.

The Governor with his staff came up from New York City during the forenoon and was met at the station by the local Reception Committee and escorted to the Yonkers City Club, where he was entertained at luncheon by Mayor N. A. Warren and the members of the Reception Committee. Among those present besides Gov. and Mrs. Hughes were Mayor and Mrs. Howe of Mount Vernon, District Attorney and Mrs. F. A. Winslow, Mrs. Charles N. Lane, Acting Sheriff Scherp, County Clerk Buck, County Treasurer Burling, Military Secretary to Gov. Hughes G. S. Treadwell, Adjt. Gen. Milton H. Henry, Major Reginald Foster, Major Berussy of the Twelfth Regiment, and Major Landon of the Seventh Regiment. Mayor Warren presided, and grace was said by the Rev. Charles R. Corley of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church.

The party then entered automobiles and visited points of interest. As the Governor passed the High School over 1,000 school children, in red, white, and blue, arranged upon a grand stand to represent a huge flag, sang patriotic songs.

KINGSTON HONORS CHAMBERS.

Monument Describes Town's First Settler as Sir Thomas.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Kingston's second day of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration was marked by patriotic exercises in all the public schools and the unveiling of a monument to Thomas Chambers, first settler of Kingston, who came here in 1652.

Through an error the inscription on the monument gives Chambers the title of "Sir." This will be removed as soon as official notice has been received from London that he was not a Knight. To-night the entire city is illuminated and thousands of visitors throng its streets.

CELEBRATIONS TO COME.

Week Will See Progress of Clermont and Half Moon All the Way to Troy.

The Hudson-Fulton Celebration to-day will again centre in the five towns along the Hudson which were conspicuous in yesterday's programme. These five towns are Hudson, Kingston, Catskill, Poughkeepsie, and Yonkers. Poughkeepsie will lose the Clermont and the Half Moon, these two vessels being scheduled to arrive in Kingston at 8 o'clock this morning. Their arrival will be followed by a military and civic parade. Gov. Hughes is to deliver an address at Kingston at noon, and at 1 o'clock a luncheon will be served to the city's guests. The day's festivities will close with a reception to the Governor.

New York City will get another day of the celebration when, on Wednesday, Queens Borough is to have fireworks and music in all of its five wards. A great parade is to be held in Yonkers on that day, and Catskill also will celebrate when it gets its first glimpse of the Half Moon and the Clermont. A long parade will be held, after which Gov. Hughes will deliver an address.

On Thursday the flotilla accompanying the Half Moon and the Clermont will be received at Hudson early in the morning, and later in the day will follow a historical parade. Parades on that day will also be seen at Ossining and Croton-on-the-Hudson, and on the west side of the river at Haverstraw and Stony Point. On Thursday, too, the celebration opens at Albany with children's exercises and an automobile parade in the afternoon and a pageant and parade at night.

The big day of the celebration for Albany, however, will come on Friday, when the Half Moon and the Clermont will arrive. Gov. Hughes will deliver an oration at Riverside Park in the morning, while in the afternoon the historical parade will take place.

On Saturday, the last day, the celebration will extend along the length of the Hudson Valley—from New York to Troy. The carnival parade which was held here last Saturday night will take place in Brooklyn, while Troy will greet the Half Moon and the Clermont. The official closing of the entire celebration will be signalized by the lighting of beacon fires visible one from the other, from Staten Island to Troy.

MAYOR PRAISES THE POLICE.

Tells Commissioner Baker That the Force Did Great Work.

Mayor McClellan has written to Police Commissioner Baker, Fire Commissioner Hayes, and Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards congratulating them and the men of their departments on the efficient work they accomplished during the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. Of the police work he said:

> I do not believe that in the history of our city the Police Department has been put to a harder test, yet it is the unanimous opinion of all who were in a position to observe that the situation was handled perfectly.
> A mere exhibition of police efficiency is not new or surprising to the people of New York, but the various water and land demonstrations of last week, combined with the fact that our population was abnormally swelled by visitors, made the work of policing the city one of tremendous difficulty. I cannot say enough in praise of the men, and at the same time I wish to convey to you my congratulations on the able way in which their work was directed by you, Deputy Commissioner Bugher, and your other assistants.

To all the Commissioners he expressed the wish that as their force had been compelled to work exceptionally long hours in the last ten days, extra leaves of absence might be granted to them to make up for it if the requirements of the departments permitted it.

HUDSON FLEET DEPARTING.

Three of Our Warships Remain Until Saturday, When Visitors Sail.

The disbanding of the Atlantic fleet for overhauling preparatory to the southern cruise began yesterday with the departure from New York of the battleship Mississippi and the armored cruisers Montana, North Carolina, and New York. These ships sailed early yesterday morning, and will be followed to-day by the battleships Louisiana, Minnesota, Virginia, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Idaho, Georgia, New Jersey, Missouri, Nebraska, Rhode Island, and Ohio. The Connecticut, Vermont, and Kansas will remain in the Hudson until Saturday.

The foreign ships will begin coaling to-morrow and on Friday will clean ship preparatory to sailing for home the next day. The big cruiser-battleship Inflexible, it is rumored, will on the return voyage make n effort to lower all warship records for speed in crossing the Atlantic. The Inflexible is one of the fastest warships afloat, and can steam as fast as the Mauretania and Lusitania when going at full speed.

"JOBBERY," HE SAYS, IN THE PAGEANT

Philadelphia "Specialist" Also Asserts That It Sadly Lacked Historical Sequence.

FOUND IT DEVOID OF ART

Commission Hints That the Critic Is Wroth Because His Offer of Help Was Declined.

Copies of The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin which reached town yesterday contained a somewhat scathing criticism of the historical pageant which was given in this city last Tuesday as a feature of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. It was said that visiting Philadelphians were greatly disappointed in the pageant.

The Bulletin also quotes Dr. Ellis F. Oberholtzer, who directed the historical pageant for Philadelphia's Founders' Week and passes as the Quaker City's historical pageant specialist, as accusing the Hudson-Fulton Commission of about everything from financial jobbery to lack of artistic taste. The article begins by saying that the procession of floats lacked "historical coherence."

"The floats were out of their proper places," it remarks, judicially, in part. "Endless confusion reigned. To the eyes of the Philadelphians it was an incongruous hodge-podge. Silk hats and frock coats blended with allegories. The 'history' suggested was scarcely recognizable. 'Die Wacht am Rhein,' played by a discordant chime of bells near the reviewing stand before the procession approached, was like a prophetic note of warning as to the inappropriateness of the things to follow.

"Mayor McClellan, looking spruce in a frock coat and high hat, walked at the head of the strange procession. Bands of music were so numerous and so near to one another that one marching tune melted into another. An Italian band played 'I Am Going to Do What I Like,' and when the crowd jeered at this it changed to the classic strains of 'My Wife's Gone to the Country.' Even the Englishmen on the reviewing stand laughed at this.

"The French 'Guard Lafayette' led the American Clermont float, and to a branch of the Irish Societies fell the duty of escorting the Dutch Half Moon on her trip downtown. Equally inappropriate was the appearance of the float 'Bowling on the Green,' which was sandwiched between the Syrian and American cavalry and a French band playing the 'Marseillaise.' A French society escorted the float representing the purchase of Manhattan. Another float symbolizing the 'Introduction of Croton Water,' on which were half a dozen pretty girls, was heralded by a brass band playing 'I Love My Wife, but Oh You Kid.'"

The intimations of financial jobbery against the Hudson-Fulton Commission are made in an interview with Dr. Oberholtzer.

"New York's historical pageant should never have been put on the streets under that name," the pageant specialist is quoted as saying. "It was a parade of National and secret societies in their street dress, or, in the best case, in their regalia, carrying their flags and banners and escorted by bands playing marches from the Broadway music halls.

"The fifty floats were abominable. They were made like the floats used in the Veiled Prophet and other grotesque parades in the Southern States. Those who built the New York are said to have gained their experience in the South, I understand.

"The New York floats were fantastic constructions in the most awkward shapes of red serpents, yellow roosters, and plaster horses and mules. The colors seemed to come from cans of paris green and other poisonous-looking powders and paints. Not one showed the hand of the artist, and it amazes me that those distinguished citizens of New York in charge of the celebration at this stage in the history of art would permit such offensive structures to go upon the street.

"If New York, as is said, paid $300,000 for this parade, it is the most outrageous piece of jobbery since the days of the Tweed ring. We could have built these floats with our force in Philadelphia for $20,000—or, rather, we could have built the same number of such as were used here last October. We could not have made here what were seen in New York at any price.

"Some of our men were offered places in connection with the work in New York, but refused the employment when they saw how it was being done. If as little as $65,000, the cost of the Philadelphia pageant, was expended for the New York pageant, half of the sum should have been profit."

When the members of the Hudson-Fulton Commission saw a copy of The Philadelphia Bulletin containing Dr. Oberholtzer's criticisms, they were not very much inclined to take the charges seriously.

"When the commission was looking about last year for a Superintendent to build the floats and direct the pageant," said Assistant Secretary E. Hagaman Hall, "Dr. Oberholtzer of Philadelphia, who is now criticising us, offered himself for the place. His overtures were quite cordial. He came up here, and I remember taking him up to the American Tract Society Building to luncheon. We decided finally that he wasn't the man we wanted and we engaged as Superintendent A. H. Stoddard instead. Mr. Stoddard came to us recommended as having been Superintendent of the Mardi Gras pageants in New Orleans for years.

"He superintended the building of the floats for the celebration, and we audited and paid the bills. We let out no contracts of any kind. All the construction work was done by the commission itself. As for the historical pageant in Manhattan having cost $300,000, as Dr. Oberholtzer suggests, the total cost of the parade and of the carnival parade and of their repetition in the different boroughs and up State has been only $235,000.

"We admit that the historical sequence of the floats in Tuesday's pageant was somewhat mixed. It had rained earlier in the day. For many hours it was doubtful whether we could have the parade at all. All the floats were massed under a shelter in our den and at the 155th Street viaduct.

"We couldn't take them out in the rain because they were made of papier maché and because their trimmings would have become bedraggled. When the weather finally cleared we had the alternative of keeping the crowd waiting two hours in the streets and on the stands while we sorted out the floats and got them into their right order, or of hustling them down the line on time in whatever order they came. We thought the New York public would prefer the latter arrangement.

"The police in one place made some of the floats make a détour, and this caused more confusion. As for the music, the commission engaged the best bands in town at holiday prices."

Court Refuses to Enjoin Mayor and Police from Interfering with Them.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich handed down a decision yesterday denying injunctions against the Mayor, the Police Commissioner, and the police in twelve suits brought by the moving picture show proprietors to restrain the defendants from interfering with their business on Sundays and from closing such places or arresting the employes of the plaintiffs "except for a misdemeanor or to execute a warrant of arrest."

The decision sustains Gen. Bingham, who was Police Commissioner when the suits were brought. The Mayor was joined as a defendant in a number of the suits.

GIFT TO THE MINNESOTA.

Miss Schaller Represents State in Silver Service Presentation.

Standing in front of the great after 12-inch turret of the battleship Minnesota yesterday, Miss Rose Marie Schaller of Hastings, Minn., as the official representative of her State, presented to that battleship what is said to be the most magnificent silver service ever given to an American warship. Four years ago Miss Schaller had broken a bottle of wine on the bow of the giant fighter as she left the ways, and yesterday she became the first woman in the navy's history to officially represent a State in making the customary presentation of a silver service to a new warship.

Miss Schaller, a tall, graceful girl, dressed in white and wearing a large hat covered with white plumes, made a pretty picture as she faced Commander William S. Sims of the battleship, to whose custody, as the representative of the Navy Department, the service was intrusted. The bluejackets were massed on the top of the turret and on the bridge behind Miss Schaller while she was speaking, and when she had ended the sailors cheered uproarously for the girl whose picture has held the place of honor in the Captain's quarters of the Minnesota, since she went into commission over two years ago.

More than 300 guests were present. Capt. Hugo Osterhaus, commanding the Second Division of the Atlantic Fleet; Commander Sims, Flag Lieut. Berry, Lieut. King, Capt. Osterhaus's aid, and Lieut. Commanders W. K. Harrison, O. P. Jackson, I. C. Wettengel, and R. I. Curtin received the guests on the after deck of the battleship.

The silver service of fifty-six pieces had been placed on an onyx table and covered with a large American flag that was not removed until Miss Schaller had been introduced. Behind Miss Schaller as she spoke was a stand of colors that were also presented to the ship by the State whose name she bears. Commander Sims himself was not forgotten, and when the ship presentations were over J. Harry Lewis of St. Paul presented the Commander with a gold cigarette case.

Miss Schaller was escorted to her place in front of the after turret by Capt. Osterhaus, and Commander Sims stepped forward and stood at attention about ten paces in front of her. O. Cullen Calhoun, one of the Minnesota Commissioners, introduced Miss Schaller as one of his State's "loveliest daughters," and then Miss Schaller made her speech, presenting the silver service.

"Three cheers for Miss Schaller," shouted a midshipman of the Minnesota as she stopped speaking, and the volley that resounded was heard on the Connecticut, a mile away. The Minnesotans and the ship officers rushed up and congratulated Miss Schaller, then dropped back to listen to Commander Sims.

"On the part of the Navy Department," said the Commander, "I have the honor to accept, through you, the special Commissioners appointed by his Excellency, your governor, this beautiful silver service as a gift from the people of your great State. By this act this service becomes part of the military property of the United States, and by custom a part of the equipment of this ship."

After this ceremony the stand of flags was presented to the ship by Mr. Calhoun. There were four flags, the National, the State, the artillery, and the infantry emblems.

Among those present from Minnesota were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Elmer, Theodore W. Griggs, Mrs. Livingston, the Misses Abbie and Mary Livingston, Homer Clark, Mrs. L. P. Ordway, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stem, Mrs. Albert Schaller, Miss Bonnie Ransom, and many members of the Minnesota Society of New York.

Briarcliff Milk Is the Only Guaranteed Milk Sold in New York City

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, CITY OF NEW YORK,
S. W. Corner 55th Street and Sixth Ave.
When issued September 1, 1909.
No. 39625
Permission is granted to Briarcliff Farms, Walter W. Law, Pres., to produce "Guaranteed Milk" at Pine Plains Dutches County, New York,
THIS PERMIT TO BE IN FORCE UNTIL REVOKED BY THIS BOARD.
By Order of the Board of Health.
This Permit not Transferable.

Guaranteed Milk means "The Farms and Milk pass the most rigid inspection there is. The milk produced is the best that the present knowledge of the subject will permit."

This means that the people of New York now have absolute assurance of pure natural milk of the richest possible quality.

The Briarcliff herd is composed of registered and high grade Jerseys, bred and cared for at the 3,600 acre Briarcliff Farms at Pine Plains. Briarcliff Milk is bottled at the Farms and delivered to consumers in New York through Briarcliff Farms' own delivery system.

The production of Briarcliff Milk is at present limited, and those desiring it are requested to address Briarcliff Farms, 5½ East 46th Street (Windsor Arcade), or Telephone 3278 Murray Hill.

China: Open Stock Patterns

Basement.

Crash! Accidents will happen in the best regulated China closet. There goes another plate, or dish, or cup, or pitcher, smashed into smithereens. Careless handling will do it, you know. And when it comes to China, the fingers of some children are all thumbs. And so many cooks and butlers and dining-room maids are cursed with a fatal genius for dropping things.

In former years, the economic housewife witnessed the ruthless destruction of her favorite Dinner Sets with a sinking heart. The catastrophe was gradual. A cup was broken, then it was a plate, then a tureen, perhaps then another and another piece clattered on the floor; until before she could realize it, the Set was badly crippled—so depleted that it went out of commission—and a new one was bought, while the remaining unbroken pieces were relegated to an obscure pantry or kitchen shelf.

But that was before we introduced Open Stock Patterns in America. Buy one of our Open Stock China Sets and when one of the pieces is broken you may replace it, thus keeping the Set intact. We are now showing over one hundred Open Stock Patterns and are constantly adding to them.

Cut Glass: For Presents

Basement.

We operate our own Glass Shops. They are right here on the premises—eighth floor—and all are invited to visit them.

You'll be interested in seeing a plain "blank" ground into forms of beauty by the sandstone wheels. Prism-tint answers prism-tint as their glowing lights merge into radiant color-plays that are the charm of Cut Glass.

Ours are the lowest prices extant. As manufacturers we save the middleman's profit, and as retailers, selling exclusively for cash, we can afford to go on with shorter profits than competitors who have charge accounts.

TAFT WOULD CLINCH ROOSEVELT PROGRESS

Laws Needed for That Purpose, He Repeats, Which He Will Urge on Congress.

NOTES PROSPERITY'S PERILS

President Reaches Sacramento After Admiring Mt. Shasta and Enjoying a Continuous 25-Hour Trip.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 4.—After making one of the longest jumps of his trip and traveling for twenty-five hours through Oregon and the northern half of California, President Taft arrived here to-night at 7:10 o'clock, to remain until 4 o'clock to-morrow morning, when he will proceed to Oakland and San Francisco. The President was entertained at dinner, was taken for an automobile ride through the city, and delivered an address in the State Capitol grounds.

Mr. Taft selected for the principal feature of his speech the conservation of natural resources. He declared anew that before many of the Roosevelt policies of conservation can be carried into effect, confirmatory and enabling legislation must be secured, and he pledged himself to use all his power to induce Congress to pass the laws necessary.

Having already made a number of set speeches covering the various subjects he expects to incorporate in his annual message to Congress, the President, during the rest of his tour, will discuss in more or less detail many of the phases of the larger questions, for he believes that, after all, the details count more than a mere general declaration of policy.

A day and night of uninterrupted travel naturally suggests discomfort and fatigue, but the twenty-five hours between Portland and Sacramento proved to be a period of real rest and enjoyment for the President. The only stops made on the way were at division points—stops necessary to the operation of the train. There were crowds at each of these, and the President appeared on the rear platform of his car to shake hands or to make a few informal remarks.

At Dunsmuir, near the foot of Mount Shasta, a magnificent snow-clad peak, the President declared that a night of solid sleep and the bracing air of Northern California had entirely "knocked out" the cold he contracted in Seattle.

Mr. Taft Plays Bridge.

Mr. Taft thoroughly enjoyed his stay on the train. He read a little, lounged about the car, played a friendly game of "bridge" with members of his party, and during the five or six hours Mount Shasta was in sight, admired that towering peak in all the changing aspects the winding railroad brought into view. Shasta was really the first of the snow mountains of the West that the President has seen on this trip. When he was in Colorado Pike's Peak was hidden in a cloud bank. During the two days he was in Seattle, the weather was cold and gray, and the peak which is known on the Seattle side and Mount Rainier and on the Tacoma side as Mount Tacoma, was nowhere to be seen.

Many panoramic pictures of Portland, Ore., show snow-capped Mount Hood "on guard" in the background, but while the President was in town the atmospheric conditions were not just right. Mr. Taft laughingly declared in Portland that after several visits both to Seattle and to Portland, he was prepared to question the existence of any such mountains as Rainier or Hood.

President Taft was welcomed into California at Red Bluff by Gov. Gillett, Lieut. Gov. Porter, Senator G. C. Perkins, ex-Secretary of the Navy Victor Metcalf, M. H. De Young of San Francisco, and other members of a committee gathered from different sections of the State. Members of the committee from San Francisco represented both graft prosecution and anti-graft prosecution. After passing to-morrow in San Francisco, President Taft heads for the Yosemite Valley.

Speaking from the car end at Dunsmuir, Cal., President Taft said:

"I am on a tour of some 13,000 miles, and I am trying to gather information as we go with reference to the conditions of the country, and at the same time to give you a superficial view of the man whom it has been your good or bad fortune to elect President of the United States.

Finds Prosperity Everywhere.

"Everywhere in this country I have found evidence of prosperity, from Boston to Portland, and if signs do not fail we are upon an era of business enterprise and expansion that has never been seen in this country before. Now, with that I would not have you forget that there are certain responsibilities. We have had evils growing out of our prosperity. Men have seized power by means of accumulation of wealth, and its use in methods that are not legal and cannot be approved, by way of monopoly and otherwise. Now, we are attempting by the general law of the United States to suppress that kind of abuse.

"They were brought to the attention of the people in a marvelous crusade by my predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt, and it is my duty to continue those policies and to enforce them as far as I may and recommend to Congress that there be put upon the statute books those laws that shall clinch the progress which was made under him, which he preached and which we all look forward to as a permanent condition.

"But the difficulty is that whenever everybody is prosperous, when everybody is comfortable, then is the time when our old friend Satan steps in and helps along the evil cause. Then is the time when we are apt to be inert and enjoy the things we have without looking forward in the future and seeing that the evils will grow and ultimately swamp us. It is to the people that we must look for an enforcement of these principles.

"You should select your representatives and have them know you are watching them in Congress and see that they follow the line of enforcement.

"Of course we want prosperity, but we wish prosperity in such a way that there shall be an equality of opportunity among the individuals so that everybody will get his share, and that it shall not be confined to a few who monopolize the means of production or the means of transportation, and thus prevent that equality of distribution which we all like to see.

"Now, my fellow-citizens, I feel sure that you are not only healthy in body, but healthy in mind; that you are in favor of the good things; that you are in favor of decent government; that you are in favor of decent men and decent women, and that you look forward to the future as a time when we shall all grow better."

TAFT BANQUET TICKETS SLOW.

Los Angeles Committee Has Sold Only 347 of 800 at $25 Apiece.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 4.—The Taft Banquet Committee is on the verge of panic because it has become known that less than half the tickets have been sold for the affair at the Shrine Auditorium Oct. 11. A vigorous campaign has been undertaken to sell the remainder, because from the fund thus derived the committee depends for the remainder of the Taft entertainment here.

It is believed that public-spirited men will come forward and save the city's reputation by seeing that the tickets are sold, but the fact remains that but 347 out of the 800 issued have been disposed of so far, though as an inducement to purchasers each banquet ticket is accompanied by three gallery tickets, holders of which can watch the President eat.

When it was planned to give the banquet it was announced that only 800 banqueters could be accommodated and that all those who wanted to attend had better send in their names and $25 at once, so that the committee might pick and choose the 800 who were to be honored.

SULTAN'S LETTER TO TAFT.

Communications to President and to Knox Delivered by Moroccan Delegates

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The Moroccan delegates to the Hudson-Fulton Celebration to-day called at the State Department and delivered to Alvey L. Adee, Acting Secretary of State, letters from the Sultan to the President and from the Grand Vizier to the Secretary of State. The ranking member of the delegation was Sid Laarby, a Moorish Prince. Each of the letters was wrapped in figured silk scarf, beautifully embroidered. The letter to the President was not made public, but that to the Secretary of State was as follows:

> Praise to the only God. There is no strength or power but in God, the Great, the Almighty.
> To the dear, the wise, the statesman, the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the great American Nation, the Honorable Philander Chase Knox:
>
> We beg to inform your Excellency that our master, the prince of believers, the Sultan of Morocco, upon the invitation of the illustrious and honorable President of your great nation, regarding who will be officially sent to represent this Holy Empire on the occasion of the two great celebrations which will be held in the City of New York, one being the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery by Hendrik Hudson of the river of his name, the celebration to take place on both its banks; and the other being the one hundredth anniversary of the first successful application of steam to the navigation of the said river by Robert Fulton, has sent, in answer to the said kind and courteous invitation to participate in the said celebrations jointly with the members of your great nation and people, the servant of his Shereefian Majesty, exalted by God, the Fekieh, the scribe, the wise, Sid Laarby, son of the famous Fekieh, the late Sid Mohamed Sanhagi, who was one of the viziers of our master the great King, the late Sultan Mouley Hassan, may God have mercy upon his soul, being accompanied by the servant of his Majesty, the Amin, the wise, the well known for his trustfulness and commercial reliability, Sid Mohamed Ben Abdeslam Ben Jelul. They are bearers of a holy letter from his Shereefian Majesty to be presented to the President of your great nation. The said letter is adorned with expressions of friendly congratulations on the occasion of the said invitation, which is felt to be most agreeable to both of our countries, and contains assurances of these reiterated congratulations of the Government of our victorious and great master the Sultan.
>
> We trust that the friendly relations will develop and increase to the satisfaction of both of our countries.
>
> In peace, Shaaban 20th, 1327, Sept. 6, 1909. AISSA BEN OMAR.

TURBINES FOR BIG WARSHIPS.

Two New American Dreadnoughts to Have This Style of Engine.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Both the new American Dreadnoughts, of 26,000 tons displacement, for which contracts were recently awarded, are to be equipped with Parsons turbine engines.

This decision was reached at a conference to-day between Secretary Meyer, Commander Cone, Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, and Rear Admiral W. L. Capps, Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, who has just returned to the United States from an etxensive tour of European shipyards.

The New York Shipbuilding Company, which is to construct the Arkansas, was notified some time ago that turbines would be installed. Decision as to the motive power for the Wyoming, to be constructed by the Cramps, was postponed temporarily, but Secretary Meyer and his associates to-day decided favorably for the Parsons turbine, feeling satisfied, as Secretary Meyer expressed it, that this would be more advantageous to the Government than the proposed combination of turbines and reciprocating engines, which had been insistently urged by some naval officials.

Loeb to Have an Auction Sale.

More than $15,000 worth of unclaimed and abandoned merchandise remaining in the care of Collector Loeb will be sold at public auction, beginning to-day, and continuing until it is disposed of. The official catalogue, issued yesterday, contains 1,068 lots, covering about every article enumerated in the tariff, as well as some that are not.

SCHLIEMAN ON TRIAL FOR STABER MURDER

Prisoner Acts Queerly in Court and the Police Think He Is Shamming Insanity.

RAPID PROGRESS IN CASE

Prosecution's Side Closed the First Day—Separate Trial for Giro, Defendant's Accomplice.

What promises to be one of the shortest murder trials on record in Kings County was begun yesterday before Justice Crane in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, when Frank Schlieman, alias Smythe, was put on trial for the murder of Mrs. Sophie Staber, at her home, 455 East Eighteenth Street, Flatbush, on the morning of July 8.

Within an hour and a half the jury was chosen, the prosecution opened, and before noon the first witness, George C. Staber, the murdered woman's husband, had finished his testimony. When the trial was adjourned late in the afternoon nineteen witnesses had been examined and District Attorney Clarke had closed the people's case.

Carlo Giro, Schlieman's accomplice in the crime, is to be tried separately. Congressman Otto Foelker and Hector McN. Curran represented Giro. Lawyer Edward J. Reilly appeared as counsel for Schlieman. District Attorney Clarke announced that after Schlieman's trial he would try Giro.

Schlieman hobbled to his seat beside the counsel table on crutches. He appeared to be in pain from the wound he received at the time of the burglary. He mumbled to himself all during the proceedings. His right arm was in a sling, which he shifted frequently. The police believe he is trying to feign insanity.

In an effort to save the prisoners from the electric chair, Lawyer Reilly will try to prove that Mrs. Staber was shot by her son while he was struggling with Giro. Young Staber testified at the Coroner's inquest that the shot which killed his mother came from the direction in which the prisoner had run in trying to escape.

In opening the case Mr. Clarke showed how the burglary was planned, went over the details of the crime, and told how the accused men went to the Staber home armed with revolvers and burglars' tools. He explained to the jury that the law holds that a burglar is guilty of murder in the first degree if a life be taken while he is committing a burglary. Therefore, he said, it was unnecessary to show intent in such a case.

TO CHECK IMPORT ABUSES.

Government Will Impose Stricter Regulations on Receivers of Fruit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Abuses in fruit importation, especially on the docks at New York, entailing losses of thousands of dollars to the Government, are aimed at in regulations proclaimed to-day by Acting Secretary Reynolds of the Treasury Department. The regulations are directed to Collectors of Customs "and all others concerned."

The regulations estop importers from delaying for a week or ten days the filing of claims for allowance for decay, destruction, or injury of fruit imported but not taken from the docks, making it impossible for the authorities to determine what to allow for the deterioration of imports. California fruit raisers took up this question with Congress at the last session, contending that the delays operated to the undue advantage of Italian interests, particularly as to oranges and lemons.

The Government is entitled to the duty on the arrival of the fruit, and forty-eight hours is fixed by the department under to-day's drastic circular as the time after the arrival of the vessel within which importers may file their claims for allowance for shortage or non-importation.

Did It Ever Occur To You?

To run on water level all the way to Chicago is a guarantee of comfort by day and sleep at night.

To see on one trip the world-famous highlands and palisades of the Hudson, the picturesque Mohawk Valley and Niagara Falls, the greatest scenic wonder on this planet, is at least interesting.

But did it ever occur to you that ONLY ONE railway system affords all of these advantages to the traveler?

Tickets and Sleeping-Car Accommodations

Ticket offices at Grand Central Station and the Station at 125th Street are open day and night every day in the year. Principal city ticket office, 1216 Broadway, is open every day (holidays and Sundays included), from 8.00 a.m. to 10.00 p.m.

WHAT MAKES YOU DEAF?

Eight out of every ten people hard of hearing allow themselves to go deaf as a result of carelessness or bad judgment. Deafness usually owes its presence to some throat affection. The throat disease closes the openings of the tubes that lead from the throat up into the middle ear. Through the common habit of holding the nostrils tightly closed with a handkerchief while blowing hard to free them certain germs are forced up into the Eustachian tubes and these germs cause disease that blocks up the ear tubes and prevents the free passage of air into the ear.

How Dry Catarrh Causes Deafness.

There is a form of disease that attacks the membranes of the nostrils and throat, but does not cause a discharge. This disease is called dry catarrh. In the beginning of this trouble the nostrils are nearly closed up from thickening of the membrane and the throat feels dry, as though there were sand there. Those with this trouble are unable to obtain the necessary air through their nostrils, so they usually sleep with their mouths open and awake during the night with tongue and throat as dry as a chip. In such cases, after a time, crusts form in the nose, giving the breath an unpleasant odor. In many cases of this disease there is dropping in the throat, causing a desire to hawk to clear the material out that falls down from the nostrils. No form of nose and throat disease is so likely to cause deafness and head noises as is dry catarrh. On account of the obstruction to the passing of air through the nostrils there is a frequent desire to blow the nose. When this is attempted by the usual method of holding the nostrils tightly closed by means of a pocket handkerchief, then the air is compressed in the upper part of the throat, and the compressed air forces open the tubes that lead from the throat to the ears. The compressed air forces the catarrh germs ahead of it into the ear tubes. When this happens the hearing will begin to fail and you will usually have head noises. The loss of hearing is due to the stoppage of the ear tubes. The head noises are due to the absorption into the blood current of the catarrh poisons, which attack the ear nerves and poison them, the same as an overdose of quinine will do this. It is poisoning the ear's nerves that causes head noises and deafness.

I have explained the cause of deafness. I will now tell you the remedy. Stop blowing your nose hard by closing both nostrils. If you have already blown disease up into your ear tubes, we are prepared to offer you something which will restore your hearing and free you of head noises.

If your ear tubes are freed of catarrh your hearing will improve and your head noises will fade away. The proper treatment for deafness begins with the mastery of catarrh in the nostrils and throat. Once the catarrh is controlled the hearing will return.

FREE DEMONSTRATION

In order to introduce our plan of dealing with catarrhal deafness and dry catarrh of the ear tubes, we offer you a free demonstration of our method. This will be without cost to you.

While the majority of cases of catarrhal deafness can be greatly improved by our method, there are cases that cannot.

If the working parts of the ear are bound down by catarrhal adhesions and the drum is already greatly thickened or the joints of the ear bones are stiffened, then treatment cannot be expected to greatly improve the hearing, but in such cases the Baker Microphone will take up the duties of the ear, and, by putting the stiffened parts to work, will make you hear again. In such cases, after probing and blowing air into the ear tubes have proved unavailing, science has shown the proper way to deal with such cases of deafness. The Baker Microphone is a little instrument that takes up the duties of the normal ear. It does the work for the ailing ear and rests its disordered parts, thus often allowing it to regain its tone. The Baker Microphone does for failing ears what proper lenses do for failing eyes. You can test this little device without cost. What is more, we place at your disposal the services of a trained aurist, who will give you an examination and advice free.

The majority of ear sufferers now have an opportunity to be relieved of their disability. The Baker Microphone restores a weak ear to a condition where it can be made a useful working member.

It is the smallest practical magnifying telephone ever produced. It is the best instrument devised to assist the hearing. THERE IS A REASON FOR THIS. If you will come to one of our offices we will show you the reason.

The Baker Microphone not only makes deaf people hear, but its use, like the use of the telephone, gradually quickens, strengthens, and improves the natural hearing. Hearing devices, like speaking tubes, trumpets, etc., instead of improving the hearing, shock the finely adjusted parts of the ear and gradually tend to increase the deafness.

The new 1910 Baker Microphone differs from all other hearing devices in that it is made in different tones to suit the various forms of deafness. It has been found that when sounds are delivered to a dull ear in the proper tones to suit the ear a large part of the natural hearing will often return. The following is cited as an example:—

Mrs. H. M. Looker is the wife of the superintendent of the Evergreen Cemetery. She resides at 1,137 North Broad St., Elizabeth, N. J. When Mrs. Looker consulted our aurist, on June 17 last, she said that she had been deaf for thirty years and that for ten years past she had suffered from tremendous head noises. These noises were hissing at times, and then they would change to drumming noises, which she thought would drive her crazy. The noises in her head were so bad that they would wake her up at night. She was so deaf that people had to yell at her to make her hear. After three months' use of the Baker Microphone her hearing is so much improved that she can hear what is said around the table without using it, and her head noises have entirely disappeared.

Whatever your ear trouble, there is an expert aural surgeon at our office whose services are free to you. He will advise you on all matters relating to the ear.

Call if you can at one of our offices and we will be pleased to demonstrate the benefits of this little instrument. If you cannot call, write for full particulars and booklet describing the Baker Microphone, and how you may test it in your own home.

CHAMPIONS STRIVE FOR INDOOR TITLES

Foreign Athletes Badly Beaten in National Amateur Athletic Union Meet.

THE RECORD BREAKERS FAIL

Fast Time and Good Competition Mark Events in Big Games at Madison Square Garden.

Under the inspiring influence of the vociferous cheering of over 3,000 enthusiastic spectators the first night's programme of the National Indoor Amateur Athletic Union championships was successfully carried through last night at Madison Square Garden. There were champions galore—International, Olympic, National, Intercollegiate, and Metropolitan—all striving for glory and the honors which go to the winners of each event. England, Italy, Ireland, and Canada were represented, while the cream of athletics upheld the reputation and standing of the United States. Although no records were smashed, the times and distances showed a marked improvement over those of last year, while the majority of the events were closely contested.

It was a night of downfall for the foreigners. Lunghi, the Italian champion, who was looked upon as an almost sure winner of the 100-meter event, made a poor showing, and finished fifth. He declared after the event that his stride was unsuited to indoor running, and that he would not compete in any more indoor meets. H. A. Wilson, the English mile champion, was another victim to the prowess of the American athlete, and went down to defeat in the two-mile run. Both foreigners ran in the colors of the Irish-American Athletic Club. Canada sent down several of the best athletes in the commonwealth, but they were no match for their rivals across the border. The other visitor to taste defeat was L. J. Ahearn, a recent arrival from Ireland.

In the feature event of the evening the 1,000-yard run, A. R. Kiviat, the phenomenal schoolboy from Brooklyn, met with his first defeat in a championship. He was badly crowded on the turn, and could not get through the field again to make his run. Harry Gissing, New York Athletic Club, who won the event, ran a pretty race and proved his claim to be one of the best middle-distance runners in the country. Melvin W. Sheppard was a notable absentee in this even. He will, however, compete to-night in the 600-yard event, for which he has been reserved.

The attendance for the first night was fully up to the standard, and indicates a big crowd to-night, when the principal events on the list of championships will be decided.

The first heat of the 300-yard run was won by Le Roy B. Dorland, Pastime Athletic Club, the present champion. He was well up the entire distance and finished three yards in front of I. J. Archer of the Irish-Americans. G. F. Morrisey, Pastime Athletic Club, duplicated his clubmate's performance and won the second heat by a comfortable margin from N. W. Bowser of Cambridge. W. C. Robbins of the Irish-Americans scored the first victory for his club when he came in first in the third heat of the event. He was not pushed and led W. J. Hayes, St. Gregory Athletic Club, by nearly five yards past the tape. The fourth heat went to J. J. McEntee, New York Athletic Club, who was pushed hard to win from C. S. Cassassa of the Winged Fist organization.

The semi-finals brought out eight men, four in each heat. Hayes again gave his opponents the dust, finishing the heat with a fine burst of speed, while Dorland was second, going strong. The second semi-final heat was won by McEntee, but Referee James E. Sullivan disqualified him for running out of his lane near the finish. Robbins and Cassassa qualified for the finals. The final heat was the best contested in the race. Dorland, in the second lane, made all the running and won by about five feet from Robbins, who was a scant yard in front of Hayes.

Seven of the best long-distance men in the country started in the two-mile run. In the first lap, F. Foran, Mott Haven Athletic Club, led the bunch, but gave way to M. P. Driscoll, Mercury Athletic Club, with J. P. Sullivan, Irish-American Athletic Club, in second place. Wilson, the English champion, was laying back fourth. At the half mile, Gallagher, the Quaker City schoolboy, was half a lap behind, but quickly made up the lost distance and joined the leaders. In the next Quarter Wilson made the pace, attended by Driscoll and Sullivan. Foran dropped out at the eighth lap, at which time the three leaders were well bunched. Sullivan and Driscoll alternated in the lead. On the ninth lap Gallagher found the pace too hot and quit. The time for the first mile was 4:46 1-5.

Starting on the second half of the journey, Sullivan replaced Driscoll in the lead, with Wilson close up. Dull, the Princeton miler, running under the Pittsburg Athletic Club colors, was 20 yards behind. The pace continued good, and the struggle began on the eighteenth lap. Sullivan and Driscoll sprinted, and the Mercury man gauged his opponent's speed to a nicety. Coming into the last lap Driscoll cut out and in a bruising sprint passed Sullivan. The latter held on for a time, but the Yonkers runner had plenty in reserve, and, coming away in the last 50 yards, won a exciting race by 10 yards. Sullivan was second, 30 yards ahead of the English champion. Dull was a bad fourth.

One of the best fields that ever competed in an indoor meet lined up for the 1,000 yards event. Melvin Sheppard was the only notable absentee. The pace was a fast one from the start. Joe Bromelow, Irish-American Athletic Club, went into the lead at the start, but was replaced on the second lap by his clubmate, J. N. Riley. The latter slowed down in the third lap, and A. F. Beck of Pennsylvania took up the running. Lunghi, the Italian champion, could not negotiate the corners with the big field interfering with his stride. Bromelow again sprinted into the lead on the fourth lap, with Beck second, and Harry Gissing, New York Athletic Club, making his way to the front. The last lap was a sprint with half a dozen men appearing to have a chance. As the runners straightened out on the backstretch, Gissing increased his stride, and coming on with a great burst of speed, won a splendidly judged race by three yards from Bromelow, who was a yard ahead of Kiviat. The latter was badly interfered with on the turn. Lunghi could do no better than fifth.

Harry F. Porter, Irish-American A. C., the Olympic champion, retained his title in the running high jump, clearing the bar at 6 feet 2¼ inches. He afterward tried for the world's indoor record, 6 feet 4 inches, but failed.

M. J. McGrath, New York A. C., met with a narrow escape from a serious injury in the 56-pound weight for height. As he was about to heave the weight in the last throw the handle became disengaged from the iron ball and threw McGrath backward. His head struck the earth, but did no serious damage. In spite of the accident he won the event with a throw of 15 feet 3 inches. Con E. Walsh, New York A. C., and P. McDonald tied for second place at fifteen feet. In the throw-off Walsh won with 15 feet 3½ inches, or half an inch better than the winner.

Ray Ewry, New York A. C., the record holder, supplanted Platt Adams of the same club for the title in the standing broad, jumping 11 feet, which is four inches better than Adams's jump last year, when he won the championship. Adams secured the second prize. The summaries:

300-Yard Run.—First Heat—Won by L. B. Dorland, Pastime A. C.; J. J. Archer, Irish-American A. C., second. Time—0:34 1-5. Second Heat—Won by George F. Morrisey, Pastime A. C.; A. W. Second Semi-Final Heat—Won by J. J. McEntee, New York A. C.; W. C. Robbins, Irish-American A. C., second. McEntee was disqualified for running out of his lane, and C. S. Cassassa, Irish-American A. C., placed second. Time—0:33 2-5.

Final Heat—Won by L. B. Dorland, Pastime A. C.; W. C. Robbins, Irish-American A. C., second; W. J. Hayes, St. Gregory C. C., third; C. S. Cassassa, Irish-American A. C., fourth. Time—0:33 2-5.

Two-Mile Run.—Won by M. P. Driscoll, Mercury A. C.; J. P. Sullivan, Irish-American A. C., second; Howard A. Wilson, Irish-American A. C., third; G. A. Dull, Pittsburg A. C., fourth. Time—9:39.

1,000-Yard Run.—Won by Harry Gissing, New York A. C.; Joseph Bromilon, Irish-American A. C., second; A. R. Kiviat, Irish-American A. C., third; R. J. Egan, unattached, fourth. Time—2:18 4-5.

75-Yard Dash.—First Heat—Won by J. A. Connelly, Cambridge; W. J. Keating, Irish-American A. C., second. Time—0:08. Second Heat—Won by I. R. Reed, Gordon A. A.; J. F. O'Connell, New York A. C., second. Time—0:08. Third Heat—Won by J. J. Eller, Irish-American A. C.; R. W. Gell, Maryland A. C., second. Time—0:08 1-5.

Final Heat—Won by W. J. Keating, Irish-American A. C.; J. J. Eller, Irish-American A. C., second; R. W. Gill, Maryland University, third. Time—0:07 4-5.

Throwing 56-Pound Weight for Height.—Won by Matt J. McGrath, New York A. C., height, 15 feet 3 inches; C. E. Walsh, New York A. C., and P. McDonald, tied for second, with 15 feet. In the throw-off Walsh won second place with 15 feet 3½ inches.

Standing Broad Jump.—Won by Ray C. Ewry, New York A. C., distance, 11 feet; Platt Adams, New York A. C., distance, 10 feet 7½ inches, second; Martin J. Sheridan, Irish-American A. C., distance, 10 feet 6 inches, third.

Running High Jump.—Won by Harry F. Porter, Irish-American A. C., height, 6 feet 2¼ inches; E. Erickson, Mott Haven A. C., height, 5 feet 11 inches, second; H. J. Grumpelt, New York A. C., height, 5 feet 10 inches, third.

Putting 8-Pound Shot.—Won by W. W. Coe, Jr., Boston A. A., distance, 63 feet 4 inches; J. Frank, Brown University, distance, 62 feet 8½ inches, second; P. McDonald, Irish-American A. C., distance, 58 feet 3 inches, third.

220-Yard Hurdles.—First Heat—Won by L. J. Hartranft, unattached; L. B. Dorland, Pastime A. C., second. Time—0:29. Second Heat—Won by J. J. Eller, Irish-American A. C.; W. R. Bursch, New York A. C., second. Time—0:29 4-5.

Final Heat—Won by J. J. Eller, Irish-American A. C.; W. R. Bursch, New York A. C., second; L. B. Dorland, Pastime A. C., third. Time—0:29.

Running Hop, Step, and Jump.—Won by D. F. Ahearn, Irish-American A. C., distance 48 feet; Platt Adams, New York A. C., distance 46 feet 5¼ inches, second; T. J. Ahearn, Ireland, distance 44 feet 11¼ inches, third.

One Mile Walk.—Won by S. Liebgold, Pastime A. C.; B. Mann, Pastime A. C., second; S. Schwartz, Pastime A. C., third. Time—7:13 2-5.

Pole Vault for Distance.—Won by H. S. Babcock, New York A. C., distance 27 feet 10 inches; Martin J. Sheridan, Irish-American A. C., distance 27 feet 7½ inches, second; W. A. McLeod, Irish-American A. C., distance 26 feet 9½ inches, third.

To-day is the second day of registration. If you do not register you cannot vote at the Nov. 2 election. A full list of places of registration in Manhattan and the Bronx will be found elsewhere in this issue of The New York Times.

If you've got to get new evening clothes this Winter, why not do it now and have the full season's use of them.

They're ready for you now.

Tuxedo jackets, separately, $17 to $36.

White evening dress and fancy dinner vests, $4 to $10.

Even when market conditions a couple of years ago forced E. & W. to put its price up to $2.50, it was fine value.

Now it's $2 again.

A heavy white glove at $1.50, made especially for us in France, illustrates our special glove values at night.

Just as our $1.50 English walking glove does by day.

As for evening head-gear—

Victor Jay London "toppers," $10.

All imported direct, and so exceptional value.

Patent leather button and laced shoes.

Umpire Mullen, the new National League indicator holder, a graduate of the Western League, yesterday afternoon celebrated his first metropolitan appearance in the dark blue uniform and the last game of the season on the Polo Grounds by teaching the Philadelphia players they could not be disorderly with impunity. He declared the game forfeited to New York by a score of 9 to 0 because Knabe and Doolan, whom he put out of the game along with Pitcher Moren for insubordination, would not leave the grounds within the prescribed time allowance. It looked for a while as if there might be a free fight, as the visiting players were in an ugly mood. But the new umpire was so resolute and was backed up so promptly by the police under Sergt. McLaughlin, while the Giants were so palpably ready to defend the official arbiter from violence, that the Phillies thought better of it and sullenly left the field. It was the second defeat of the day for the Quakers, as McGraw's men nosed them out in the ninth inning of the first game, winning with a showing of 6 to 5. Mullen's umpiring was excellent notwithstanding the uncalled-for demonstrations of the Philadelphia players. Mullen was cool-headed and showed the ability of a good umpire.

The second game was forfeited in the latter half of the fourth inning, in which the Giants tied the score. Strangely enough, Merkle, whose failure to touch second base in the world-famous Chicago game of a year ago deprived New York of the championship, was on the same bag when this trouble started. There was no question as to his contact with the cushion in this instance, for with two down he had cracked out a two-bagger that brought Murray in with the tieing run.

Moren protested when, with Wilson at bat, Umpire Mullen called a ball on him. He became so insistent that he was expelled from the game. Doolan and other players rushed up to argue with Mullen. Their manner was bullying, and if the umpire had been a coward he might have been awed into letting Moren stay in the game. Instead he ordered Doolan to leave the field, and then he expelled Knabe, the second baseman. The Quakers refused to go, and one of them made a gesture as if to strike the umpire. Mullen thereupon called a policeman, and, taking out his watch, gave the Phillies five minutes in which to resume play. As they declined to go to their places at the expiration of that period he declared the game forfeited to the Giants and walked off the field. His coolness and firmness made a good impression on sensible onlookers.

The conduct of most of the Philadelphia players has been rowdyish in the extreme throughout the series. Several of them should have been suspended indefinitely for their behavior on Saturday. It is probable a $1,000 fine will be imposed on the club, which is the penalty provided in the league's constitution, but the league President would do well to discipline severely every man who participated in yesterday's misconduct, especially Moren, whose profanity was heard distinctly in the grand stand.

Close playing and no little inside ball characterized the first game. The first run was made by New York in the third inning on Doyle's walk, Bransfield's wild throw in trying to make a grounder from Snodgrass a force of Larry at second, a double steal by Doyle and Snodgrass, and Murray's sacrifice fly. The Giants got three more runs in the sixth. McCormick got a life on Knabe's fumble. Murray lined to Bates, but Devlin's double was the next play. Doolan fielded Bridwell's grasser to the plate perfectly, but Dooin muffed the throw and McCormick scored, Devlin taking third and Bridwell first. Merkle fanned. Wilson got a base on balls, filling the corners. Devlin and Bridwell came home on Wiltse's long single, and then Doyle was tossed out by Knabe.

With the score 4 to 0 the game looked safe, but the Quakers piled up five runs in the eighth. Corridon's infield tap, Grant's single, and Bates's two-bagger accounted for one tally. Titus popped to Bridwell. Grant and Bates galloped in on Magee's hit to right. Magee went to second on Bransfield's out and came home on Knabe's central one-sacker, tieing the score. Doolan tripled to right, recording Knabe. Then Dooin, who has done little save to rant and bluster all through the series, flied to McCormick.

No more scoring was done until New York's half of the ninth. Then, with one down, Tenney, batting for Wiltse, was hit by a pitched ball. O'Hara ran for Fred, getting in from first on Doyle's magnificent double over the far turn. Larry went to third on Snodgrass's hit, and scored the conclusive count when McCormick singled to right.

Philadelphia's run in the second game was scored on Magee's single, Bransfield's infield tap, Knabe's force hit, Doolan's walk, and a passed ball. Murray was in position to make the tieing run on Merkle's two-bagger in the fourth because of his walk and Bridwell's out at first. The score:

Cubs Win Final Game at Home.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Chicago closed the local National League season to-day by defeating the champion Pittsburg team, 8 to 2. Pittsburg scored two runs on Chicago's ragged work in the first, and Frock held Chicago safely until the eighth. In this inning the winners bunched six hits, one sacrifice hit, with errors by Miller and Abstein, and two men hit by pitched balls. Score:

RUSH FOR BASEBALL TICKETS.

Thousands of Applications Could Not Be Filled for Games in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Oct. 4.—The National Baseball Commission having charge of the sale of seats for the world's series games here between Pittsburg and Detroit announced to-day that the public sale of reserved seats advertised for Wednesday had been called off, owing to the fact that no tickets were left for either of the games of Friday or Saturday. The mail order sale of reserved seats has been unprecedented, the 18,514 tickets for each game at Forbes Field having been all sold forty-eight hours after mail orders were received, and the announcement being made by an official of the Pittsburg Baseball Club that $100,000 worth of orders for seats for the first two games here have been returned, with a notice that no reserved seats were left. The local club refused to accept its mail at the Post Office after Saturday morning, and all letters arriving after that time were returned to the senders.

There still remain 12,000 bleacher and standing-room tickets that will be put on sale each day of the games here, and from present indications police reserves will be necessary to control the crowd of people who were disappointed at not getting reserved seats.

The officials of the Pittsburg Baseball Club are not taking any chances on all not being accommodated with the present seating capacity of Forbes Field, the largest baseball park in the world, and extra seats are being built around the grounds, thus preventing ground rules. Eight thousand seats are being built in right and left field, thus giving the park a seating capacity of 43,000. With those standing, all baseball records are expected to be broken during the games here.

Police Must Prove Fight Charge.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 4.—Circuit Judge Wurdeman of St. Louis to-day overruled the motion of Sheriff Grueninger, Constable Bode, Mayor Woods of Wellston, and Marshal Morgan of Wellston for dissolution of the injunction to restrain them from interfering with the club which held boxing bouts at Suburban Garden, Sept. 23. Judge Wurdeman sets Oct. 9 as the date for the enjoined officers to prove, if they can, that the entertainment was a public prize fight instead of a private boxing contest.

On Trial for Playing Sunday Baseball.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—W. H. Watkins, owner of the Indianapolis Club of the American Baseball Association, was called as a witness to-day in the trial of the club's manager, Charles Carr, charged with playing professional baseball on Sunday. The State purposed to show by Watkins's testimony that Carr made his living by playing ball. He said that Carr received $6,500 for managing the Indianapolis Club during the season just closed. The State is seeking to convict Carr before a jury, although the last Legislature passed a law excepting playing baseball on Sunday from the list of unlawful Sunday vocations. It is held by the State's attorneys that the new law is unconstitutional.

ON LOCAL TENNIS COURTS.

Walter Merrill Hall won the Westchester Singles Cup yesterday on the courts at Castle Hill. In straight sets, 7—5, 6—3, 6—1, he defeated Dr. William Rosenbaum, who, at the end, was smothered by the speed of the Hamilton Grange Club player. The day upon the courts was marred by an accident to Miss Fanny May Fish, who last week captured the Gwendolyn Rees Cup. In the mixed doubles semi-final, Miss Fish and her partner, W. J. Banks, were engaged in playing Miss Margaret Grove and Harry Steinkamp. The latter had won the first set, 7—5, and led at 5—4 in the second. In playing a dashing game and endeavoring to check the opposing pair, Miss Fish made a spurt across the court for a recovery, when she fell and badly strained her left ankle.

It was at once evident that Miss Fish had hurt herself badly, and Dr. J. Gorse Simmons attended her. The ankle was tightly bandaged and Miss Fish taken home in an automobile. The Tournament Committee decided that the match may be held open a reasonable period of time to allow Miss Fish to recover and play out the match and not be the victim of a default. The summary:

Westchester Cup Singles.—Final and Cup Round—Walter Merrill Hall defeated Dr. William Rosenbaum, 7—5, 6—3, 6—1.

Final Round—Walter Merrill Hall and Dr. William Rosenbaum defeated Edgar F. Leo and Benjamin M. Phillips, 6—2, 6—0, 6—4.

Mixed Doubles.—Third Round—Miss Margaret Grove and Harry Steinkamp defeated Miss Lillian Morris and F. Hartman, 9—7, 3—6, 6—3.

Semi-Final Round—Miss Margaret Grove and Harry Steinkamp vs. Miss Fanny May Fish and W. J. Banks, 7—5, 5—4, unfinished.

George M. Church, leading a team of Irving School lawn tennis players, won three out of five matches against the Horace Mann team on the courts of the Westchester Club. In the singles, Church defeated W. Dickinson Cunningham in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4. The scores:

Singles.—J. T. Van Steinberg, Irving, defeated J. T. Graves, Horace Mann, 6—4, 6—4; Hamilton Adler, Horace Mann, defeated D. J. G. Kelly, Irving, 10—12, 6—4, 6—4; George M. Church, Irving, defeated W. Dickson Cunningham, Horace Mann, 6—4, 6—4.

WOMEN GOLFERS IN TRIPLE TIE FOR LEAD

START NATIONAL TOURNEY

Sixty-seven Contestants in Qualifying Round—Four English Women Among the Leaders.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Out of seventy entrants for the women's National golf championship to-day at the links of the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, all but three started and every one finished. Although it might have been warmer, the external conditions could hardly have been more favorable, so it is difficult to account for the high range of the cards in the qualifying round of eighteen holes.

Not more than six of the scores were passably low. Of the seven British visitors all played but one, only four qualifying. Miss Dorothy Campbell, British champion, was the only one of the four to get among the first six.

Low score was a triple tie at 86 between Mrs. Caleb Fox, Philadelphia; Miss Margaret Curtis, Boston, ex-National champion, and Miss Anita Phipps, Springfield, Mass. Miss Curtis was the least even of the three, and but for her unprecedented driving to atone for variable putting would have been some distance below the top. Miss Dorothy Campbell came in with 87. While not equal to Miss Teacher of the visiting delegation as a stylist, she is far more of a possibility as a finalist. Her play was weakest around the cups. Her driving was exceptionally straight with no pressing for distance, and her approaching admirable.

No one came within five strokes of the women's record. Mrs. Ronald Barlow, Merion, former Philadelphia champion, finished with 89; Mrs. S. F. Lefferts, Englewood, N. J., at 90, and Miss Mary Adams, Boston, Eastern champion, at 91. The last figure to qualify was 103, there being four at that total. On the play-off Miss Noblitt of Wilmington won and Mrs. W. S. Hilles, Wilmington; Miss Louisa Wells, Boston, and Mrs. Charles Frismuth, Philadelphia, lost. The play-off for low score prize will be held later. Summary:

Seckel Princeton Golf Champion.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 4.—The final round of the tournament for the university golf championship was played to-day and resulted in the defeat of A. G. Kay, 1912, the champion for 1908, by A. Seckel, 1912, the present intercollegiate champion. Thirty-six holes were played, and Seckel won by the close score of 3 up and 2 to play.

Amateurs' Three-Cushion Carroms.

Class A—Waldo, 30; Spiers, 15; Waldo, 30; St. John, 12.

Class C—Levy, 22; Carroll, 8; Carroll, 22; Lewis, 10; Ticehurst, 22; Lewis, 9; Ticehurst, 22; Levy, 19.

In last night's game of the amateur three-cushion tournament which is being held at Doyle's Academy, Forty-second Street and Broadway, Alec Smith defeated Max Winchell in forty-four innings by a score of 25 to 23. To-night at 8 o'clock Frank Tannehill will play George North.

Swiss Cyclist Champion of Europe.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—Henry Guignard, the Swiss cyclist, won the cycling championship of Europe yesterday at Steglitz. He covered 100 kilometers (62.1 miles) in 1:18:41 2-5. Schipke was second and Robl third. Guignard's time is said to be a world's record.

Keene's Suffragist Was Second.

NOTTINGHAM, England, Oct. 4.—The Bestwood Nursery Plate (handicap) of 200 sovereigns for two-year-olds, distance five furlongs, was run here to-day and won by Witch Finder. J. R. Keene's Suffragist was second and Bobsleigh third. There were fourteen starters.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The Prix du Bien-Aller, run at St. Cloud to-day, was won by H. B. Duryea's Stillwater. Nash Turner's Pillard ran third in the Prix des Brisees.

Amateur Athletes Warned.

All athletes are warned not to compete in the meet of the Union County Athletic League, which is to be held Oct. 12, as it is not sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union. This league was formed after the Amateur Athletic Union, which is the governing body of amateur athletics in this country, declared several men belonging to Elizabeth clubs professionals. One of these was John Anthes, a professional fighter, and the others had competed for money. These men have been allowed to compete in meets held by this league, and all who have competed or do compete against them have become or will become professionals.

Jap Ball Team Leads Wisconsin.

TOKIO, Oct. 4.—The University of Wisconsin baseball team lost a chance to tie Keio University's nine to-day when the visitors went down to defeat in the fourth game of the series, three of which have been won by the Japanese. One run, as in all the other games, decided the game in favor of Keio, 5 to 4. Eight Japanese reached first to seven Wisconsin men, while the six errors were evenly divided.

COY WATCHES YALE SQUAD.

Disabled Captain Out on Side Lines During Eli's Football Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4.—Capt. "Ted" Coy was on the side lines this afternoon for the first time this season, and stated that, although he would not don a uniform for signal work till next week, he would play in three weeks. He declined to assume charge of the eleven, stating that he wished Acting Capt. Logan to remain in full charge till he was able to join the players. Coy and Walter Camp, the graduate adviser, watched the practice together, and to-night met with Howard Jones and Henry Wheaton, the field coaches, in conference.

Grueling football was ordered, despite the fierce play against Syracuse Saturday, and every 'Varsity man was in his place except Fred Daly and Johnny Kilpatrick. Daly played throughout the game Saturday.

Savage, end rush, and Messinger, half back, for the freshmen last season, had a try-out, and both showed fast and strong form. Messinger's ground-gaining was excellent, and Savage's end work downed the second team men in their tracks. Hyde returned to the eleven. He injured two fingers in the Wesleyan game, and has had a five days' rest.

Old-fashioned grinding through the line was the order, and all the work was offensive for the regulars. Not once were the scrubs allowed to hold the ball. The 'Varsity scored twice, Field boring through for both touch-downs.

"Buster" Brown went into the second eleven at tackle to-day. With Lilley, Brown, and Hobbs playing stellar football, the material for tackle seems abundant.

Four elevens were put on the gridiron for scrimmaging, "Pop" Corey running the third and Harry Bingham the fourth. Both players have been in big games and will develop the substitute teams rapidly. Naedle made his reappearance to-day and was tried at end on the second team. The 'Varsity line-up: Left end, Savage; left tackle, Hobbs; left guard, Cooney; centre, Hyde; right guard, Goebel; right tackle, Lilley; right end, Logan; quarter back, Johnson; left half back, Field; right half back, Messinger; full back, Philbin.

Crew Man for Cornell Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Legrand Simson, No. 2 in the Cornell 'Varsity eight last Spring and full back on the freshman team two years ago, reported for football at Percy Field this afternoon, and will become a candidate for full back. This may solve the problem that has been causing the coaches considerable worry, first, to find a fast heavy full back, and then a punter. In the North Tonawanda High School, from which Dud Walder, one of Cornell's most valuable full backs, also was graduated, Simson made a reputation as a punter, and on the freshman team he was the best kicker on the field. He gave up football last year for the crew, and was one of the most powerful oarsmen in the boat. He is the second 'Varsity crew man to come out for football this week, Seagraves, who is playing a splendid game at centre, being the other.

Mindful of the slow work of the backs and the interference in Saturday's game, the coaches spent an hour and a half in a drill designed to make them more aggressive. The 'Varsity squad was taken down to the end of the field, two lines were drawn up against each other, and all of the available backs were relentlessly coached in forming interference, and getting off fast. Later Coach Reed strung his meal bags in front of the tackling dummy, and had his forwards make a running tackle, clearing the bags as they did so. Later he had them hurling a line of bags stretched in a row. F. W. Cole, half back and end on the 1894, 1895, and 1896 teams, and W. R. Miller, quarter back on the 1895 team, assisted in coaching for the first time.

AFTER 24-HOUR RECORD.

Chevrolet Says He Will Make 1,300 Miles in Brighton Beach Race.

Louis Chevrolet, who drove a Buick car 113 miles at an average speed in excess of 70 miles an hour in the recent Long Island Stock Car Derby at Riverhead, L. I., makes the prediction that he will hang up a record of 1,300 miles in the next twenty-four-hour race at Brighton Beach Oct. 15 and 16.

"I can beat an average of 60 miles an hour on the Brighton track providing weather conditions are favorable and the track is as fast as it is to-day," said Chevrolet last night. "I allow for two hours off the course during the race to make tire changes and mechanical adjustments, and in twenty-two hours of actual racing I will drive 1,300 miles or more."

Chevrolet is one of the most daring track and road drivers in the country. Should he come anywhere near approaching the speed he counts on making he will win the race and carry off with it the Sewall and Aldin trophy for the twenty-four-record as well as several cash prizes for speed in this class.

Bobby Burman, who will also drive a Buick in the twenty-four-hour contest, will drive a more cautious and saving race, so that in case Chevrolet's great burst of speed puts him out of the event one of the Buicks will still have a chance to finish first. Similar plans of campaign have been adopted by the Lozier and Rainier teams, each of which will have two cars in the race, one car to set a fast pace and the other to drive a saving race.

AMERICAN WINS RACE.

Nigel Jackson Autruns Japanese Champion in Marathon.

HONOLULU, Oct. 3.—An international marathon was run here this afternoon and resulted in a victory for Nigel Jackson, an American, over the Japanese champion, Tsukomoto, who gave up soon after the fourteenth mile, when Jackson was a mile and a half ahead.

The race caused great excitement, and many wagers were made on the Japanese by his compatriots, which were promptly covered by the American sportsmen. Jackson made the pace from the start, with Tsukomoto running close up for more than thirteen miles, when the American's superior stamina began to tell, and the Japanese was forced to stop with his trainers at the fourteenth mile. He made a desperate effort to close up the distance, but after running a mile he gave up, Jackson outgaming him even in the spurts.

Jackson ran the rest of the course in easy fashion and crossed the line amid cheers.

Rowing Practice at Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 4.—Rowing began here this afternoon with the appearance of seventy candidates at the boathouse on Lake Carnegie for preliminary work under the supervision of Prof. J. Duncan Spaeth, who has charge of the development of the class crews this year. The work this afternoon was not of a strenuous nature, and the principal feature was the talk to the men in explanation of the plan under which rowing will be conducted this year. Nevertheless, three crews made up of men from the four classes were sent out for short spins.

It is the intention of Prof. Spaeth, who is a former Pennsylvania oarsman, to spend about three afternoons a week with the candidates. The work will proceed quietly and will be watched closely, as it depends a great deal on the interest the undergraduates show in rowing this year the place this sport will occupy in the Princeton athletic almanac in the future. Prof. Spaeth will be assisted in his work by certain men in the graduate school who have rowed at other institutions.

An interclass regatta has been arranged and will be held on Nov. 5, the day before the Dartmouth football game, when a large crowd of visitors is expected to be on hand. The cup which was donated by Andrew Carnegie will be awarded to the winning crew.

After the regatta the rowing machines will again be installed in the gymnasium, where work will be continued through the Winter.

Race Track for Mexico City.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 4.—Advices were received here to-day that R. C. Pate of St. Louis, Mo., has been granted a liberal concession by the Mexican Government for the establishment of a horse racing course in the City of Mexico. Mr. Pate is widely known as a horse breeder. He went to Mexico about fifteen years ago and established the Indianilla race track, but at that time he could not interest American racing men in his venture, and the lack of patronage caused its abandonment. He returned to St. Louis to await a more favorable time, which he believes has now arrived, for introducing the sport in the Mexican capital.

Young Is Cornell's Track Captain.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Hobart Cone Young, Cornell's cross country captain, was elected captain of the track team to-day to succeed Eddie Cook, the Olympic pole vaulter, who did not come back to college this year. Young won his "C" in cross country two years ago and captained the team last Fall, winning individual honors in the intercollegiate meet. He also has been placed in the two-mile intercollegiate, though last Spring he could not run on account of illness.

Jeffries May Fight Johnson in April.

TAMMANY ASSURANCE.

Tammany is appealing for a continuance of popular confidence to the record of its "successful administration." Its success consists in the fact that it collected $335,000,000 taxes in 1908 against $309,000,000 in 1906. In those three years it collected cash $970,000,000, and expended it in "the actual expenses of the City Government." The efficiency in the collection of taxes is not only admitted—it is boasted of, and attributed to the real rascals. Tammany taxes are blessings, but Republican State taxes are extortions, and during 1908 the city collected and paid to the State $23,957,961 out of a total State tax of $33,956,814.

Carpers may remark that the total tax paid to the State by the city is less than the simple increase of taxation of which Tammany boasts. The State tax—however villainous—is therefore inadequate to explain the burden of Tammany taxation. Besides, there are those to whom all taxgatherers look alike, and who miss a dollar as much when paid to the city as to the State. Tammany thinks that people are burning to pay taxes to it, to be disbursed for automobiles and honest graft. This is not a good year to go to the people on that issue. The winning issue this year is less money for the taxeaters, and more left in the pockets of the taxpayers. The electorate are awaking to the fact that they feed the cow which Tammany milks, and its magnificent assurance in appealing to the people for a vote of confidence upon the basis of delight in the burdens it lays upon the faithful and unfaithful alike is misplaced.

FLYING OVER THE HUDSON.

The flight made by WILBUR WRIGHT's aeroplane yesterday would have taken him across the English Channel. It did actually take him over a long line of warships anchored in the Hudson River, among others, over the British warships. For these reasons, if for no other, this particular achievement of Mr. WRIGHT will attract the attention of our English friends.

The distance from Governors Island to Grant's Tomb and back is very nearly twenty miles, just about the breadth of the English Channel at the point where BLERIOT crossed. The flight was easily made, there was apparently no reason why it might not have been much longer, and the landing was accomplished with such skill and precision that the machine came to rest within a few yards of the starting place. Mr. WRIGHT passed over the anchored warships at a height where it would have been easily possible for him to drop upon their decks all sorts of annoying explosives. He also passed within shotgun range of their decks, and, of course, within a range that would have enabled any one of the ships, were he upon a hostile errand, to destroy his machine long before he was in a position to do it any harm. In war conditions, however, should it happen that aeroplanes are ever used for war purposes, it may be supposed that much higher flights would be taken.

It is gratifying that there came a day at last when conditions of air and wind enabled a flight to be made. The people of New York have longed to see the exhibition; those of our visitors who saw the Hudson-Fulton parades will regret that they did not prolong their stay to see this chief attraction of all. It is too bad that a second flight could not have been made yesterday afternoon, when there was practically no wind at all. Just then, of course, something went wrong. A cylinder head of the Wright aeroplane blew out, and the signals proclaimed "No Flight To-day." An automobile can go wrong in any one of a hundred different ways, but the gasoline engines of automobiles have been brought to a pitch of perfection where they are little liable to these major accidents. The engine that propels an airship must, of course, be made much lighter, but it would seem that even under that limitation strength and stability might be secured. They must be secured, the engines must be so constructed that they will do their work without breaking down, if this kind of "flying" is ever to be regarded as anything more than a highly dangerous sport. When the machinery of an automobile breaks down the chauffeur is at liberty to get out and tinker it. That privilege is denied to the aviator. The repairs then urgently called for are of his own person, if, fortunately, it is not already too late.

THE SURVEYOR'S STATEMENT.

The people of the United States do not expect any man to work for them for "sixteen or eighteen hours a day." Surveyor CLARKSON, in his statement published yesterday, declares that the Customs Inspectors at this port are frequently compelled to work that many hours, and inferentially excuses their occasional rudeness and impertinence on that ground. The customs duties are high enough to justify the employment of as many men as are required for the Inspectors' work. Travelers who are harassed whether or not their trunks contain dutiable articles can scarcely be expected to accept Surveyor CLARKSON's plea in mitigation of the indignities to which they are compelled to submit. The argument is very feeble.

Surveyor CLARKSON's statement seems chiefly designed to deprive Collector LOEB of some measure of the credit he has received for the recently increased activity of the customs officers. The Collector can well afford to permit the Surveyor to bear all the responsibility for the unwarranted rudeness of the Inspectors. The complaints of returning tourists, however, have been more general and more vociferous this year than ever before. As for Surveyor CLARKSON's assertion that the percentage of dishonesty among the inspectors is very small, few will care to contradict it. Everybody has heard of the dishonest Customs Inspector, but it has been generally impossible to identify him. But there is no good reason why the Inspectors should be either underpaid or overworked. The rush of incoming luggage occurs at the same time yearly. The Customs Department ought to be able to make ample provision to cope with it.

The Surveyor points out that the maximum amount collected on passengers' baggage is about one two-hundred-and-nineteenth of the sum received annually as duties on merchandise. In other words, the fuss made at every pier when an ocean steamship lands its passengers in August and September is out of all proportion to the results obtained by the most careful inspection. An accurate estimate of the cost of examining passengers' baggage and collecting duties in these months would be interesting.

A SCHOOL OF PEACE.

Peace, permanent and assured, is so desirable that no argument in favor of it is necessary. The establishment of a school of International Peace, such as that Mr. EDWIN GINN of Boston proposes to organize and endow, is surely not undesirable. The increased interchange of educators and students between civilized countries which it proposes to foster is not a bad idea. Just how much practical good the Rhodes scholarships have accomplished, or the exchange of professors between Germany and the United States, there is, as yet, no means of knowing, but we may be quite sure that such experiments work some good and no harm.

The suppression in the teaching of history, however, of all glorification of warlike achievements is both impossible and undesirable. Granting that history as it has been studied has made too much of Kings and warriors, and too little of social development, yet the world has been civilized and the maps of it developed principally by conquest. The heroes of all the ages have been men who have fought and bled for causes they esteemed sacred. We can never secure universal peace by ignoring the fact of war. That is not the way to enlightenment. Mr. GINN's plan is commendable enough in the abstract, and the establishment of stronger ties of friendship between the nations, and the creation of common interests, may in time lead to the abolition of war. Wars due to misapprehension and ignorance have already ceased. In fact, there is no war of any great consequence in sight now the world over. But until man has developed far beyond his present state the nations will not ignore the possibility of war and will keep as well prepared for it as their resources permit.

"TRACTION UNIFICATION."

"Unification" is Chicago's euphemism for a municipal traction combination and suppression of competition. It would not do to use the word "trust" in connection with municipal ownership, or to hint that a public monopoly is being formed by processes as abhorrent as even characterized similar private arrangements. Yet such is the fact. The Chicago Aldermen are opposing the renewal of the franchise of one independent company on the avowed ground that they wish to promote its absorption by the city's partner in the transit business. No working agreement, in the manner proposed in the modified Federal law regarding railway trusts, will suffice:

> GEORGE WESTON, the city's representative on the Board of Supervising Engineers, says: "The same results could not be obtained from a working agreement as from consolidation. The Consolidated must be operated by the Railways Company."

Accordingly a utility corporation is proposed with a capital of $300,000,000. Just such a consolidation has come to grief here, and a capitalization like Chicago's would not be tolerated by public sentiment. Nor, indeed, would it be feasible under our laws compelling universal transfers and the transportation of a passenger over the entire route of any company within the city's boundary. Moreover, any capital adventured in the reorganization of our tractions must be content with a rate of return only a little above mortgage interest, and below the profits to be made otherwise with equal risk and effort or less. People here, like people in Chicago, want the results of combination, but they think—or are alleged to think—that they prefer the suppression of competition. It would be interesting to know which they really prefer. In any case the laws designed to give the people here what they want are the chief obstacle to their getting it. The companies which gave them what they covet are the subject of popular malediction, as well as of financial misfortune. The moral of the contrast is worth discovering and appreciating, because there is a party in this city proposing as one object of this campaign to create for the city just such competition in the traction business as Chicago is seeking to end as indispensable to such economy and efficiency in administration as alone can make the accommodation of passengers possible.

AN ENGLISH GIRL'S LIFE.

A brisk discussion has been started in the columns of The London Spectator by a lively letter from a lady, presumably young, "A Returned South African," in which she criticised good naturedly but very unfavorably the life of the girls in England as compared with her own, at home, especially the general inefficiency of the former contrasted with the varied duties and capabilities of the "Colonials."

One of the women who challenges her judgment sustains her argument by an account of her own experience and occupations. If she is a fair specimen of the "middle class," with a family income of $2,400 to $4,800 a year, American girls in the same sort of family may envy her accomplishments. Here is a list of some of them, which she says are "fewer than those of many of my friends and acquaintances." She is "a needlewoman" who has "turned out a considerable number of socks." She "took lessons from a laundress" and "for years did all the fine work of that sort, including shirts and collars, for a small army of brothers." She has the "St. John's Ambulance Medal, taking also the South Kensington certificates in hygiene and physiology," and has "been able to do practically all the nursing in" her home. She "can make jams and pickles and pickle hams and bacon, &c.," and "can trim a hat." She "cannot make a dress," but knows "several women who make all the clothing for themselves and their children." "With every 'Spring clean' that comes around," she says, "I varnish and paint and enamel, and so does every woman that I know." These varied capabilities have not been acquired, nor are they practiced, at the expense of either physical or mental diversions:

> I have my recreations equally with the Colonial woman. I ride, dance, cycle, play tennis, photograph, and know how to handle a golf club, in common with most of the women and girls of my acquaintance. I like a good novel, too, in English or French; German and Italian, also, when leisure permits.

The South African lady has found in her sojourn but one instance of an English girl who had saved money for travel. To which her critic > would reply that there are hundreds of Englishwomen less well paid than their Colonial sisters laying aside money laboriously, month by month, for a glimpse one day at some "promised land." But just as the Colonial visits England, the "Old Country," the Englishwoman's desire is toward the lands yet more ancient than her own—the lands that have made history and hold its treasures.

"Classes" are not so distinctly defined in our land as in England, and it would not be easy to determine to what group this lady, who, very fitly, signs herself "Housekeeper," would, on this side, be assigned. We believe there are numerous American women, married or unmarried, whose energy, industry, and intelligence match hers, though the product of these qualities may differ. In any case, we are confident that our readers will agree with us that the picture presented by the correspondent of The Spectator is wholesome and delightful.

THE WAYS OF TURKISH SUBJECTS.

We printed Sunday a letter from Mr. S. A. MOKARZEL, protesting because "a full-blooded white Syrian, having applied for naturalization papers, was refused them on the ground that he was a Turkish subject." This case, now being tried by the United States Circuit Court in St. Louis, is like another case upon which we have commented, wherein the Turkish subject was denied citizenship ostensibly because Turks are of Mongolian descent, and are, therefore, barred by our naturalization statute. Doubtless the real issue in both cases is whether a Turkish subject, be he Greek, Slav, Armenian, Arab, Syrian, or of whatsoever extraction, shall be admitted to American citizenship.

It is unfortunate that this prejudice against Turkish subjects of divers nationalities should exist. As Mr. MOKARZEL points out, they have faced oppression in Turkey and its dependencies. But it is equally unfortunate that large numbers of Turkish subjects are themselves responsible for the existence and the growth of this prejudice. They care nothing for American citizenship, in the sense in which it is bestowed upon them. They are not bona fide residents of this country. With their naturalization papers they hurry back to the Ottoman Empire, there to ply their trade withdrawn from the oppressive Ottoman jurisdiction, and shielded by the American Consul. They escape the Turkish trades—the extortion, the bribery by which these official licenses are bought; they may go and come, and conduct any sort of business without Governmental interference. If they get into trouble, these spurious citizens put the American Government to expense to deliver them.

The Government of the Turks is oppressive, even to the ruling class. Those who flee oppression are welcome on these shores. But they must accept American citizenship in good faith.

Register to-day. This is the second day of registration. After this day the elements of chance and of accident will weigh against those who would qualify to record their will on Election Day. Every good citizen should realize this. He cannot better employ his time, even if taken from business or pleasure, than to register to-day.

> Whatever I can do to promote your election will be eagerly done.—NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER to OTTO BANNARD.

Every intelligent and progressive citizen who has the welfare of New York at heart should feel in this matter as President BUTLER feels, and resolve to do eagerly all he can to elect the Fusion ticket: to register, to impress upon his friends and associates by lucid argument the necessity of electing BANNARD, and to vote. The success of the Fusion ticket on election day would then be made possible.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Planning for a Better Annapolis.

Though a brief document, the report made this year by the Board of Visitors to the Naval Academy contains several suggestions which should receive the careful attention of Congress. Leading place and most space are devoted to repeating and emphasizing the recommendation, first made by the 1907 board, that the efficiency of the "visitors be increased, first, by dividing them into three classes, each to serve three years, so that two-thirds of them may constantly be men with more experience in the work than is available when all are newly appointed, and second, that their inspections be cheaply made in term time, and not during the distractions of commencement week." As a matter of fact, three members of that board were reappointed, and the same course was followed in 1908, so the advantage of partial continuity was secured, but it is desired that the system be fixed by law, and not left to be decided according to the opinion of succeeding Presidents.

That more about the practical operations and needs of the Academy can be learned while the regular routine of study and instruction is going on than when the June festivities and ceremonies are in progress is obvious. Under the law as it stands members of the board are allowed to visit the Academy in term time if they choose, but they must then do so at their own expense, and the result is that for the most part they go at what is undoubtedly the wrong season.

After various recommendations as to the purchase of more land, the erection and improvement of buildings, and the making of greater provision for athletic training, the board goes on record as protesting against any shortening of the four-year course, and it insists that no demands for the retention of inefficient midshipmen be allowed to impair scholarship standards. They advise that the number of instructors be increased till the number of midshipmen in a section is no more than ten, and preferably eight, instead of fourteen or sixteen, as at present, and that all graduates be immediately commissioned as Ensigns.

Another recommendation, that all instructors be graduates of the Academy, except, perhaps, in the departments of mathematics, modern languages, and English, raises the question, so much discussed of late in educational circles, in regard to what is called, not very accurately, "in-breeding," and is not so obviously commendable as are the board's other suggestions.

Christian Science Rows.

A hush which, whether "ominous" or not, as all first-quality hushes are, is highly interesting to outside observers now pervades Eddyites circles. The deposition of Mrs. STETSON, undoubtedly the most ambitious and probably the ablest of the Christian Scientists not in the group directly controlled by—or controlling—Mrs. EDDY was a perilous experiment. Upon its outcome depends whether the cult is to maintain its coherence under a single leader, or whether it is to break up into a number of warring divisions, each claiming to have the only true doctrine and each reaching eager hands for the enormous profits which will go with acknowledged supremacy.

For years it has been no secret that between Mrs. EDDY and Mrs. STETSON the peace was only an armed truce, and that each side was impatiently waiting for an opportunity to destroy the other. Apparently one of them thinks the opportunity has come. Perhaps it has, but there are delightful rows and ructions ahead, and every prospect pleases—from the standpoint of sport.

Elevation as Bad as the Ice.

About one thing, and only one, are Commander PEARY and Dr. COOK agreed—they both say that the task of getting to the south pole will be less difficult than was that of reaching the other end of the earth. The reason given by them is that, once on the Antarctic Continent, which is easily boarded, supplies can be sent ahead and stored to any necessary extent, so that the last "dash" can be made from a permanent base fixed by previous efforts. In the north, on the contrary, no stations can be established on the drifting and grinding ice which covers the broad polar sea, and each year's expedition must depend on the resources which it carries from the land.

This argument would be conclusive as to the relative difficulties encountered in the two regions were it not that it ignores one fact—north pole exploration is done at sea level, with the severity of the climate somewhat mitigated by the proximity of a great body of water, while at the south pole, long before his destination is reached, the traveler is marching over a rugged plateau at an elevation of between 9,000 and 10,000 feet. The chances are, therefore, that the weather at the south pole averages much worse than that at the north pole, and the height of the land accounts for the violent and almost unceasing storms which Lieut. SHACKLETON and his companions encountered. At such a height, too, weariness is much more quickly produced, and endurance is weakened.

The Arctic has a Summer of a sort, but in the interior of the Antarctic Continent the change of seasons can hardly be anything more than an alternation of the worst possible weather with weather not much better than the worst found at the north. Whether or not this handicap equals or surpasses that created by the restless ice of the north remains to be determined, but in both regions the explorer will have his sufficient troubles. It seems probable, however, that the attainment of the south pole is much a matter of heavy expenditure of money, that of the north pole more one of luck in finding favorable ice conditions.

Practically, though not sentimentally, the "discovery" of the south pole is the more promising, since it may be that there is something there intrinsically worth finding. That hope, or possibility, has now vanished as regards the north pole, and it is not easy to imagine a reason why anybody should ever go there again.

MR. JEROME'S CANDIDACY.

As a well-wisher of Mr. Jerome's and as a supporter of the anti-Tammany cause, I trust that the news in this morning's TIMES that Mr. Jerome will not withdraw in favor of Judge Whitman is not a final decision. It seems to be the generally accepted opinion that Mr. Jerome's candidacy this year is hopeless, and in a measure after Mr. Jerome's triumphs in past years it would amount practically to a rebuke if he went to overwhelming defeat. While I personally think that Mr. Jerome deserves to be re-elected by the public, still we should face facts as they are, and as a friend of Jerome's I think it would be more graceful in him to retire in favor of the stronger man and throw his very great influence with the anti-Tammany party.

We need Mr. Jerome's powerful aid on the stump against Judge Gaynor, and in no way could he be true to his own ideals and traditions better than by coming forward in a disinterested manner to help Judge Whitman, who is stronger than himself and a good man in every respect. As Mr. Jerome nominated himself, he is the only one who can retire himself, and I hope his friends will urge that measure upon him. Speaking for one friend, I think that it would be an act of magnanimity on his part. In no other way could he restore so effectively the confidence of his friends in himself.

A JEROME NOMINATOR.

INHERITANCE TAX.

Lawyers Plan a Law to Put an End to Double Taxation.

Illinois is only following the example of New York when it proposes to collect an inheritance tax on the shares in Illinois corporations owned by Mr. Harriman, despite the fact that the value of such shares is included in fixing the tax on his estate at his residence here. Under the New York law, if a resident of Connecticut owned stock in a corporation that conducted a factory in New Jersey, but was incorporated here, this State would collect an inheritance tax at his death, though neither the decedent nor the shares nor the property, was in New York. The excuse and the power to do this come from the transfer being made in the corporation books located here, the tax thus being hot on property but privilege, so-called.

Recognizing that this taxation of shares held by non-residents involves double and treble taxation, several States provide that they will abstain from exercising the power if the State where the decedent resides makes similar provision. This New York has not done, continuing to be the greatest offender against inter-State comity, and for the sake of the revenge thus unfairly derived, driving many industries to incorporate under the laws of other States.

At the suggestion of the International Tax Association, the American Bar Association has appointed a committee to co-operate in framing a model inheritance tax law, which will provide, in brief, that no property shall pay an inheritance tax in more than one jurisdiction. If such a law is adopted by the various States, it will put an end to double taxation in this particular.

A. C. PLEYDELL.

Two Henry Hudsons.

Kindly permit a short reply to "A. Hollander," whose letter appears in your issue of today. Of the hundreds of thousands who read my letter in THE TIMES of Sept. 18, I am sure that "A. Hollander" is the only one who understood me as making any claim of relationship to Henry Hudson, the navigator. Possibly "A. Hollander" does not know that there were two Henry Hudsons. When I wrote "it is not even known that he had a wife" I placed mental emphasis on the word "known"; perhaps I should have underlined it; there is no known record of his marriage.

But this matters little; as I have said, probably "A. Hollander" was the only person who misunderstood me. But there is one thing of apparently great importance in the letter of "A. Hollander." He says: "So if Mr. C. E. Hudson would again make some closer searches, he might more easily find out whether," &c. If "A. Hollander" knows of any way in which I or anybody else can "more easily" find out the things we all want to know about Henry Hudson, the navigator, I should advise him to immediately hie himself to the rooms of the New York Historical Society and there tell all he knows. I am sure that he will be heartily welcomed.

C. E. HUDSON.

Brooklyn, Oct. 2, 1909.

England and the Hudson-Fulton.

I agree with the Englishman who wrote to THE TIMES on Oct. 1 on the subject of the lack of English flags during the Hudson-Fulton Celebration and the float representing that ancient piece of vandalism, the destruction of the statue of George III.

I was on the committee of the H.-F. for "Children's Day," and we selected the period "Under English Rulers." Our American boys were delighted to don red coats, and the English Maypole dances, founding of King's College, &c., might have shown the Englishman that some of us appreciate the mother country.

As the children needed a British flag to march with I went about to all the shops, but found that it was impossible to buy any British flag save very tiny ones, and that it would take a fortnight to procure a large one. I wrote to the Hon. Courtenay Bennett, British Consul General, and he most courteously sent one to the children. Perhaps the lack of display of British flags may be answered by the reason that there are none to be had here.

A Question of Perspective.

Far be it from me to criticise adversely any of our home doings in this H.-F. show business, but, speaking of the historical parade of Tuesday, who was the artist who designed the buildings which appeared in some of the floats? They were about ten or a dozen feet tall, and the men around them were normal size. Is that mathematical measurement or artistic measurement? Why didn't somebody get dwarfs to go with the dwarf buildings in order to preserve the harmonies? And also, what about that storming of Stony Point? I noticed as it jolted along that our heroic forefathers had about all they could do to keep from falling off of the battlefield. That may be magnificent, but it isn't war, is it?

DELAY IN ICE TRUST TRIAL.

Company's Lawyers Get Two More Days—Pleads Not Guilty.

Wesley M. Oler, head of the American Ice Company, and a large staff of lawyers representing the so-called Ice Trust, appeared yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Wheeler, in the Criminal Court Building, where the legal fight to curtail the operations of the company on the ground that it has been violating the Donnelly Anti-Monopoly act began after many delays.

The ice company lawyers came prepared with many motions of a technical nature seeking to delay further the trial of indictments found more than a year ago. Most of these motions were denied by Justice Wheeler, so the ice company lawyers fell back on the statutory two days' grace in which to decide whether or not any further motions should be made. This adjourned the matter until to-morrow. Just before this, however, a plea of "not guilty" to the indictment was entered by John B. Stanchfield, one of the ice company's lawyers.

Justice Wheeler came here from Buffalo a few days ago to try the American Ice Company case before an extraordinary term of the criminal branch of the Supreme Court. He was assigned to the case by Gov. Hughes at the request of Attorney General O'Malley.

Although a special panel of 100 talesmen had been called for the case only 42 appeared yesterday, and of these 34 asked to be excused. When Justice Wheeler had listened to their excuses there remained only 25 from which a jury might be drawn. It was learned later in the day that a motion would be argued on Wednesday by the ice company lawyers seeking to have a special jury drawn which would try the ice company case and no other, as it is expected to run on for several weeks.

With Mr. Stanchfield yesterday appeared Julian T. Davies, Thomas D. Adams, Joseph S. Auerbach, and Charles H. Tuttle. Opposing them was James S. Osborne, a special Deputy Attorney General, and Roger P. Clark, a regular Deputy Attorney General.

TWO OCTOBER GRAND JURIES.

Larger Number of Cases This Year—May Hear Primary Fraud Evidence.

Two Grand Juries were sworn in yesterday to handle the large number of criminal cases for the October term of the Court of General Sessions. There are now 946 cases awaiting disposition, a far larger number than usual at this season. Of the cases awaiting trial, 312 of the defendants are in jail and 634 out on bail. There are also 228 complaints pending, on which there are 106 defendants in jail and 122 on bail.

The presence in the courtroom of the two Deputy Attorney Generals appointed by Gov. Hughes to investigate the recent primary election frauds led to the assumption yesterday that the two new Grand Juries would be called on to hear evidence obtained by the State officials. The Deputies, who were present during the swearing in of the juries by Judge Crain, were Messrs. Reass and Prentice.

Judge Crain in his address to the juries said that in all probability the Attorney General, through his representatives, would appear in certain matters during the present term of court.

"The District Attorney will at all times give you such advice as you require from him," said Judge Crain. "At all times there may be very free consultation between the court and the jurors through their Foremen."

The Foreman of the morning Grand Jury which was sworn in yesterday is John J. Cunningham, a commission merchant of 104 Barclay Street, and of the afternoon Grand Jury Thomas W. Slocum, a dry goods merchant of 7 Thomas Street.

GERMAN ALLIANCE FOR PEACE.

Convention Wants International Federation and Curtailed Immigration.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 4.—The Peace Committee of the National German-American Alliance in biennial convention today declared in favor of a federation of all nations, based on a mutual guarantee of their independence and possessions and against attacks of the members.

The committee's report also favors the furtherance of all international agreements, treaties, and conventions, which will establish uniform legislation tending to the welfare of the working classes and improvement of social, commercial, and industrial conditions in general, and the substitution of legal proceedings in place of bloodshed in settling dissensions between nations and between employes and employers.

The convention voted down a resolution condemning Gen. Fred Grant for marching in his United States Army uniform at the head of a temperance parade in Chicago. Prevailing arguments were that Gen. Grant marched in his personal capacity only, and that "he is not a fanatic, as he advocates the usefulness of the canteen for the army."

A resolution asking the Government not to pass legislation curtailing well-meaning immigration was adopted. It was held the Government should better distribute immigrants over the country.

A resolution calling on the alliance to contribute to the support of German private schools was defeated on the ground that the organization members did enough for the cause of education by paying taxes for public schools, and that the alliance would use its influence to maintain the teaching of the German language in the public schools.

The convention voted unanimously to invite the German Protestant associations of the United States to join the alliance.

The following officers were re-elected: President, Dr. C. J. Hexamer, Philadelphia; Vice Presidents, Joseph Keller, Indianapolis; John Tjarks, Baltimore; Col. E. C. Stahl, Trenton, N. J., and John D. Cappelman, Charleston, S. C.; Treasurer, H. Weniger, Philadelphia, and Recording Secretary, Adolph Timm.

Milwaukee was chosen as the next meeting place.

Doubtful Lines from Schiller.

In the issue of this morning your correspondent, Mr. J. J. Roth, very properly calls attention to the error which imputes to Shakespeare a sentence which Schiller wrote for his "Fiesco," (Act III., Scene 4.) Mr. Roth quotes the original of the sentence thus: "Der Mohr hat seine Schuldigkeit getan, der Mohr kann gehen." So for many years I was accustomed, on occasion, to quote it, until one day, in order to be sure of the full significance of the thought, I looked it up in one of the copies at hand, and found there and in three other editions this reading: "Der Mohr hat seine Arbeit getan, der Mohr kann gehen."

Prof. Calvin Thomas of Columbia University might give us, who "want to know," the reading as found in the MSS. of Schiller.

FALL FASHIONS.

Now comes the time when all fair faces
  Are pressed against some Dry Goods pane,
Absorbing styles in veils and laces,
  Short skirts, long skirts, and demi-train.

Fall fashions tempt the anxious glances
  Of matron, maid, and spinsterette,
And Autumn's chilliness enhances
  The charm of lingerie layette.

The men cast only looks of wonder
  Behind the showpane's brilliant glare,
And ask themselves, why, why in thunder
  Those Summer trappings all are there!

They hug their overcoats still tighter
  And shiver slyly through their bones,
While wifie's eyes grow bright and brighter
  O'er silken hose of outré tones.

Yet, after all, are women silly
  To dress in gew-gaws all the while?
Who ever saw one feeling chilly
  When she was togged in ultra style?

CITY HEADS EXPLAIN BUDGET INCREASES

Tell at First Hearing Before Board of Estimate Why They Need $26,000,000 More.

TOTAL TO BE $183,000,000

In Discussing License Bureau's Estimate Metz Says He Thinks Some Aldermen Are Interested in Taxicabs.

The Board of Estimate began yesterday its hearings on the budget for next year. The heads of a number of the city departments appeared before it and requested appropriations. The total when all the departments have been heard from will amount to about $183,000,000. This is about $26,500,000 over the figures of the current year. The increases asked for yesterday were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity | $1,127,000 |
| Public Charities | 1,246,000 |
| Brooklyn and Queens parks | 239,000 |
| Bronx parks | 483,000 |
| Correction | 104,000 |
| Bellevue and Allied Hospitals | 104,000 |
| Bridges | 222,000 |
| Bureau of Licenses | 29,000 |
| Law Department | 8,000 |
| Board of Aldermen and Chief Clerk | 1,000 |

Corporation Counsel Pendleton explained that the extra $8,000 he wanted was on account of the number of violations reported by the Tenement House Department.

Chief Oliver of the Bureau of Licenses explained that $9,000 of the $29,000 increase he asked for was needed to enforce the taxicab ordinance. He said that if this were done properly the city would derive extra revenue therefrom.

Mayor McClellan asked if the Board of Aldermen had not twice failed on request of the Bureau of Licenses to report out of committee the ordinance to secure taxicab Inspectors. Thereupon Controller Metz remarked: "Maybe some of the Aldermen are interested in taxicabs. I think they are."

Bridge Commissioner Stevenson said he needed $222,000 more on account of the new bridges. Of this $175,000 would go for maintaining the Manhattan Bridge and $20,000 for the Queensboro Bridge.

"When will the Manhattan Bridge be ready?" asked Mr. Metz.

"By December," said the Commissioner.

"What about elevated conditions? First, you'll cross the bridge, and then you'll loop the gap."

"My department is not responsible for that," replied Mr. Stevenson.

Commissioner O'Brien of the Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity explained that the increase of $1,800,000 he asked for was "apparent" only. Part of it, he said, was to be devoted to the redemption of special revenue bonds in connection with getting water works in Staten Island. He said that one result of the installation of the high-pressure system had been the reduction of insurance in the lower part of Manhattan and in Brooklyn.

In Manhattan there had been a saving in this respect of $600,000 to $700,000, and in Brooklyn of $350,000, while the maintenance cost of the system was $241,000 and the interest on bonds issued to pay for it, with the amount added to the Sinking Fund to retire, ran up to $150,000. From these figures Mayor McClellan suggested that the saving to the taxpayers by the system was about $650,000 a year. The Commissioner agreed with this estimate.

When Park Commissioner Smith explained that his estimates for Manhattan and the Bronx were the same as last year a discussion arose as to whether the estimates had not really been reduced by $1,200.

"I would like to set you right," said Mr. Metz to Commissioner Smith.

"You needn't trouble yourself," replied Mr. Smith.

"But no one could manage it," went on the Controller.

"Least of all you," retorted the Commissioner, bowing profoundly as he retired.

"Come again soon," called out Borough President Coler after him.

As Commissioner of Charities Hebberd took his place Mayor McClellan remarked: "We are now to hear from the department that wants a 50 per cent. increase."

"It's only about 30 per cent.," said the Commissioner. "Our appropriation for 1909 was not sufficient. We have fifteen new buildings and an increase in our daily census of between 650 and 700."

He explained he wished to increase the pay of the attendants in the hospital helpers' class at least $20 per month for the men and $15 for the women, which would mean an increase of about $75,000. He declared that the experiment of paying more had been very successful at the Kings County Hospital, whereas before the department had had to engage discharged alcoholic patients as helpers.

Controller Metz criticised the quality of some old army uniforms supplied by the State for use in the State hospitals.

"They're not worth half what we paid for them," he said.

"The Controller may be glad of such clothing yet," put in President McGowan.

"Perhaps after the end of the year," rejoined Commissioner Hebberd, and Controller Metz joined in the general laugh.

The requests of the Health and Correction Departments were briefly considered, and the hearing was adjourned till 10:30 this morning.

A CITIZEN OF THIRTEEN.

"You Can't Send Me to Ellis Island," Says Boy Arrival to Inspector.

Two youthful travelers returned from abroad yesterday on the steamship Noordam. They are Jack Blitz of Des Moines, Iowa, and Maarten van Zanten. Both are "going on" thirteen. The lads in their dealings with the customs and the immigration officials demonstrated that they were able to care for themselves.

Young Maarten van Zanten, who explained to the immigration authorities that he was an American despite his Dutch name, was born in Montclair, N. J. His father died eight years ago and his mother three years ago. Since his mother's death he has been living with his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Cowden, at [illegible] Wythe Avenue, Brooklyn. He was abroad a year, visiting an uncle at the Hook of Holland.

"You can't send me to Ellis Island," he told an immigration Inspector inclined to send him there when the boy said his father was born in Holland.

"I am an American citizen," he continued proudly.

Afterward he commented:

"I have had more trouble landing here than I had during all my time abroad."

Master Jack Bilz said that he went abroad a year ago with his mother. She returned some months ago, leaving him at a school in Munich. He was asked whether any one would be at the pier to meet him. "Why should any one come?" he asked. "I know my way about, and besides I have money enough to get a cab if I want one."

He explained that he was going to stop with an artist, a friend of the family, living in West Twenty-first Street. He was allowed to leave alone.

Both boys met for the first time on shipboard, and they became fast friends and on parting promised in a boyish way to "write often."

ACTING OF GREAT SPIRITUAL BEAUTY

WHOLESOME STAGE EXHIBIT

Divine Figure Typified in Central Role —Miss Haidee Wright's Affecting Scene.

THE PASSING OF THE THIRD FLOOR BACK, a drama in prologue, play, and epilogue, by Jerome K. Jerome. Maxine Elliott's Theatre.

|---|---|
| A Cheat | Madge Avery |
| A Sloven | Molly Pearson |
| A Painted Lady | Haidee Wright |
| A Shrew | Kate Carlyon |
| A Snob | Mary Relph |
| A Bully | Montague Rutherfurd |
| A Hussy | Evelyn Weeden |
| A Satyr | Allen Thomas |
| A Coward | David Powell |
| A Rogue | A. G. Poulton |
| A Cad | Alexander Cassy |
| A Passer-by | Forbes-Robertson |

Coming immediately after a week of more or less riotous revel with its natural emphasis of all things material, Mr. Forbes-Robertson's exquisitely sensitive and spiritual performance of the celestial visitor in a Bloomsbury lodging house ought to be particularly grateful.

And though the play begins with an assemblage of mean types in a sordid scene, it eventuates in a culmination so wholesome and affecting, and so filled with a spirit of sweet and tender optimism, as to be wholly stimulating and uplifting. In effect it is a sort of fairy tale. But its well-spring is in a native kindness in the human heart, and a resident virtue which may be hidden for a time, but not entirely effaced.

Obviously, then, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" is a play with a message, and this it voices distinctly enough, though it is without the fine literary flavor of "The Servant in the House" or the attractive humor of "A Message from Mars," both of which plays it resembles in theme. There, however, the similarity ceases.

Little of Mr. Jerome's humor has percolated into the play, though there is a sort of lightness to the earlier scene in the Bloomsbury lodging house, with the familiar disputes about the length of the candles, the consistency of the milk, the disappearance of the landlady's whisky, and other details of cheap and sordid life. But the people themselves are so mean and unsympathetic as to be an antidote to the humorous inclination even here. The author's description of his own characters is sufficient index of their natures. They are a cheat, a slave, a painted lady, a shrew, a bully, a snob, a hussy, a rogue, a cad, a coward, and a satyr, each human enough to be recognizable at once, without the subsequent labels he affixes, and each typifying some form of selfishness and vice. Into this congregation, and first impressively revealed in a flash of light that illumines the opened door, enters the mysterious stranger, ultimately to be known to the other lodgers as The Third Floor Back on account of the chamber which he occupies, and for which he unhesitatingly pays the grasping landlady as much as or more than she demands. His work in the house is to bring back to each of the inmates his lost better self, and to each he appeals, and not in vain.

It is unfortunate for the more sustained interest in the play that the method of conversion must be the same in each case and that the formula of reformation must be repeated in every instance. The woman who paints her face, for instance, is commended for her lack of vanity and assured of her true beauty, whereupon she discards her make-up; the swindler is shamed into a new attitude by the ready acceptance of his lies on the part of his intended victim; the sensualist is suddenly convinced of his own chivalrous good intentions by the other's faith in their existence. And so it goes on throughout. But though the means are unvarying and the results more prompt and certain than might seem possible in life, the general effect of the exhibition is undoubtedly stimulating and wholesome.

In a sense, to be sure, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" is not drama at all, since there can be no actual struggle where one of the figures is supernal and endowed with qualities which must ultimately make him a victor over all antagonists. Necessarily, too, in a play of this type there is more of preaching than of action, but when it is such preaching as that of Mr. Forbes-Robertson it has its compensations. It is quite possible, indeed, that Mr. Jerome's play would seem considerably less worth while without the uplift of this actor's peculiar sensitive, sympathetic organism, and intelligence. Throughout the play he is sincere, earnest, and unaffected, delivering the speeches eloquently and effectively, with something like a lyric beauty, but yet without a suggestion of pulpit oratory or actor-mouthing, for both of which the rôle of The Stranger provides tempting opportunities. And in his general appearance and the austere simplicity of his manner he conveys most impressively an idea of spiritual aloofness that is most essential.

Consideration of most of the supporting players—not with Mr. Forbes-Robertson when the play was done in London—must be deferred, but it is a matter for congratulation that Miss Haidee Wright accompanies him to repeat her exceptionally beautiful performance of the Painted Lady. It is her part to appear in the earlier scenes as a hard, unyielding, sharp-tongued, and bedizened creature, who, under the ministering influence of the Third Floor Back, eventually becomes aware of her deficiencies. No moment in the play is more affecting than that in which she finally appears without her rouge and ornaments, a little plain, soberly garbed middle-aged lady, a bit self-conscious in her new assumption of simplicity, but with the glow of unaccustomed gentleness and kindliness. Miss Wright's is a beautiful performance.

Those enlightened persons who are ready at all times to look upon the entrance of a theatre as the gateway to perdition will find in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" a play which might be made to serve the purposes of practical morality more usefully than many sermons.

NEW THEATRE'S OPENING.

Gov. Hughes to Attend Reception and Ceremonies on Nov. 6.

The founders of the New Theatre, which will inaugurate its first season Monday night, Nov. 8, with a revival of "Antony and Cleopatra," issued yesterday invitations to the opening of the playhouse on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, Nov. 6.

The guests are invited to inspect the house at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and return at 8:30 o'clock in the evening for the final dress rehearsal of the play. The afternoon event will take the form of a reception at which there will be ceremonies to be announced later. Gov. Hughes has signified his intention of being present. He will, of course, officially represent the State of New York. It is expected that other officials, some representing the Nation, will also be present. At the dress rehearsal "Antony and Cleopatra" will be given precisely as at the Monday night premiere, the only difference being that the auditors will be invited guests.

No seats will be sold for the performance or for the afternoon reception.

REID GETS A DEGREE.

Morley, Conferring Honor, Is Frequently Interrupted by Suffragettes.

MANCHESTER, England, Oct. 4.—To mark the opening of the John Morley chemical laboratories, presented to Victoria University of Manchester by Andrew Carnegie, Lord Morley, Chancellor of the university, conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws on Whitelaw Reid, the American Ambassador to Great Britain, and the Chancellors of several colonial and German universities.

In conferring the honor Lord Morley spoke of the benefits of education, but he was freuently interrupted by Suffragettes.

Ambassador Reid, in replying, expressed his pleasure at standing among the cotton mills of Lancashire within reach and hearing of the cotton operatives, who, in the great crisis of his country's history, although suffering themselves, threw the weight of their sympathy and influence on the side of freedom. Their action, he said, would never be forgotten by America.

"MASTER KEY," LABOR PLAY.

THE MASTER KEY. A play by Cosmo Hamilton. Bijou.

|---|---|
| Edward Chard | Orrin Johnson |
| Matthew Hempstead | Frank Hatch |
| Alf Rumble | Bennett Southard |
| Arthur Welby | Donald McLaren |
| Amos Tapper | Horace James |
| John Berbank | Fred W. Strong |
| Joseph Pring | Earnest Mack |
| Major Wilding | Harold Mead |
| Henry Goland | George Standing |
| Stella Wilding | Leonora Oakford |
| Lady Wilding | Mildred McNeil |
| Mrs. Tapper | Justine Cutting |
| Mary Heron | Frances Ring |

"The Master Key," produced at the Bijou Theatre last night, is a play of love and labor troubles. The first-night audience received it with hearty applause, and called the players back again and again after the second and third acts.

The hero is a young millionaire, suddenly brought to face the responsibilities of a big commercial enterprise and to struggle with a strike among his workmen. In order to find out the cause of the strike and the remedy for the discontent among the men, he disguises himself as a poor clerk and goes to live among his employes. In the home of one of them he hears himself called a coward and a sneak by a Socialist orator and by the woman he is beginning to love, a young school teacher. His love for the girl grows rapidly in spite of her opinion of him. He learns from her that the "master key" to the situation is love; for her and for the people he employs. Believing him to be a clerk she consents to marry him, planning how they can combine their wages to have enough to live on. When she learns that he is really the millionaire whom she despises she drives him from her, only to go to him when she finds out why he has let the strike continue.

Orrin Johnson, as the millionaire, Chard, Frank Hatch as the Socialist, Horace James as Amos Tapper, and Bennett Southard as Alf Rumble seem to please the audience by their earnest work, while Frances Ring as Mary was also well received.

IRVING PLACE THEATRE OPENS

German Company Presents "The Wedding of the Revolution," a Tragedy.

|---|---|
| Alaine de l'Estoile | Eva Speier |
| Ernest de Tressailles | Friedrich Sterler |
| Du Bartas | Fritz Metzl |
| Leontine | Flora Arndt |
| Maitre Jerome | Heinrich Oesfeld |
| Prosper | Erwin Baron |
| Montaloup | Carl Schmidt |
| Davoust | Oscar Penke |
| Marc Arron | Director Theodor Burgarth |
| Jean Lasque | Gustav Olmar |

The season at the Irving Place Theatre opened last night with a new company, new Directors, a newly decorated auditorium, and a new play. The audience filled the house and heartily welcomed the company and the Directors, Theodor Burgarth and J. Stein.

"The Wedding of the Revolution" ("Die Revolutionshochzeit") is a tragedy. The period is in 1793 and the scenes are laid in France.

Eva Speier, from the New Theatre, Ereslau, has the rôle of the girl, and the revolutionary Colonel is played by Director Burgarth. Other prominent rôles are taken by Friedrich Sterler as Ernest, Carl Schmidt as Montaloup, head of the revolutionists, and Oscar Penke as Davoust, another revolutionist.

Moving Pictures in Yorkville Theatre.

The Yorkville Theatre will become a motion-picture house next week, under the management of Marcus Lowe. A mutual agreement has been entered into between the Shuberts and Hurtig & Seamon to that effect.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The bill at the Alhambra yesterday was headed by Nat M. Wills in his monologue "Hortense Mulligan," and a baseball sketch called "Swat Milligan" came second. Others who appeared were La Titcomb, Ida O'Day and company, T. Nelson Downs, Melville and Higgins, Rochez's monkeys, Hyman Meyer, and Dorsch and Russell.

At the Orpheum in Brooklyn Mabel Hite and Mike Donlin were headliners, and the rest of the programme consisted of the Boston Fadettes, Gracie Emmett and company, Clara Belle Jerome, Charlie Case, Harry Leybourne, Avery and Hart, Rayno's bull terriers, and the Piquays.

Nella Bergen headed the bill at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday. A new comedy act, "The Models of the Jardin de Paris," had an important place, and the rest of the programme consisted of Raymond and Caverly, Eckert and Berg, A. O. Duncan, Kendal Weston and company, and Max York's fox terriers.

At the Colonial Albert Chevalier began his second week, and the balance of the bill included Byron and Langdon, the Exposition Four, Ryan and Richfield, the Carmos, Smith and Campbell, Tyler and Burton, and Ed Norton.

George Fuller Golden opened at the Plaza Music Hall yesterday. Fiske O'Hara appeared in a sketch, and the programme was filled out by Ida Rene, Fred Hallen and Molly Fuller, Maurice Levi and his band, Mazuz and Mazette, the Bon Air Trio, Willie Hale and Brother, and others.

Arthur Prince began his second week at the American Music Hall yesterday. Others who appeared were Daphne Pollard, the Withington Zouaves, Hilarion and Rosalie Ceballos, Billy Dillen, Ed Latell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Forbes, Rembrant, Von Klein and Gibson, and the Barlows.

Hammerstein's Victoria has Louise Dresser at the head of the bill, and the rest of the entertainers are Max Gruber's animals, Barnes and Crawford, Harry Tate's "Motoring," Orville Harold and Arthur Woods, Tom Smith, Gus Edwards's Blonde Typewriters, Percy Chapman, the Four Kornex Brothers, and the Great Lester.

Al Reeves's "Big Beauty Show" opened at the Olympic Theatre yesterday, "The Parisian Widows" at the Murray Hill, and "The Rialto Rounders" at Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall.

Hope Latham, who was with Mrs. Fiske in "Salvation Nell" last season, has been engaged by Wagenhals & Kemper for an important role in "Seven Days."

The Shuberts have engaged Winnie O'Connor, a London actress, to play the title role in "The Belle of Brittany" in support of Frank Daniels. Miss O'Connor has never appeared in America.

The opening of "The Fourth Estate," scheduled for to-night at Wallack's Theatre, has been postponed until to-morrow night, in order to allow time for better preparation.

James M. Barrie has just presented Maude Adams with a new one-act play, which he hopes she will use some day at a performance for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America.

Jacob Oppenheim, the St. Louis theatrical manager, is planning to star the Countess Venturini in a play called "Jenny," written by Algernon Boysen. The Countess Venturini is a daughter of Edward Stern, Russian Consul General in New York about twenty years ago. She made her first appearance on the stage in Brussels in 1906, and last Summer she played with Mr. Oppenheim's company at the Suburban Garden.

MUSIC NOTES.

Admiral Le Pord and the officers and crews of the French battleships will be Mr. Hammerstein's guests at the performance of "Faust" to-morrow night at the Manhattan Opera House.

The Llanelly Royal Welsh Prize Choir, John Thomas, director, will give a concert at Mendelssohn Hall next Friday evening. The choir will make its first American appearance in Brooklyn at the Plymouth Church on Orange Street, Thursday evening, for the benefit of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of that church.

Such interest as resulted at the Hudson Theatre last night, where Martha Morton's adaptation of "On the Eve" was presented, is largely centred in the acting of Miss Hedwig Reicher, hitherto known as an exceptionally gifted and interesting actress in the German companies, but now making her first appearance in an English-speaking rôle.

Miss Reicher has previously given evidence of her great natural talent, good taste, and sound training, but it is to be doubted whether in the successive works which engaged her in the German theatres her individual success has ever been more pronounced or more deserved than it was last night. Certainly by overcoming in a comparatively short time the intricacies of English pronunciation she has accomplished much, and though there are still traces of a pleasant accent, the purity of her diction and the pliability of her utterance might be a model for many players to the language born.

Throughout the successive phases of a rôle now highly emotional, now demanding a suggestion of repression and repose, to the final phases of agonized suspense and overwrought enthusiasm, Miss Reicher moved impressively, eloquently, sincerely.

If there is any defect in her playing it is a certain artistic reserve at moments when one feels that reserve of all things must be cast off, and when, in the excellence of the actress's technical attack there is still just the something lacking which hides technic and creates a sense of what is real. Occasionally, too, there is a tendency to pose for the sake of the pictorial effect, but it is almost pardonable since Miss Reicher is most pictorially effective.

If these minor shortcomings are pointed out it is only as a warning at the outset of a career which promises newer popularity for Miss Heicher, and should be wholly profitable for our audiences. The English stage is the gainer by her presence. And there is certainly no desire to minimize the beauty and grace and power of her playing. Her final note of mingled devotion, self-sacrifice, and exaltation is beautifully poignant and forms a fitting climax to a performance at once both varied and expressive.

It is to be regretted that the same enthusiasm cannot be brought to bear in a discussion of the play which Martha Morton has pieced together out of some small fragments of Dr. Kampf's original and some large chunks of her own contriving.

Dr. Kampf's original play is not unknown here. It was acted in Irving Place Dec. 21, 1907, the occasion being a benefit for the relief society organized to succor Russian revolutionary victims, and at that time Miss Reicher, speaking in German, was seen in the rôle which she now essays in English.

It was at this time that Miss Gertrude Andrews, an American woman resident in Paris, conceived the idea of having the play produced in Paris, where it achieved an enormous success. Dr. Kampf's play is obviously the work of one who knew and felt conditions and who sought to voice them in a way to reach the heart.

The original work suffers from a prolixity of dialogue while endless discussions of social conditions, in which all sides are heard, serve to delay and retard the action. But in spite of this fact it contains several scenes that are tremendously moving and appealing. Always, however, there is the sense of a clear purpose. And that this was felt may be understood from the fact that in Russia and Germany the play was interdicted. Miss Martha Morton appears to be primarily concerned, however, with the presentation of a play as she conceives American audiences conceive it, and not content with the massacres in the story itself, she makes a massacre of Dr. Kampf's original.

In the original play, throughout the passages of revolutionary doctrine and propaganda, beginning with the scene in which a group of enthusiasts are seen printing their forbidden literature, suggestively grim and portentous and striking the keynote of the subsequent events, onward through the passages in which come the story and the sense of massacre and outrage, and culminating in the incident in which Anna Ricanskaya places the signal light in the window which is to mean the death of an oppressor by a bomb, held by her lover, and who must himself go down in the general destruction—throughout all these scenes there flows the current of a story of hearts battling between their sense of duty to a cause and individual longing for each other.

The scene of Anna's first confession of love for Vasili and that in which the pair finally separate—he to go upon his mission of destruction—she to wait for the moment when she must signal him to death—are vital in the essence. They are stirringly written. Here they become stirring largely in spite of the writing, for Miss Morton has failed to transfer the quality to her adaptation, making a substitute of cheap and clap-trap melodramatic incidents that would be laughable but for the intensity with which the actors labor. Characters in the original that were merely mentioned—the brutal Governor-General, here made into a Chief of Police, and his mistress, a prima of the ballet, must be dragged on the stage, with other vulgar or supposedly comic creatures to emphasize the sense of shockingly bad morals and manners in aristocratic circles. But at the last even the ballet dancer is touched with regenerating revolutionary fervor.

It is to Mr. Frank Keenan's credit that, as the Chief of Police, he succeeded in spite of the absurdities of his scenes in commanding some attention. But the fact was solely due to the intensity and sincerity with which he handled outrageously insincere material.

With the exception of the first act in which to a great extent Dr. Kampf's original is retained, the play is a collection of antiquated theatrical effects. Mr. Frederick Lewis played earnestly and Mr. Edwin Brandt, Rene Grau, Beatrice Prentice, and Harry Davenport, the last in a rôle of needless comic relief, did all that was possible under the circumstances.

Miss Bailly-Blanchard to Wed.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The engagement is announced to-day of Miss Jeanne, sister of Arthur Bailly-Blanchard, First Secretary of Embassy at the American Embassy in Paris, to Viscount Perrot de Chazelle, who was formerly ordnance officer to the Duke d'Aumale, and ex-Captain in the French Army.

To-day is the second day of registration. If you do not register you cannot vote at the Nov. 2 election. A full list of places of registration in Manhattan and the Bronx will be found elsewhere in this issue of The New York Times.

"CITIZEN'S HOME" MISTIMED.

Political Play Deals with Issues Not of This Campaign.

If "A Citizen's Home," produced last night at the Majestic, had been played in some such campaigns as those of 1894 and 1901, when the public mind was inflamed over the horrors attendant upon Tammany's alliance with vice, it is quite likely that it would have aroused just such a civic furor as did "An Englishman's Home" in England. For H. H. Boyd, the author, has presented his facts vigorously.

Keilly, the district leader, makes advances to a girl in his district and is repulsed. He arranges a "frame-up" by which she is arrested on a trumped-up charge, put under heavy bonds by a Judge, who is a tool of Keilly's, and lured into a disorderly house by her bondsman, another tool. Meanwhile her adoptive father, a Swiss watchmaker, has also offended the district leader by opposing his leadership, and his business is gradually ruined by devices of which Keilly has a large collection.

Its presentation in this year, when the issues that chiefly engross public attention, tax rates, subways, and the debt limits, is unfortunate for Mr. Boyd.

One excellent local touch is the presence of an Italian named "Donovan." A city of Humpty Jacksons and Paul Kellys will recognize the admirable accuracy of that hit. Miss Sara Biala plays the injured girl, and Thomas MacLarnie is a district leader so natural that in many a district in this city the "gang" would think the "boss" had gone on the stage if they saw him.

MLLE. BARON SINGS IN 'TOSCA'

Takes Miss Sylva's Place and Gives a Realistic Performance.

"Tosca" seems to be Miss Sylva's unlucky opera. On the occasion for which she was first billed to sing in it, at the Manhattan Opera House, she became ill, and at the last hour Mme. Grippon was substituted in her place. Last night Miss Sylva again found herself unable to appear, and this time Mlle. Baron sang the part of the Roman singer before the assembled audience, which was a large one.

Miss Baron's conception of the part seemed to be modeled on the realistic version of the opera, which was one of the sensations of last season at the Paris Opéra Comique. None of the details of the second act was left to the imagination. Mr. Beck as Scarpia entered into the spirit of the occasion. Mr. Carasa sang the tenor rôle. Mr. Sturani conducted.

MISS WANAMAKER A COUNTESS

John Wanamaker's Granddaughter Wedded to Count Arthur de Heeren.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Miss Fernanda Wanamaker, daughter of Rodman Wanamaker and granddaughter of John Wanamaker, was married this afternoon to Count Arthur de Heeren, son of Count Heeren of Paris and Biarritz. The wedding took place in the presence of a distinguished audience.

There were two ceremonies. The first was carried out in the Catholic Church of St. Philippe du Roule with full orchestral accompaniment. This was followed by a Protestant marriage service at the home of the bride in the Avenue des Champs Elysée, where the Rev. Alfred G. Mortimer of Philadelphia officiated. Henry White, the American Ambassador, and the Marquis del Mund, the Spanish Ambassador, acted as witnesses.

After their honeymoon, which will be passed in Italy, the newly married couple will take up their abode in Paris.

Miss Lydecker to Wed on Oct. 14.

The marriage of Miss Nathalie Lydecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lydecker of 11 East Eighty-first Street, to Ensign Horace Cuyler Dyer, U. S. N., will take place on Oct. 14 in St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-first Street, and is to be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Lydecker will be attended by Miss Christina Gurley of Brooklyn, as maid of honor, and the Misses Arabella Robinson, Emily Shonk, Olive St. John, Emily Ward, Marjorie Muzzy, and Helen Lydecker as bridesmaids. Ensign Ralph Henson will be best man, and the ushers are to be Paymaster T. Williamson, U. S. N.; Kenneth Lydecker, and Leigh Lydecker.

Nichols-Lane Wedding Plans.

Preparations have been completed for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Abbott Lane, sister of James Warren Lane, to Acosta Nichols, which takes place next Saturday in the Madison Square Presbyterian Church. The wedding is to be a small one, and the ceremony will be followed by an informal breakfast and reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lane, who have leased Mrs. Sidney Dillon Ripley's residence, 16 East Seventy-ninth Street.

Miss Lane's brother will offer her in marriage, and the bride will be unattended. George Livingstone Nichols, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Nichols will make their home at 102 East Sixty-fifth Street.

Miss Lane and her sister, Miss Mabel F. Lane, are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Lane, and have lived in the family home in East Twenty-first Street since the death of their parents.

Miss Sherwood to Wed J. M. Townsend

The engagement has been announced of Miss Cynthia Sherwood, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murry Sherwood, who was Miss Rosina Emmet, to James M. Townsend, Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Townsend of West Seventy-fifth Street, a graduate of Yale, 1908. No date has been set for the wedding.

Social Notes.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish had a house party over Sunday at Garrison's. The guests, who returned to town yesterday, included Mrs. Moses Taylor Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Clark, Harry Black, Herbert Pell, and Moncure Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon King have opened their town house, 16 East Eighty-fourth Street, where they are expected to-day from Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Vogel of 16 East Seventy-sixth Street returned last Thursday on the Mauretania after a three months' trip in Europe.

Mrs. H. Clinton Backus, has returned from an extended trip through the Thousand Islands, Canada, and the White Mountains, and will be at the Osborne for the Winter.

Mrs. George Dempster Hamlen of 50 Central Park West arrived Saturday on the Mauretania after four months spent in Scotland and on the Continent.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hersey Andrew have closed their cottage at Bay Head, N. J., and returned to their town house, 507 West End Avenue.

BELLEW WAS NEAR DEATH.

Ruptured Blood Vessel of Nose, and Only His Strength Saved Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Owing to having ruptured a blood vessel of the nose, Kyrle Bellew almost bled to death in his room in the Hotel Statler here this morning and his condition is such that it will be several days before he can resume his part in his new play, "The Builders of Bridges." His physicians announce to-night that possibly Mr. Bellew will be able to get out Thursday, but will not state definitely until to-morrow.

Mr. Bellew has been suffering from a cold and retired to his room early last night. About midnight he commenced sneezing, and so violently did he sneeze that he commenced to bleed. Being unable to stop the flow of blood, two physicians were summoned, but it was not until five hours after they had reached his bedside that they had stopped the bleeding.

Mr. Bellew slept the greater part of the day, and to-night appeared to be somewhat stronger, having a slight color in his face. He was to have opened a week's engagement in his new play, it having been presented but twice so far, at Utica and at Ithaca.

Mr. Bellew is 53 years of age, but his superb physical condition is all that saved him from death, as he lost more than two quarts of blood.

DR. DAVID H. COCHRAN DEAD.

Educator Was President of Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn for 35 Years.

Dr. David H. Cochran, President of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn for thirty-five years, died at his residence, 301 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn, last night, after an illness of six months. He was 82 years old, and had gradually failed in strength since an attack of apoplexy last Spring.

Born in Springfield, N. Y., July 5, 1828, he graduated from Hamilton College in 1850, and immediately entered his career as an educator, being Professor of Natural Sciences at Clinton Liberal Institute. After two years at Clinton he became principal of the Fredonia Academy. This position he held for a year. He then occupied the chair of natural sciences at the State Normal School at Albany, and in 1855 was made President of that institution.

In 1864 he resigned from the Presidency of the State Normal School to accept the Presidency of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, which position he held continuously for thirty-five years.

For several years past Dr. Cochran traveled abroad, visiting the educational institutions of Europe and the mining regions of America.

He is survived by a widow and three sons, Dr. Henry Cochran, Thomas C. Cochran, and David H. Cochran, Jr., also by one daughter, Miss Kittie Cochran.

WILLIAM WATSON DEAD.

Chairman of the Cunard Steamship Company Since 1905.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—William Watson, Chairman of the Cunard Steamship Company, died in London this morning.

William Watson was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1843. He was educated in that city, and after receiving a good start in business left to take up his residence in England. For many years he was prominent in the cotton trade in Liverpool, where he made a fortune with the firm of Watson & Co., of which he was the senior member. He retired from this firm only a few years ago.

Mr. Watson became a Director of the Cunard Steamship Company about sixteen years ago. He was later Vice Chairman, and upon the death of Lord Inverclyde, in 1905, was elected to succeed the latter as Chairman.

Ex-Assemblyman Donihee Dead.

William B. Donihee, who was member of Assembly from the Nineteenth District, this city, last year, died at his residence, 58 Morningside Avenue, yesterday after an illness of several months. Mr. Donihee was a lawyer, and was one of the best orators on the Committee of Speakers of Tammany Hall. He was one of the two Tammany Assemblymen to obtain an indorsement for re-election by the Citizens' Union. Mr. Donihee declined a renomination this year because of his ill health. He obtained the passage of the present school census law, which he introduced into the Assembly last year. His wife and four children survive him.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. CHARLES M. SWIFT, wife of a well-known Detroit capitalist, died from heart disease yesterday at her home at Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Mrs. ETTA JARVIS SHEPARD, wife of Seth Shepard, Chief Justice of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, died in Washington yesterday morning. The interment will be in Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Shepard before her marriage was Miss Etta Knolls Jarvis of Louisville. She came to Washington from Texas with Judge Shepard about fifteen years ago.

GAD NORTH SMITH, Collector of Customs for the Superior District, with headquarters in Marquette, Mich., died suddenly Sunday night from apoplexy. He was 67 years old.

THOMAS C. MacKENNA, one of the Justices of the Peace of old Queens County previous to consolidation and for years in charge of the Whitestone ship news station for The New York Herald, died suddenly at his home in Whitestone, L. I., Sunday, aged 63 years. Fifteen years ago he saved the life of the late E. H. Harriman, whose yacht capsized. Mr. MacKenna was born in Dublin, Ireland, where he was a telegraph operator in the employ of the Government, when he became implicated in a Fenian movement and came to this country in 1866. Previous to consolidation he also served for many years as a member of the old Whitestone village Board of Education. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, and two sons.

ALGERNON K. JOHNSTON, a well-known resident of Stapleton, S. I., died suddenly on Sunday evening after having visited a relative's grave in Bloomfield, N. J. While returning from the cemetery Mr. Johnston suddenly fell to the ground and died before a physician could be summoned. His death was due to heart disease. Mr. Johnston was 73 years of age, and occupied, with his family, the old Vanderbilt homestead at Stapleton. He was a Director of the S. S. White Dental Company at Princess Bay. Besides his widow he is survived by two sons and a daughter, Mrs. G. H. Bailes.

DAVID WILEY TRAVIS, who helped to organize the Republican Party in this State, is dead in Peekskill. He was Chairman of the convention which nominated Chauncey M. Depew for the Assembly when he made his first race in 1861. Mr. Travis is said to have been the oldest member of the Westchester County Bar Association. He was born in Peekskill eighty-five years ago, and received his education at the Peekskill Military Academy.

Mrs. H. I. STORMS is dead at her home, 1,459 Dean Street, Brooklyn, after a long illness. Her father, Joseph A. Miller, was a hat manufacturer. A graduate of Public School 16, on Wilson Street, she became a teacher in the public schools later. She is survived by two sons, Murray H. Storms and Wilbur K. Storms.

THOMAS BARBER KERR, 74 years old, died at his residence, 44 West Fifty-sixth Street, yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Ill for many weeks, Mr. Kerr's death was not unexpected by his family. Mr. Kerr owned and operated the distillery on Eighteenth Street, which bears his name.

WILLIAM A. MORAND, artist and portrait photographer, died Sunday, aged 67. His patrons were from the oldest families of New York City, Mr. Morand being the owner and manager of Campbell Studio, on Fifth Avenue. His father, George Henry Morand, was one of the pioneer photographers in this city.

FIRESTONE WINS RACE.

Hildreth's Colt Was First in a Sharp Finish for the New Rochelle Stakes.

The winners of Belmont Park races yesterday had their work cut out for them straight through the card, and every victorious horse in the events on the flat came home under the whip, with the widest margin of success barely more than a neck.

Owners still scratched freely, but the best horses were left in as competitors, and the four that ran for the New Rochelle Stakes made a contest that could not have been much improved had all the eight entries been sent out to run. Firestone was the choice of the Hildreth stable, which had two entries in the stakes, and Firestone, with E. Martin as a substitute for Dugan, who had the mount on The Squire, was the winner, after a prolonged struggle through the stretch, with both horses hard driven through all of the last quarter. The three-year-old filly Mary Davis started favorite for the New Rochelle, and led her field away from the post, but in the first quarter had so little advantage that the horses were near the three furlongs before the line was broken appreciably.

Mary Davis still was in front when the turn for the run home was made, and then Firestone went past her, with The Squire after him. The horses drew away from the filly in the run down the stretch, and Firestone was best at the end and won by a short neck from The Squire, with Mary Davis third, in 1:39, time that equaled the fastest mile of the meeting.

Campeen, whipped through the stretch after making all the running, just lasted out the six and a half furlongs of the last race, and got home winner, shoulders before Royal Onyx, while Jeanne d'Arc, after running out at the last turn, finished a close third.

Walker Wins Century Run.

The annual 100-mile record run of the Century Road Club of America was held on Sunday. The course was on the Merrick Road, starting from Valley Stream to Bay Shore and return, covering the distance twice. The winner was Clinton B. Walker of the Century Road Club of America, who finished in six hours two minutes and twenty seconds, with a handicap of one hour and fifteen minutes. Jesse R. Pike of the Century Road Club of America, who started from scratch, won the time prize in five hours twenty-three minutes twelve and one-fifth seconds. There were forty-eight starters, of which twenty-six finished.

Republic Tires
(Staggard Tread)

At the curve—
On sprinkled asphalt—
In an unexpected shower—

You need Republic Staggard Treads. The comfort in feeling those big rubber studs "grip" the pavement at the turns is worth far more than the cost.

Not a short-lived emergency tire like the steel-studded devices, but a continuous-service tire. Always on when you need it.

INSTRUCTION.

NEW YORK—Manhattan.

"My Son Having Failed Completely in his preliminary examinations for college, entered your school, and in one year he covered two regular school years of work as is done at most schools, and not only passed his examinations easily for college, but also with credit to himself and his school."

This extract of a letter from the mother of a recent student is one of a hundred or more, valued by Mr. Groff, showing the high grade of success he has had for twelve years.

THE GROFF SCHOOL
is ideal and exceptional as a boarding and day school.

If a boy is bright and wishes to make rapid progress he is not held back by reason of any other boy, or by the old "grade system." If he is timid or nervous, he is encouraged; if he is careless, interest in his studies is secured; if he does not know how to apply himself, he is taught. To this individual method of teaching is due the Groff School's wonderful success, and "success is what talks."

All work prepared at the school under the direction and assistance of expert teachers, unless home work is preferred. Reopens Sept. 29th. Call on or address the Principal (now at the school),
228 West 72d St., New York.
Office hours, 9 to 4, or by appointment.
'Phone, 744 Columbus.

Dwight School
15 W. 43d St. one block from Grand Central Station.

COTTON PROSPECTS POOREST IN YEARS

HURT BY RAIN AND DROUGHT

Number of Bales Ginned from 1909 Growth Is 2,562,888, Compared with 2,590,639 for 1908.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Financial and weather conditions combined produced to-day the most unfavorable report from the Department of Agriculture on the condition of the cotton crop that has been made at this season for many years. The official report indicates that on Sept. 25 the condition of the cotton crop was only 58.5 per cent. of normal, as compared with 63.7 per cent. on Aug. 25, 1909; 69.7 on Sept. 25, 1908; 67.7 on Sept. 25, 1907, and 67 per cent. on the Sept. 25 average for ten years.

| States. | 1909. | 1908. | Ten-Year Av'ge. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Virginia | 71 | 78 | 75 |
| North Carolina | 70 | 69 | 70 |
| South Carolina | 70 | 68 | 69 |
| Georgia | 71 | 71 | 70 |
| Florida | 67 | 72 | 71 |
| Alabama | 62 | 70 | 67 |
| Mississippi | 53 | 70 | 68 |
| Louisiana | 39 | 55 | 67 |
| Texas | 52 | 71 | 63 |
| Arkansas | 54 | 70 | 67 |
| Tennessee | 68 | 78 | 72 |
| Missouri | 72 | 70 | 74 |
| Oklahoma | 55 | 70 | 69 |
| United States | 58.5 | 69.7 | 67 |

After the announcement by the Department of Agriculture of the figures, Dr. S. A. Knapp, Chief of the co-operative demonstration work for the Department of Agriculture in the South, said that the serious falling off in the figures, especially for Louisiana and Mississippi, was due to two conditions. One was the excessive rainfall in the early part of the cotton-crop season, followed by a serious drought, and the second was the failure of cotton planters to obtain advances on their crops from bankers. The latter reason forced the planters to dismiss a considerable part of their labor at a time when the boll weevil was a most serious pest.

Acreage in Louisiana Less.

Dr. Knapp said that another reason which induced a falling off in the general average of Louisiana was that there was about 30 per cent. less of acreage in cotton than in previous years.

The boll weevil did serious damage in the last year in the southwestern quarter of Mississippi.

"In my judgment," said Dr. Knapp, "the really serious trouble which applies to all the cotton States was brought about by the excessive rainfall in the early part of the season, and the excessive drought in the latter part. In some of the States planters could scarcely obtain water enough for their live stock. This was particularly true of Texas and Oklahoma. What is known as the New Orleans storm, which passed up through portions of Louisiana and Western Mississippi, blew out immense quantities of cotton and served seriously to detract from the excellence of the crop."

Secretary Wilson declined to make any statement regarding the figures given out by his department. He said that Dr. Knapp knew more about the cotton crop from practical observation of conditions in the South than any other man in the department, and he had nothing to add to the statement made by him.

Number of Bales Ginned.

The report of the Census Bureau to-day showed that to Sept. 25 there had been ginned from the cotton growth of 1909 2,562,888 bales, counting round as half bales, compared with 2,590,639 for 1908.

The round bales included this year numbered 48,176, compared with 57,107 for 1908. The Sea Island cotton reported for 1909 was 13,826, compared with 11,457 for 1908.

The number of bales, counting round as half bales, ginned to Sept. 25, by States, was as follows: Alabama, 188,660, as against 316,349 in 1908; Arkansas, 83,777, as against 80,465 in 1908; Florida, 19,433, against 16,657 in 1908; Georgia, 535,026, against 514,898 in 1908; Louisiana, 62,351, against 79,042 in 1908; Mississippi, 96,976, against 199,001 in 1908; North Carolina, 80,472, against 89,063 in 1908; Oklahoma, 134,247, against 5,705 in 1908; South Carolina, 284,726, against 289,969 in 1908; Tennessee, 17,125, against 28,109 in 1908; Texas, 1,057,876, against 966,607 in 1908, and in all other States, 2,219, as compared with 4,774 in 1908.

LOCAL MARKET IS IRREGULAR.

Prices Advance Early in the Day, but Decline Later.

The publication of the two Government reports yesterday introduced cross currents in the cotton market which made the day one of heavy trading and irregular movements. In the morning the market was up about 20 points above Saturday's closing, a large part of the advance being attributable to short covering. The fact that the Census Bureau report of cotton ginned was substantially below the figures generally expected, in view of the widely accepted belief that as a result of the drought the bolls in large sections had opened prematurely and put the cotton season that far ahead, was a bullish factor and influenced further buying by the new element which has entered the market since the Summer months.

The rise previous to the announcement of the Agricultural Department's estimate of condition at noon brought December up to 13.54, January to 13.50, March to 13.60, and May to 13.65. When the condition of 58.5 per cent. was announced, there was a further brief gain of from 3 to 5 points, which was, however, quickly turned into a loss as profit-taking sales began to make their appearance. This decline continued until prices were substantially at Saturday's closing levels. At about 1 o'clock a new movement began which stopped the decline, but failed to put prices materially above the levels of last week's closing.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—The market went down 20 points on the publication of the condition report this morning, after an early tendency to advance. January went from 13.48 to 13.53, and then, with other options, dropped to a level 20 points lower.

RECEIVER FOR $1,000,000 CO.

Directors of the Combustion Utilities Company Ask for Dissolution.

Judge Brady of the Supreme Court has appointed Ralph D. Mershon receiver for the Combustion Utilities Company, gas specialties, of 60 Wall Street, with a bond of $1,000, in proceedings for the voluntary dissolution of the corporation brought by the Directors, among whom are Paul R. Jones, Frank W. Frueduff, W. W. Foster, and Louis F. Musil.

The liabilities are $528,034, of which $450,000 is an issue of bonds, and the assets are $1,009, consisting of ten patents, nominally valued at $100 each, and a few sundries valued at $9. Among the creditors are Henry L. Doherty, who was President of the company, $64,297; Henry L. Doherty & Co., $9,813, and Henry R. Wilson, $2,000.

The company is a New York corporation, incorporated on Sept. 14, 1905, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, to sell shop-rights and royalty licenses for the different processes which the company controlled by patents.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE BONDS.

Baring Brothers Invite Subscriptions of $10,000,000 in London.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Baring Brothers are inviting applications for $10,000,000 worth of the 4½ per cent. thirty-year first mortgage bonds of the New York Telephone Company. The price is 95. Bonds to the amount of $10,000,000 are reserved for London out of the total issue of $25,000,000.

The twenty-five-million-dollar issue of bonds of the New York Telephone Company is only a portion of the $75,000,000 authorized. The proceeds of the sale of the issue will take care of the obligations now outstanding against the various consolidated companies in New York State and provide for extensions and additions.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The local market continues strong; opening prices were higher. Greene-Cananea, North Butte, and United States Smelting were the features, the former moving up to 10⅝, on buying by New York interests. Lake moved up a point, to 37. Utah Consolidated was in good demand. Among the miscellaneous issues American Telephone, United Fruit, and Shoe Machinery were the features, each making good advances. The market continued steady and strong until the closing.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

It is reported that the subscriptions to the $12,500,000 allotment of the new New York Telephone bonds have been so heavy that there will be no public offering of the bonds by Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Application has been made to the Stock Exchange by the following to list securities: Cleveland & Pittsburg Railroad $583,750 additional special guarantee betterment stock and the Michigan State Telephone Company $300,000 additional first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds due in 1924.

The Stock Exchange issued a reminder yesterday of the new holiday on Oct. 12, Columbus Day, in an official notice that the Exchange would be closed on that day. Including the Saturday holiday on the opening of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, the Exchange has been closed oftener this year than in any year of its recent history, except perhaps the one after the Spanish War, when the Dewey holidays added to the total.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Duty Is Reduced on Wax Night Lights—Dyed Sea Moss Must Pay.

It has been decided by the Board of United States General Appraisers that so-called "night lights, composed of wax, and made up to resemble in a manner, a candle or taper, are not dutiable as manufactures of wax" with a tax of 25 per cent.

Levenson & Co., the importers, objected to the Collector's classification, and set up the contention that they should be allowed to enter at 20 per cent. under Section 6 of the law specifying manufactured articles not specially provided for. General Appraiser McClelland in his decision for the board finds that the importer's claim is well taken and should be sustained.

The board has taken adverse action on a protest filed by Diker & Zilswitz of New York, regarding the classification of sea moss. The Collector justified his assessment of 10 per cent. on the article on the ground that it is dyed, whereas the importer alleged it was exempt from duty as being crude.

The board sustained partly a claim filed by the Frank P. Dow Company regarding alleged overweight in importations of iron. Judge Waite, for the board, finds that the importers need not pay duty on 463 pounds. The Collector is directed to reliquidate the entry accordingly.

Sale of Mobile Railway Confirmed.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 4.—Judge H. T. Toulman of the United States District Court here to-day issued an order confirming the sale of the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City Railroad Company by W. C. Eakin, special master, on Aug. 23, to N. A. Withers and others of New York.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

SCHWARTZ & CO.—Judge Hand has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed on Sept. 14 against Schwartz & Co., manufacturers of cabinet work and office fixtures at 177 Prince Street, on a settlement at 35 cents on the dollar.

SAMUEL S. KOGAN.—Samuel S. Kogan, a lawyer, 324 East Nineteenth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $10,298 and no assets. Of the liabilities $9,750 are to H. & S. Rosenthal on a bond and mortgage given to them on property in Brooklyn, which is under foreclosure, and the remainder of the liabilities are for merchandise, note, and services.

BROWN, HACHTMANN & CO.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Brown, Hachtmann & Co., hat manufacturers of 621 Broadway, with a factory at 138 Seventh Street, Jersey City, show liabilities of $18,837 and nominal assets of $17,397, consisting of stock, $9,808; manufacturing plant, $7,000, and accounts, $1,489. Among the creditors are Isle & Guye, $6,036; Watson & Stillman Company, $3,565, and Tompkins & Co., $1,121. They owe $1,437 for wages.

LOUIS BARTH.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Louis Barth, wholesale dealer in leaf tobacco at 174 Water Street, by these creditors: Joseph Pike, $750; Elias Spingarn, $500, and Harry Klein, $50. It was alleged that he is insolvent and made preferential payments. He has been in business about twenty-five years, and on Jan. 1, 1908, said he had a capital of $32,000. Judge Hand appointed Arthur F. Gotthold receiver with a bond of $3,500. The stock on hand is estimated at $7,000.

A. G. J. MULLER & CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Albert G. J. Muller, trading as A. G. J. Muller & Co., cabinetmaker, 506 East Nineteenth Street, by these creditors: Oscar J. Gregorius, $418; Charles F. Fischer Lumber Company, $202, and August Bergman, $578. It was alleged that he is insolvent, made preferential payments, and transferred and removed a large part of his stock and accounts to conceal them from creditors. Judge Hand appointed Walter J. Hirsch receiver.

Slater & Brother, wholesale dealers in cloaks and suits, 10 West Eighteenth Street, show liabilities of $40,732, and nominal assets of $176,866, consisting of real estate, $156,000, at 179 to 185 East 100th Street, mortgaged for $120,800, of which a second mortgage of $9,800 is under foreclosure; accounts, $20,863, and cash in bank, $3. Among the creditors are the Mutual Alliance Trust Company, $16,500, secured; Columbia Bank, $3,000; Pacific Bank, $2,265, secured; C. Bahnson & Co., $2,771; Mollie Slater, $2,099, and the H. B. Claflin Company, $1,012.

CRESCENT SILK COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of David Cohen, who did business as the Crescent Silk Company, 3 East Seventeenth Street, show liabilities of $30,110 and nominal assets of $20,906, consisting of stock, $2,500; accounts, $9,802; cash, $4; unliquidated claims, $8,600, and eighteen shares of stock in the Cooper Exchange Bank. Of the liabilities, $11,183 was contracted as a partner with David Fuchs at Paterson, N. J. Among the creditors are Falaki & Co., $7,148; J. H. & C. K. Eagle, $4,150; William Furth & Sons, $3,126, secured; Hamler Textile Company, Woonsocket, R. I., $3,604, and John W. Stearns Co., $1,596.

SIMON GINSBURG & BROTHER.—A meeting of creditors of Simon Ginsburg & Brother, manufacturers of cloaks at 109 Bleecker Street, was held yesterday at the office of W. H. Willis, referee in bankruptcy, at 80 Wall Street, at which Henry Melville, the receiver, was elected trustee, with a bond of $25,000. Morris Meyers, on behalf of the firm offered a composition at 30 cents on the dollar, payable, 15 cents cash and 15 cents in notes at six, twelve, and eighteen months, and stated that more than 90 per cent. of the creditors had accepted the composition and signed the agreement. The total liabilities are $170,746, of which $51,930 are secured.

FRANK A. PALEN.—Frank A. Palen, who filed a petition in bankruptcy here on Saturday as a salesman of Kingston, with liabilities of $304,832 and no assets, was formerly President of the Church Construction Company of 949 Broadway, this city, which went into the hands of a receiver some time ago. The company had contracts for work on the Municipal Lodging House, this city, and for work at West Point for the United States Government. Suit was commenced in this city on Friday on behalf of Fairbanks, Morse & Co. against the Church Construction Company and a surety company to recover on a bond of $1,850 for materials supplied on the West Point contract.

Stocks Active and Steady—Call Money Rates, 3¾@4½ Per Cent.

COTTON REPORT IGNORED

Poor Showing of Government's Report Apparently Discounted—Time Money Hardens on Figures of Saturday's Bank Return.

To the most important piece of news of the day yesterday's stock market devoted very little attention. The Government's report on the condition of cotton as of Sept. 25 made a percentage of 58.5, as against 63.7 on Aug. 25, 69.7 a year ago, and a ten-year average of 67. While this showing cuts down still further the crop promise of a month ago the relative indifference of the securities market is explained by the fact that preliminary estimates of cotton's condition pointed to a reduction in the percentage figure fully as large as that reported yesterday, and to that extent discounted the actual publication. Furthermore, the Government's ginning report, comprising statistics of cotton prepared for the market up to Sept. 25, hardly bears out the poor prospect indicated in the condition figures proper. In other words, the ginning returns on the date of the condition report were within 28,000 bales of the largest total reported in over five years, and practically equaled the returns of the same period a year ago when the final crop was above 13,500,000 bales. It is apparent that unless the figures on the condition of the crop are considerably under the actual state of the staple, cotton is being prepared for market with greater speed than has ever been the case in the five years covered by the records. It only remains to be said that, averaging the price at $65 a bale, the cotton ginned between Sept. 1 and 25 shows a value of nearly $130,000,000, as against $102,000,000 in the same period a year ago for a somewhat larger quantity. On the Stock Exchange the movement of prices was in the main steady, with exceptional strength in a limited number of shares, including United States Steel, which again touched a new high record, at 94⅞; New York Central, Reading, Northern Pacific, and Central Leather. Profit taking late in the afternoon, reduced earlier gains somewhat, particularly in the case of Steel, which closed a point or more under its high price. Various absurd stories regarding new financing and extra distributions to stockholders were current in connection with the rise in Steel, but these were, of course, without the slightest basis in fact. The success of the management of the Central Leather Company in securing within the last few weeks nearly all of the old United States Leather preferred shares outstanding and thus paving the way to future dividends on Central Leather common explains sufficiently the strength of that stock.

Call money rates again ran up to 4½ per cent. during the course of the day, but final quotations were 3¾ per cent. With the exception of rates for thirty-day loans time money was quotably higher, reflecting the condition of the banks as disclosed in Saturday's Clearing House statement. Further participation in the loan market by the trust companies and deposits of the very substantial sums of money brought to this city by a host of visitors last week are expected to replenish banking reserves this week without recourse to extensive loan reductions. An interesting development in the English money market was the lowering of the price of gold following Russia's purchase of $3,000,000 gold arriving in the English capital from South Africa.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

United States Steel common again monopolized a large proportion of the business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. It was in demand, ruling much of the time slightly above the quotation on the New York Stock Exchange. It failed to sell early in the day below 91⅞, or ¼ of a point above the low touched on the other Exchange, and it afterward changed hands as high as 95, against 94⅞. Floor sentiment was favorable to higher prices during most of the session, but the professional element was not inclined to operate on a heavy scale. The market was a fairly broad one, with dealings in fifty-nine different issues.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Trading in local stocks was narrow and spiritless to-day, and the market was dominated almost wholly by the feverish activity of United States Steel in New York. About 16,000 shares of that stock were dealt in here during the first three hours alone, while with the exception of Lehigh Valley, not a single exclusive local issue had sales of over a thousand shares to its credit during that period.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee was a little more active yesterday, sales being 21,000 bags, and prices closed 5 to 10 points higher. There seems to be very little speculative interest, and many traders believe that any movement must be the result of spot market leadership rather than any effort to discount prospects complicated by legislation and abnormal conditions growing out of valorization.

Havre reported an advance of ¼f and Hamburg was ⅛@¼ pfennig higher. The Brazilian markets were both firm. Rio was unchanged; an advance of 50 reis was reported at Santos.

The world's visible supply of coffee increased 1,171,430 bags for the month, and was 16,530,671 on Oct. 1. Spot coffee was steady; 7¼@7 5-16 for Rio No. 7. Total warehouse deliveries in the United States for the week were 156,939 bags, against 130,977 last week and 110,735 last year. Of the former amount, New York had 84,361 bags.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

An interesting incident in connection with the rise in Steel common to a new high record price at 94⅞ yesterday was the sale of a block of Steel shares by a customer of one of the larger Stock Exchange houses which he had purchased in April last for reasons which had very little to do with a possible rise in steel to anything like par. The stock was bought at 53 as a hedge against a sale of an equal amount of Amalgamated Copper at 76. When this customer, who had been converted to the bear side of copper by the very poor figures on production and consumption which were coming out at that time, announced his intention of selling copper short, the manager of the house persuaded him to make the hedge on Steel. He did so reluctantly, but maintained his position up to yesterday. The Steel showed him a profit of 41 points or $4,100 for each 100 shares, while Copper at yesterday's prices showed a loss of practically $800 for every 100 shares. He is still short of the copper.

New Steel Record Again.

The usual set figure of the stock market, the advance in United States Steel common to a new high record, was provided yesterday as it had been on so many previous days. The tape, as if tiring of the daily climbing of the stock to a higher price than ever before, made a lunge yesterday in the direction of setting a mark for the stock that it would take a long time to reach a second time. At 2:35 o'clock this entry appeared on the tape, "U. S. 208½"—that meant that 100 shares of United States Steel common had just sold at 208½, that is it meant that if it meant anything, but as it turned out it was just an ordinary tape error; the sale should have read Union Pacific at 208½ instead of United States Steel. Even the bravest of the bulls hesitate, though, to suggest that the original entry was merely by way of anticipation.

Seeking Reasons for It All.

Something more than big earnings with a prospect of larger dividends some time in the future, many people in Wall Street think, is needed to explain the sustained rise in Steel common, and some of these set about yesterday to supply new explanations. The story was current that the Steel Corporation had quietly accumulated $100,000,000 of its own common stock in the open market, and that this stock was to be distributed as a bonus to the remaining stockholders of the corporation. The cost of this unusual transaction was to be provided by an issue of bonds against the new plant at Gary. The story was described as silly by those who would know of any plans of the Steel Corporation to give a bonus to its stockholders. It was denied even that the corporation has any plan to capitalize its new property acquired out of earnings.

Central Leather Activity.

Central Leather was up 2⅝ at the close yesterday after a day of active trading. Now that the merger has gone through, after three years of opposing litigation, the stock has become suddenly active and the market is already scenting dividends. The dissenting preferred stockholders of the United States Leather Company, who failed to join in the litigation and were refused at first the terms of exchange by which the clients of James B. Colgate & Co. were satisfied to withdraw their opposition to the absorption of their company by Central Leather, are taking advantage in large numbers of the offer by that house to get them in on the deal. But as was pointed out yesterday the rise in Central Leather common is rapidly making the old terms of exchange, by which 23½ in that stock is offered in lieu of the additional cash received by the litigants, equally attractive.

The Old Steel Combination Report.

The old story of a combination of the independent steel concerns, which was brought out periodically during the price cutting period before steel started upward, refuses to die. A new denial was made necessary by the statement yesterday that Ambassador John A. Leishman has been chosen to head a combination, including the Lackawanna Steel Company, the Standard Steel Company, and other concerns. The rumor gave opportunity for a recanvass of the perennial rumors of a combination of the Lackawanna company with the Republic Iron & Steel Company, the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, and the Pennsylvania Steel Company, with certain of the smaller independents. Positive statements that no negotiations are under way for forming such a combination puts this talk back on the shelf for the time being.

Rise in Telephone Stock.

Since Pacific Telephone and Telegraph was admitted to listing last week the common stock has risen from 48 to 62½ on transactions totaling close to 16,000 shares. The large number of "seller five days" contracts which have appeared in the trading indicate that San Francisco holders have been unable to resist the temptation to take profits on the rapid upturn. Five days leave just about a safe margin for stock to come on from the coast.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday an irregular tendency was shown. Copper was easier for both spot and future deliveries. Tin was strong, in sympathy with London; spot improved ¼c. Other commodities were unchanged.

On the Metal Exchange in London yesterday copper for both spot and future deliveries made a recession of 6s 3d from the final figures of Friday. The market finished easy, closing quotations ruling at, spot, £58 13s 9d; futures, £59 10s.

Pig tin ended firm with spot deliveries up 15s, to £139 10s, and future deliveries 17s 6d higher, to £140 12s 6d. Spanish pig lead was steady and unchanged at £13 2s 6d. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 52s 4½d.

The closing bid and asked prices for copper and other metals for spot deliveries on the New York Metal Exchange yesterday compare as follows with those of Friday:

THE COTTON MARKET

Seesaws After Government Figures—Closes 1 Point Up to 1 Down.

Cotton was active and excited yesterday on the two Government reports. Rather lighter ginning figures than looked for preceded the condition report, but, while the latter fully equaled bullish expectations, it was followed by heavy realizing under which the market closed steady, net 1 point higher to 1 point lower.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4@11 points in spite of disappointing cables and good weather over Sunday, and gradually advanced to a net gain of about 16@20 points. Contract prices follow:

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Trading Sluggish on the Curb Except for Movements in Scattered Issues.

GREENE-CANANEA ACTIVE

The Curb market was active in spots yesterday and prices in most cases showed gains at the close. Chicago Subway showed more strength than has been manifest in this issue since the slump began. After opening at 7¼ the price rose to 8, the close being at 7⅝ after transactions of 4,800 shares. In the mining list Greene-Cananea was unusually active and strong. After reported transactions of 6,500 shares the close was at 10⅝, ½ above the opening level. Many of the other coppers showed fractional gains, although in a number the day's movements left them even with opening prices. Boston Copper, British Columbia, and Cumberland-Ely were among those which made fractional declines. In the bond list the feature was the new 4½ per cent. bond issue of the New York Telephone Company, which rose from 96¼ to 97½, closing after sales of $500,000 at 97.

⁂

THE FOREIGN MARKETS.

Sharp Advance in Americans on the London Exchange.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Money was in fair demand and supply on the market to-day, and discounts were firm. Russia took the bulk of the $2,500,000 in gold on the market, paying 77s. 10⅝d., a decline of ⅜d.

Trading on the Stock Exchange started quietly steady, but business was not brisk and quotations closed below the best. Gilt-edged securities were maintained in anticipation of the reinvestment of to-morrow's dividends. Grand Trunk and Mexican rails benefited on good traffic returns. Kaffirs were supported early, but lost a fraction in the late trade.

American securities, after opening uncertain, yielded under profit-taking, and at noon were dull and from ⅛ higher to ⅝ lower than Saturday's New York's closing. Excepting Canadian Pacific, which was strong, the market drooped in the early afternoon, the unfavorable New York bank statement inducing realizations. In the late trading New York support caused a sharp advance, in which New York Central and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul led. Steel common reached a new record, 96⅛. The market closed strong, fractionally below the best.

Money, ¾@1 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅜ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2¼ per cent.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Prices on the Bourse to-day weakened on the unfavorable interpretation of the Spanish-Moroccan situation.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were dull.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Irregularity within a comparatively narrow range followed a fairly good early undertone yesterday. Liverpool closed ⅝ to ⅜d net higher. The visible supply showed an increase of 4,786,000 bushels, including 1,804,000 bushels increase in Canada. All Western markets received 2,353,000 bushels, or about 160,000 bushels less than on the corresponding day last year. Export business amounted to about 10 loads. No. 2 red in New York closed nominal; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.09⅝, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.14⅝, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—Trading was quiet yesterday, with prices lower on the increase of 1,007,000 bushels in the visible and the estimate for 511 cars at Chicago on Tuesday. Liverpool was ⅛ to ¼d higher, and primary receipts amounted to 871,000 bushels, compared with 247,000 bushels last year. No. 2 corn in New York was quoted 70c elevator and 70½c delivered; No. 2 corn, 69½c, first half October, and 68¼c Winter shipment; No. 2 yellow, 70c nominal.

Houston & Texas Central First Mortgage Bonds.

Notice of Bonds Drawn for Payment.

The Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company, having in its possession cash proceeds from sales of lands covered by Trust Indenture between Frederic P. Olcott, the Central Trust Company of New York, and the Southern Pacific Company, dated April 1, 1890, which are applicable to the purchase of the Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company's First Mortgage Bonds, secured by such indenture to an amount sufficient at the price limited in said Trust Indenture to purchase and retire 200 of such bonds, and, it having been found that such bonds cannot be purchased at or below 110 per centum of the par value thereof and accrued interest thereon, there have been drawn by lot, under the provisions of such Trust Indenture Bonds secured thereby bearing the distinguishing numbers hereinafter stated, to be paid for out of such proceeds of such land sales at the said rate of 110 per centum of the par value thereof and accrued interest thereon.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Lower Sixth Avenue Purchase—Buyers for West Side and Harlem Dwellings—Day's Dealings by Brokers and at Auction.

Peter P. Sherry has sold for the estate of Samuel Blakely 31 Sixth Avenue, running through to 10 Cornelia Street, to a client, who will erect a nine-story loft building on the site.

Edgecombe Avenue House Sold.

The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company has sold for Frederick A. de Peyster 42 Edgecombe Avenue, a three-story dwelling on lot 17.6 by 100. The buyer will occupy the house.

Pease & Elliman have sold for the estate of Adolph Platky 335 West Eighty-fifth Street, a three-story dwelling on lot 20 by 102.2, between West End Avenue and Riverside Drive, to a client for occupancy.

Annie E. Taylor has sold 902 West End Avenue, a four-story stone-front dwelling on lot 20 by 78 and irregular, adjoining the northeast corner of 104th Street.

Harlem Apartments in Trade.

The three eight-story apartment houses at 507 to 517 West 113th Street, the sale of which by Paterno Brothers was reported on Sunday, were bought by the Waldeck Realty Company and the Landlords' Realty Company. The buyers gave in exchange the three six-story apartment houses 24 to 28 West 140th Street, each 41.8 by 88.11; the two five-story flats at 65 and 67 West 134th Street, 50 by 100, and the three six-story apartment houses at 2,227 to 2,231 Fifth Avenue, southeast corner of 136th Street, on plot 99.11 by 100.

William Kuhn and John Lawson are the buyers of the plot, 112.6 by 99.10, on the south side of 157th Street, 268 feet west of Broadway. This deal completes the resale of the Audubon Park property by Max Marx and his associates. The new owners will erect an elevator apartment house on the site.

The Central Building Improvement Company has made a building loan of $117,000 to the Castleton Construction Company on the property, 99.11 by 150, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 151st Street.

F. R. Wood & Co. have leased 307 West Ninetieth Street, a five-story American basement dwelling, for William B. Cogswell; also, 624 West End Avenue, a three-story dwelling, for Herman Runkel; also, 124 West Ninety-fifth Street, a three-story dwelling, for E. L. Moneuse, and 15 West Eighty-sixth Street, a four-story dwelling, for Charles Cole.

Buyer of Seventh Avenue Corner.

Ferdinand Neumer is the buyer of the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Twentieth Street, 46 by 80, sold recently by the Brune estate through Louis Schrag. Mr. Neumer owns the adjoining property, 149 to 161 West Twentieth Street, and now controls a plot fronting 80 feet on Seventh Avenue and 223 feet on the street.

Operator Buys on 19th Street.

Leonard Weill has bought from Charles McIlhargy 438 and 440 West Nineteenth Street, two three-story dwellings, on plot 50 by 92. The property has not changed hands in over forty years.

Lease of Theatre Recorded.

There was recorded yesterday a lease of the Comedy Theatre, at 108 to 112 West Forty-first Street, by Charles E. Force & Co. to Sam Shubert and others for nineteen years at an annual rental of $30,000.

Sale of Samler Lots To-day.

Interest in the real estate market to-day will centre in the auction sale of the Samler estate property by Joseph P. Day in the Vesey Street Salesroom. On Sunday more than 500 persons visited the property, which is located on Broadway, opposite Van Cortlandt Park, at 254th and 256th Streets.

Tenants for Mercantile Buildings.

Frederick Fox & Co. have leased for Hellner & Wolf 7,000 square feet of space at 5 East Seventeenth Street, running through to 6 East Eighteenth Street, to Bayer, Pretzfelder Company; also, for T. H. Sperry, 5,800 square feet at 28 to 32 West Twenty-seventh Street to Jalkoff & Abrams; for Mamie Landauer, 5,000 square feet at 129 to 133 Wooster Street, corner of Prince Street to Levy Brothers; for A. Abrahams, 2,500 square feet of space at 38 West Twenty-eighth Street, for a term of years to J. A. Kondell; for the New York Manufacturers' Real Estate Company, the ground floor at 5 West Forty-third Street to S. Slimowitz, and for Samuel Hyman, the store and basement at 50 East Ninth Street.

W. H. Britigan has joined the office force of Joseph P. Day. Mr. Britigan has been connected for some time with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in the office of its Controller, Walter Stabler. Prior to that he was well known in real estate circles through his connection with the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, as its educational director, in which capacity he was largely responsible for the success of the organization's course of instruction in real estate.

Louis Kempner has moved his offices from 255 West Forty-second Street to Broadway and Eighty-ninth Street.

Brooklyn Properties Change Hands.

Green & Bailey announce the following sales of Brooklyn property: The two-family brick house 335 East Twenty-ninth Street, the three-story brick flat 330 Sixth Avenue, to Andrew F. Heenely for Charles H. Jourdan; the two-family brick house 1,318 Rogers Avenue to Sarah M. Carr.

Buyer for Lots at Merrick, L. I.

Abraham Nussbaum has sold for Jacob Vogelfanger twelve lots, 141 by 200, at the corner of Camp and Hendrickson Avenues, Merrick, L. I.

The Dunton Lodge Realty Company announces the sale of a plot 100 by 200, bounded by Atfield, Metropolis, and Van Siclen Avenues, Dunton Lodge, L. I., to I. N. Rogers of New York, who contemplates erecting a residence thereon at once; also, a plot on the west side of Atfield Avenue, 440 by 100, to the Dunton Construction Company, which is beginning the erection of two houses thereon.

FAVOR PEARY'S PROOF AGAINST DR. COOK

READY FOR PUBLIC SOON

Regard It as Absolutely Convincing—Revolt of the Roosevelt's Crew Denied—Relics Taken to Museum.

Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard, President of the Peary Arctic Club, returned yesterday from his visit with Commander Robert E. Peary at Eagle Island, and went into conference at his office, 60 Wall Street, with officers of the club. The statement which Commander Peary prepared last week regarding the assertion of Dr. Federick A. Cook that he discovered the north pole was read to the club officers by Gen. Hubbard and was approved by unanimous vote.

The club voted to have the statement sent out to the newspapers, to be released for publication early next week. It is understood that the arraignment of Dr. Cook is particularly strong, and that it convinced those of the club who heard it as finally disposing of Dr. Cook's assertion that he reached the boreal centre. In the statement Commander Peary, it is said, has embraced the positive assertions made to him by the two Eskimos who went with Dr. Cook to the effect that Cook declared to them that he proposed announcing that he had discovered the pole while he had not been far beyond land.

Asked as to the contents of Mr. Peary's statement, Gen. Hubbard said that no inkling of it would be revealed until the entire matter had been issued for publication.

"The statement will probably reach the newspapers the latter end of this week," said Gen. Hubbard, "but there will be a stipulation that no word of it may be printed until it is released, which will probably be on Monday or Tuesday of next week."

Peary Sure of His Ground.

"It may not be the final word," replied Gen. Hubbard, "but it will be a rather positive word, I think."

Gen. Hubbard brought to the Peary Arctic Club its official information that Commander Peary had reached the north pole. This resolution was passed expressing thanks to the explorer and the members of his party:

> Resolved, 1. That the Peary Arctic Club cordially welcomes home Commander Robert E. Peary, C. E., U. S. N., and congratulates him upon the attainment, April 6, 1909, of the north pole, crowning years of arduous arctic work, of devotion to ideals and of loyalty to country, and invites him to honor it with his company at dinner at a date convenient to him.
>
> 2. That the club tenders to the officers, scientific staff, and men of the expedition its thanks and appreciation for zealous performance of duty, which with superior discipline and excellent "team work" resulted in complete success.

The dinner to be given to Commander Peary will not be held until the controversy over the discovery of the pole has been adjusted.

Gen. Hubbard was averse to discussing Dr. Cook's claim to the polar discovery.

"It is not my place to take a part in the controversy other than I have brought back the statement of Commander Peary," he said. "I am not concerned in anything that Dr. Cook claims, and will not express any opinion. When Commander Peary's statement is issued the people will be able to decide. I do not feel called upon to try to influence public opinion in any way. I think Commander Peary's statement will stand for itself."

Gen. Hubbard consulted Herbert L. Bridgman, Secretary of the Peary Arctic Club, concerning a report printed in morning newspapers to the effect that some of the Roosevelt's crew were on the point of revolt because their wages for the last three months had not been paid.

"The fact is," said Gen. Hubbard, "that pay day had come while the crew was preparing to enter the Hudson-Fulton parade, and that the pay envelopes did not reach them on the 1st of the month. It was entirely an oversight, and has been attended to. The crew was paid off today. There was no revolt—there was no occasion for any. The crew perfectly well knew the reason for the delay. After today the crew will be free to go where it pleases. Most of the men will go to Newfoundland, where they live, and transportation has been provided them."

Doubts $1,000 Offer to the Crew.

"It has been stated that Commander Peary offered the crew $1,000 each if the pole was reached, and that this money has not been advanced," said a reporter.

"I know nothing of any such promise on the part of Commander Peary," replied Gen. Hubbard, "but if he did make it the money will be paid. I feel pretty sure, though, that Commander Peary did not offer any such incentive to the crew. It does not sound reasonable, for the crew had nothing to do but wait on the Roosevelt at Cape Sheridan while Mr. Peary and those of his various parties went out on their march further north."

When Gen. Hubbard was asked if he had read Dr. Cook's statement, made in Washington, on Sunday night, that he was willing to have the data bearing on his proofs to the reported discovery of the pole reviewed by American scientists simultaneously with those of the University of Denmark, he replied:

The relics of the arctic hunt by the members of the Peary party were removed yesterday from the Roosevelt and taken to the American Museum of Natural History. A wagon was used to transport the trophies, and two trips had to be made. In the collection are three sets of antlers, half a dozen skins of walrus, narwhal, and seal, one of the sledges that went to the pole, two pairs of snowshoes, a complete suit of outer garments worn by one of three Eskimos on the dash to the pole, and many small relics, such as ivory carvings made by the Eskimos. In addition to this, Commander Peary, it is expected, will later on send to the Museum a map outlining the course he took to the pole.

COPENHAGEN DISAPPOINTED.

Understands Cook Will Submit His Data Elsewhere First.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 4.—A report received here that Dr. Cook will request the University of Copenhagen to waive its claim to the first examination of the records of his journey to the north pole causes keen disappointment, and, whatever may be the reply of the university to the explorer's request, present indications do not foreshadow a graceful acquiescence on the part of the general public.

The rector of the university in the course of an interview to-day said:

"No such request has yet been received from Dr. Cook, and it is impossible to say what attitude the university would take toward a suggestion that American and other scientific bodies should first review the explorer's data. The action of the university would depend upon the reason Dr. Cook might give."

The general public is inclined to be annoyed at the suggestion that foreign scientific bodies shall first see the records. The people consider the promise to give the university here the first opportunity of passing upon them nothing but justice, in view of the honors heaped upon the explorer by both the university and the Danish public and their ungrudging support and belief in his exploits.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.—Just before Dr. Cook left his hotel here for the theatre, where he delivered a lecture to-night, the dispatch from Copenhagen relative to his reported intention to request the university of that city to waive its claim to the first examination of his records was shown to him. After reading the dispatch carefully he said:

"A wrong impression has been received in Denmark, as to just what I said in Washington last night, and it also seems not to have been perfectly understood in this country. I shall adhere to the original plan to have the University of Copenhagen make the first examination of my records, but I shall ask the university to withhold the announcement of the result of such examination until the records shall have been examined simultaneously by all the geographical societies of the world.

"Immediately after they have been examined by the University of Copenhagen, duplicate copies of my records will be submitted to all the geographical societies of the world and to any other scientific bodies desiring them."

Dr. Cook said he expected the final verdict of all scientific bodies on his records within six months, and that he would have learned of the judgment of the University of Copenhagen within about two months.

Archer M. Huntington, President of the American Geographical Society, when asked last night what the society would do now that Dr. Cook had consented to let American scientists review the evidence of his polar trip, said:

"I cannot answer that question at present, as we have received no word from Dr. Cook as to his decision. When we asked him to do just what he is now reported as being willing to do, his answer was that his proofs must go first to the Danes. Since then we have heard nothing from him officially."

OFFICIAL RECEPTION TO COOK.

Address of Welcome to Washington Made by Commissioner MacFarland.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—An official reception by the City of Washington, as represented by the District Commissioners, was tendered to Dr. Frederick A. Cook this morning at the District Building, which in Washington corresponds to a City Hall. About 3,000 came to shake Dr. Cook's hand, and a short address of welcome was made by Commissioner MacFarland. In his speech Mr. MacFarland referred to Dr. Cook as the man who had "carried the flag to the north pole."

"President Taft, Admiral Dewey, Gen. Greely, Admiral Schley, and other distinguished residents of Washington have expressed individually their appreciation of your great achievements," said Mr. MacFarland. "It is fitting that the entire National capital, through its executive Government, should give you a hearty welcome and cordial congratulations. This is the home of the American flag, which you carried to the north pole. It is the National city, where every American registers his greatest attainments and expects his greatest rewards. Frist honored in a foreign capital, you have come none too soon to receive honors in your own capital.

"The American people, at once idealists and realists, feel more than most peoples the appeal of such success as yours. Whether or not it has practical results, whether it will add to the money wealth of the world or only to its store of knowledge, they know that it adds to the moral wealth of the world, that it raises the courage of every man and makes it more possible for him to reach his goal. In conquering the arctic difficulties and enlarging the map of the world you have not only won the prize of exploration, but you have borne yourself throughout with the modesty and courtesy, as well as the courage and intelligence, of the true American."

Dr. Cook replied briefly that he appreciated the honor done him and that he had no words to express that appreciation. His remarks and the speech of the Commissioner were received with loud applause.

Just before the public reception a private meeting between the explorer and Mrs. E. S. Danenhower, mother of Lieut. W. W. Danenhower, who took part in the Jeannette expedition, was arranged in the private office of the Commissioner. Mrs. Danenhower is 86 years old.

Dr. Cook was the guest of honor this morning at a breakfast at the Metropolitan Club, tendered by F. O. Horstmann, who has long been a friend and companion of Harry Whitney, the hunter, to whom the doctor intrusted his instruments. There were ten guests at the breakfast.

Returning to his hotel from the Metropolitan Club, he found Commissioner MacFarland, William F. Gude, and several other members of a Reception Committee waiting to conduct him to the municipal building.

Dr. Cook did not call upon any of the officials of the National Geographic Society while here. He said he did not make these calls because he had to leave Washington for Baltimore at 11 o'clock to-day to fill a lecture engagement there.

He will return to Washington in about two months, after he has made a lecture tour of the country. He hopes by that time to have his data in shape for submission to geographical experts. All of his work on his records is done on the train between stops, his manager said today.

Dr. Cook will go from Baltimore to Pittsburg. He will reach St. Louis Wednesday, and will proceed that night to Kansas City. He will then double back to Chicago and lecture in some of the other cities of the Middle West before proceeding to the Far West.

WRIGHT ON PEARY AND COOK.

From The Evening Sun of Yesterday.

"Curtiss had experience lasting over a single season," some one suggested to Wilbur Wright, "yet but a day or two ago they were printing his picture alongside of yours as your rival, and sometimes as your probable peer."

But the verbal sally after a reply did not bring one—unless what Wright said next was a case of speaking in parables.

"You know this matter of Cook and Peary and the pole," he remarked. "Well, you just wait till the noise blows aside and see who the people pin their faith to. A man who works for the immediate present and its immediate rewards is nothing but a fool. There are some lecture profits to be taken down right now, and let the man take them who can.

"But as for me, I'm pinning my faith to Peary. The other man's story strikes me as a clever invention ingeniously put together. I should like to compare the latest chapters to Dr. Cook's previous writings and see how much of it he is actually penning himself.

"Now, the way I look at the case of Peary and Cook is this: The newspapers saw millions in it if they could get up a good row and could aggravate Peary into saying things that would make headlines. So they rushed Cook to the fore, and they stirred up just the liveliest kind of a row that they could, and when they got Peary to calling Cook names they got just what they were after."

PEARY IS RESTING.

Spends the Day on Eagle Island, Cut Off from the World.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 4.—Commander Robert E. Peary to-day was enjoying a thorough rest at his home on Eagle Island, twenty miles down Casco Bay.

He was isolated from telephone and telegraph and wholly uninformed of what was taking place in the world about him.

McFAUL RENEWS HIS ATTACK.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—Bishop McFaul, who stirred up a warm controversy some time ago by denouncing American universities as improper places for religious young men, to-day reopened the attack in a letter sent to the priests of the Diocese of Trenton. In it he said:

> In announcing the annual collection for the benefit of the Catholic University of America, (at Washington, D. C.,) let me draw the attention of the clergy and the laity to the danger of patronizing non-Catholic institutions of learning. Every one knows that it has been repeatedly stated on the best of authority that certain professors in our great secular universities deliver lectures calculated to subvert Christian faith and Christian morality.
>
> They assert that there is no God, at least as men heretofore conceived of him; no divinely given Ten Commandments; no church, and as for the Bible, one must be freed from all slavery to the sacred myths which it contains.
>
> It is needless to say that the christianity which these alleged scientific gentlemen attack is not christianity as expounded by the Catholic Church. They build up a straw religion of their own, and then take delight in knocking it down.
>
> When visiting our secular universities I have been amazed at the wealth they possess, and the generosity of their friends. At the same time I have been saddened at the thought of how little Catholics do in comparison with their non-Catholic brethren for the building up and the maintenance of higher education in this country.
>
> It certainly is provoking to learn of Catholic parents sending their sons and daughters for a year or two to Catholic institutions where the annual tuition is only between $200 and $300, then to hear them grumbling about the buildings, the food, the studies, and the teachers, and the next year to observe that they have selected some high-priced non-Catholic college or seminary, where the expenses range from $800 to thousands of dollars.
>
> I most earnestly exhort all Catholics, especially those under my charge, to patronize Catholic institutions, to support them generously, and if God has blessed them with sufficient means to offer large donations, that their usefulness may be extended and all those departments established which will eliminate every excuse for our young men and women to seek an education where the atmosphere is such that it may prove detrimental to their temporal and spiritual interests.

It is reported that the Bishop will take further steps toward diverting the children of Catholic parents from secular institutions.

UNCONSCIOUS IN ENGINE CAB.

Engineer on Pennsylvania Train Hit by a Stone Hurled by His Locomotive.

RAHWAY, N. J., Oct. 4.—Engineer William Cooper of the Pennsylvania Railroad met with a peculiar accident to-day, which rendered him senseless in the cab of his flier. The fireman noticed that something was wrong and he climbed to the other side of the cab and found Cooper lying apparently dead on the floor. There was an ugly gash in the man's head, and close beside him lay a good-sized stone.

In some manner the train, bound from Jersey City to Philadelphia, picked up the stone as it rushed along and it was hurled against the head of the engineer as he leaned out of his cab window. The train was nearing this city at the time and was traveling at about fifty miles an hour. The force of the stone as it struck Cooper knocked him to the floor of the cab, and the train, unguided, sped on at its terrific clip.

The fireman glanced across the cab, and not seeing Cooper, became alarmed. After reaching that side of the cab and seeing the engineer lying prone on the floor, he grasped the throttle, jammed down the brakes, and soon brought the train to a standstill about a block from the station here. Another engineer was sent for, and Cooper was carried into the office of Dr. Randolph. He recovered some time later and was then sent to his home in Jersey City.

GUARDED FRIEND'S PROPERTY.

Then Electric Light Men Put Pole Near Guardian's Own House.

Mrs. Sophie Levine, who lives at 344 Christopher Avenue, Brooklyn, and who owns both the house there and the one at 340, returned from a shopping trip yesterday afternoon to find her friend, Mrs. Abraham Weiner of 336 Christopher Avenue, arguing with a gang of men from the Edison Electric Light Company. The men were prepared to place an electric light pole before her home. Mrs. Levine, feeling that the presence of poles in the street would cause property values to depreciate, jumped into the hole already dug before Mrs. Weiner's door.

The presence of Mrs. Levine effectually prevented the placing of the pole in the hole, but while some of the men argued with her others managed to erect a pole in front of Mrs. Levine's own house. Mrs. Levine was indignant, and the crowd which had gathered, being in sympathy with her, attacked Policeman Ossman, whom the workmen had summoned from the Brownsville Station.

INSPECTOR INDICTED IN RACING CRUSADE

RACING CLUBS INCLUDED

Coney Island Jockey and Brooklyn Jockey Clubs, Pinkertons, Cavanaugh, and Alleged Bookmakers Accused.

Police Inspector John J. O'Brien, whose district includes the Sheepshead Bay and the Gravesend track, and two members of his staff, Sergt. Hugh Reynolds and Patrolman Hugh Meyers, were arraigned before Judge Dike in the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday on an indictment charging them with conspiracy. It then became known that the September Grand Jury has also indicted the Coney Island Jockey Club, the Brooklyn Jockey Club, four Pinkerton detectives, a special officer, John G. Cavanaugh, who has been known for many years as the master of the betting ring, and twenty-four alleged bookmakers.

All those named in the indictments are charged with the same offense in connection with the making and recording of bets at the race track. Only the accused police officials appeared in court yesterday. District Attorney Clarke was informed that the others would be on hand to-day. Warrants were issued on Friday by Judge Fawcett, when the indictments were returned by the Grand Jury, but as it was then decided that they would not be served until yesterday, this brief delay was taken by some in touch with the situation as an opportunity for the accused men to surrender themselves.

Inspector O'Brien had apparently been notified by some one that his presence was required in the Court House. He was there early, as were also the two accused men of his staff. Judge Fawcett was on the bench in the County Court when they arrived, and District Attorney Clarke was busy with the trial of the two men charged with the murder of Mrs. Staber in Flatbush. Judge Fawcett left the bench, and the Inspector was still waiting for developments when Judge Dike entered the court. A minute later Assistant District Attorney Elder appeared and the accused men were formally invited to the bar.

They waived the reading of the indictment, and pleaded not guilty. They were not represented by counsel, but Inspector O'Brien acted as spokesman for the three. Mr. Elder asked that bail be fixed at $1,500 each. The Inspector at this juncture interrupted with an assurance that there was no need of fixing bail in his case.

"I am a public officer, Judge, and there is no danger of my running away," he said.

"That's so," agreed Judge Dike. "I will parole you and the other two men in your custody."

The accused police were thereupon released on parole until Oct. 18, when their cases will come up for trial. They left the courtroom with several friends, refusing to talk on the action of the Grand Jury.

John B. Stanchfield, the counsel for the two racing associations now under indictment, was notified of the action of the Grand Jury. It was said yesterday that none of the officials of the racing associations are expected in court today. Counsel will plead for the indicted corporations. Many of the bookmakers who were named in the indictments yesterday are already out on bail under previous indictments charging them with bookmaking. But they will have to appear in court again, as the additional indictment charges them with conspiracy.

The evidence on which the indictments were found was obtained by George H. Peck, Harry Ward, and Francis Elworth, who were employed by the District Attorney's office. They swore that they gave bookmakers money on a certain date, and that this money was received and recorded by them as wagers. The racing associations are charged in the indictment with "knowingly permitting bookmaking at the tracks."

Others named in the indictments are David C. Thornhill, Albert Beutler, Seymour Beutler, and Emil F. Demmerle, the four Pinkerton men; George Mason, said to be a special officer; John G. Cavanaugh, Orlando A. Jones, Mark A. Reardon, Harry Cohen, Jerome Reardon, Joseph H. Vendig, William Snow, and John McPherson.
